TILL DEATH US PART.

BY DEAN STANLEY.

Till death us part,
So speaks the heart,
When each to each repeats the words of doom;
Through blessing and through curse,
For better and for worse,
We will be one till that dread hour shall come.

Life with its myriad grasp
Our yearning soul shall clasp,
Aye, ceaseless love and still expectant wonder;
In bonds that shall endure,
Indissolubly sure,
Till God in death shall part our paths asunder.

Till death us join,
O, voice yet more divine!
That to the broken heart breathes hope sublime
Through lonely hours,
And shattered powers,
We still are one, despite of change and time.

Death, with his healing hand,
Shall once more knit the band,
Which needs but that one link which none may sever.
Till, through the Only Good,
Heard, felt, and understood,
Our life in God shall make us one forever.

SUBSIDY'S DEATH LAID TO GREED.

Congressman Minor of Wisconsin Places the Blame for Defeat of Ship Measure on Ocean Combine.

PLANS FOR A NEW LAW.

Would Give Benefits to Owners of Small Craft as Well as Large, and Americanize Crews of Vessels.

SHIP SUBSIDY—Representative Minor of Wisconsin declares ship subsidy bill was killed by greed of shipping combine, who opposed benefits to small owners. Has plan for building up merchant marine and Americanizing of crews.

IMPORT DUTIES—Reid, Murdoch & Co. of Chicago ask Supreme court to review decision of lower courts making duty on "dirty" currants same as cleaned article. Packing firms denied rebate on borax used on exported goods.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET—Bryan comes out in favor of Chief Justice Walter Clark of North Carolina Supreme court as his choice for presidential candidate in 1904.

[BY RAYMOND.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—"If the large shipowners had not been so selfish and had been willing to accept a reasonable proposition, one which would have put large and small shipowners on the same footing, the subsidy bill would now be on the statute books," said Representative Minor, the Wisconsin member of the house merchant marine committee, today. "We can enact a law which will build up the American merchant marine if the shipping combine will agree to a proposition which will treat large and small owners alike, but as soon as it is proposed to give the benefits of a subsidy to the small owners, the representatives of the combine oppose the proposition and assert they care nothing about a subsidy.

"The combine is in a position to be more or less independent, but I suppose if we should provide for a subsidy they would accept their share of it without much objection. I am not opposed to a subsidy, provided we can authorize one which will build up the merchant marine and which can be honestly administered. Once our ships sailed on every sea, but now they have disappeared almost entirely as compared with the merchant marine of other nations. Therefore something should be done to rehabilitate our commercial fleets. I believe it will be done in the near future.

"Many propositions with this end in view have been advanced. One which seems to meet considerable favor proposes to allow a rebate of the tariff on all goods imported in American built ships. This is all poppycock and would not accomplish what we seek to do, which is to build up the merchant marine and create new markets. This scheme would be more favorable to the shipping trust than anything yet advanced. They have the control of practically all the transatlantic lines, and if a rebate should be allowed on all goods imported in American bottoms, the trust would undoubtedly derive all the benefit from the subsidy. This being true, it is doubtful if any new ships would be built and our markets would not be expanded.

"One of the best plans to encourage the building of new ships and create new markets, in my judgment, would be the payment of a graded subsidy for a limited number of years. For the ships constructed to transport American goods into new markets I would pay a large subsidy, while to ships built in American yards and engaged in the regular trade I would pay a smaller sum. The subsidy should be limited to a term of ten years on each new ship. Within that period the subsidy would pay the cost of constructing the vessel.

"If we should continue paying a bonus on a ship for a period longer than ten years, shipbuilding would stop. I would not wipe out the subsidy entirely in ten years, but would pay it to one ship for that time, and if the owners continued to build new vessels they could receive a subsidy for them. This would promote shipbuilding and induce owners to construct and keep afloat modern fleets.

"I would also Americanize the crews on our merchant vessels, and consequently those of the navy," continued Mr. Minor. "This could be done within three or five years by adopting a law providing that for the first year a certain percentage of the crews on American vessels should be Americans, and within three or five years the entire crew should be native or naturalized citizens. I would not crowd the shipowners to the wall, but would allow them ample time to meet the requirements which I hope congress will exact. By providing for the Americanizing of the crews of merchant vessels, owners and masters would, within a short time, be forced to pay American wages, and then our young men would enter the commercial fleets which should sail under our flag. Many young men in the United States are naturally sailors and would follow the sea, thus training men for the navy if they could secure fair pay.

"Under existing circumstances the factories pay larger wages than the masters and owners of vessels. Consequently our young men seek employment in the factories while foreigners man our ships. Congress has adopted a law which provides that a certain percentage of the crews of American vessels shall be native or naturalized citizens, but this is practically a dead letter because of the clause which authorizes masters to ship a foreign crew if a proper officer of the government certifies that he cannot secure one made up of Americans. It is undoubtedly true that advantage has been taken of this provision, and the masters ship foreign crews at lower rates of wages. That clause should be repealed, and we would soon have commercial fleets manned by intelligent Americans who would be prepared to enlist in the navy during the time of war or other emergency."

KNOTS TIED IN A HURRY.

RACINE IS THE LATEST GET MARRIED QUICK CENTER.

Court Commissioner Judd, Who Performs Ceremonies for So Much Per, Discovers a Kink in the Wisconsin Law and Seeks to Attract Doting Hearts to the North Shore Suburb—Elopers Welcome? Well, Yes!—He Even Advertises for Customers.

Parties to prospective elopements and other get married quick schemes in and about Chicago during the mating season of 1903 may take heart. A kind hearted individual—for a consideration—will act as their business agent and arrange the necessary details.

The person who holds out this hope to the fluttering hearts of those who consider expeditiousness an important part of matrimony is none other than a state official of Wisconsin, A. Cary Judd, court commissioner at Racine.

Mr. Judd has discovered that the Wisconsin law is not so strict on the subject of marriage as has hitherto been supposed, and he has outlined a few possible short cuts to wedded bliss in advertisements in the newspapers. Perhaps it is superfluous to add that Mr. Judd as well as being an attorney is a justice of the peace and a notary public, and marries couples every day at so much per.

Wants Chicago's Business.

Mr. Judd has his eye particularly on business from Chicago, and to that end he inserted his advertisement in Chicago papers announcing his ability to perform marriage services with neatness and dispatch. The advertisement read:

FOR INFORMATION WHAT TO DO BY PARTIES who desire a quiet marriage at Racine, Wis., address A. C. JUDD.

In Wisconsin the statute says that five days must elapse between the application for a marriage license and the ceremony. This has been inconvenient for Chicago couples, who are generally in a hurry and can devote only one day to marriage rites. But Mr. Judd has devised a scheme by which, for a consideration, you may obviate "the law's delay."

If you should wish to elope, for example, you write to Mr. Judd and take him into your confidence. He will send you a blank marriage license application form, which you will properly fill out, substituting the words "Illinois" and "Cook county" for "Wisconsin" and "Racine county," respectively. This you return to Mr. Judd, who thereupon will procure your license and marry you whenever you get time to run up to Racine. Mr. Judd says it makes no difference in what state the application is made, though he admits his inability to recall a court decision upholding his contention.

How Troubles Are Avoided.

Ordinarily you will have to wait five days after sending your application before you can spring your elopement. But if you are too impatient to brook a single day's delay, and if you have the price, Mr. Judd will undertake to wipe out even that five days and marry you on the spot. Mr. Judd is able to do all these things because of his friend, County Judge Max W. Heck, who can issue special marriage permits, good on the spot. County Clerk William Bell, who issues the licenses, also is his friend.

But matrimonial favors cost money in Racine, and Mr. Judd has a scale of prices something like this:

Arranging for ordinary license with five day stricture	$1.50
Obtaining special permit, good at once	Discretionary fee
Performance of ceremony at office, in railway station, or on steamer dock	Discretionary fee

Mr. Judd averages a marriage a day, and with his newly advertised scheme he expects to do a land office business this summer. He is keen for his chosen work, as was evidenced by his conversation yesterday with a TRIBUNE reporter.

Judd Tells the Way.

"You're not a reporter, are you?" demanded Mr. Judd after the greeting. "I don't talk to reporters——"

"Reporter? O, perish the thought—I want to get married, and quickly, too."

"Ah, fine!" exclaimed Mr. Judd, rubbing his hands. "Are you ready?"

"Well, no. You see I have a friend in Chicago—another man—and we are planning a double wedding."

"Great," exclaimed Mr. Judd, hitching his chair nearer. "And you are going to——"

Here he allowed one eye to close significantly.

"Yes, that's it—we are going to pull off a double elopement."

"By George! But you Chicago people never do things by halves, do you? Well, I'm just the man to fix you up. And nobody need be the wiser. Send me back these blanks, filled out—that'll be $1.50 each. Then you wait five days, although I have been known to get special permits good at once, you know. Then you let me know when you are coming. I can meet you at the station, or, if you come by steamer, I can marry you on the dock, and you can go on to Milwaukee without loss of time. How's that? That's business and dispatch, ain't it? Dollar and a half for the license and all other fees, of course—ahem—just what you consider the proper amount."

Best He Has in Stock.

"Well, what would you suggest for a real 'nobby' elopement?" was inquired.

"I tell you what, I fancy a steamer wedding—I can do the job with you standing on the bridge, if you like. The captain would be pleased, I know."

County Clerk Bell says that Mr. Judd "stands on good legal ground," and declares that he will issue licenses on all applications made in the manner the attorney prescribes.

HERDERS AND STOCK LOST IN MONTANA'S BLIZZARD.

Damage of at Least $5,000,000 Caused by Storm Now Raging—Flocks Abandoned to Their Fate.

Great Falls, Mont., May 19.—The heaviest cattle and sheep loss in the history of Montana, the damage of which will foot as high as $5,000,000, has been caused by the terrific snow storm which has been raging for the last three days. In some sections fully 90 per cent of the sheep on the ranges perished. Three herders at least wandered away in the blinding storm and were frozen to death.

It is difficult to get names. An aged herder employed by H. H. Wilson at Portage was lost on Sunday. Two more in the Shelby Junction country, employed by the Floweree Cattle company, are missing, and there is no hope that they can be found alive. Herders have abandoned their flocks on every hand and fled for safety to the settlements and ranches. Nothing like the fury of this storm has ever before been witnessed in northern Montana.

Of a consignment of 600 cattle, bound from Havre, all but 5 were found frozen stiff. Losses are reported on every hand, and this district will feel the effects of the losses for years.

THIRTY FAMILIES VICTIMS OF FIRE.

Seventy-five Persons Are Made Homeless by Blaze Causing $100,000 Loss in Lake View District.

COSTLY DELAY IN ALARM.

Nearest Engines Are Out and Flames Gain Great Headway Before Distant Companies Can Reach Scene.

Thirty families, numbering over seventy-five persons, were made homeless last night by a fire that raged in Dunning street and Seminary and Lill avenues. Twelve frame residences and flats, covering nearly an entire block, were destroyed before the firemen could check the flames. The total loss is estimated at $100,000.

Chance and the limited number of fire engines in the district allowed the flames to gain great headway almost unopposed. At 8:45 the fire department was called to Diversey and Lincoln avenues to a fire which proved insignificant. A moment later in came a "still alarm" from the fire in Seminary avenue. The nearest engine that could be reached then was No. 22 at Webster and Lincoln avenues, and it was ordered to the scene with a hook and ladder company from North avenue and Larrabee street, over a mile away.

The first firemen on the scene saw they were powerless to check the blaze and at 9:02, seventeen minutes after the fire started, a second alarm was sent in. The apparatus had a considerable distance to go, however, and more valuable time was lost before a sufficient number of engines were ready to fight the fire.

Losses on Buildings Burned.

The damage done by the flames was estimated in part as follows by the owners of the property:

William Egebert, owner of flat buildings at 455 to 465 Seminary avenue, $50,000.
J. H. Knause, owner of the two story houses, 469, 471, and 473 Seminary avenue, $15,000.
Mathew Newman, owner of building at 475 and 477 Seminary avenue, $10,000.
G. M. Stratton, owner of house at 479 Seminary avenue, $5,000.
E. J. Kurtz, owner of broom factory, $5,000.
Adam Pruin, owner of house at 1247 Lill avenue, $3,000.
A. Alexander, two story frame house at 1245 Lill avenue, $3,000.
Mathew Newman, one story brick house at 1243 Lill avenue, $500.
A. Silcox, two story frame house at 1248 Dunning street, $1,000.
Mary Kurns, two story frame house at 1246 Dunning street, $5,000.
Mary Rudd, one story frame cottage at 1238 Dunning street, $500.

Starts in Broom Factory.

The fire started in a broom factory at 471 Seminary avenue, owned by E. J. Kurtz. That building was doomed before the first engines arrived. Owing to the inflammable nature of the contents the flames spread rapidly to all parts of the building, which is a one story shed, and burning bunches of the broom corn were carried high in the air, setting fire to three double three story frame flat buildings, 455 to 465 Seminary avenue.

The occupants of these buildings, who were standing at the windows watching the burning broom factory, found their homes aflame over their heads before they were aware of any danger. They had barely time to pick up a few of their household goods and flee to the street before the houses were ruined.

A two story frame house at 1248 Dunning street, occupied on the first floor by Edward Hogan and on the second floor by A. Silcox, caught fire from the factory, and from there the flames spread to two other two story frame dwellings at 1246 and 1238 Dunning street, occupied by Mary A. Kurns, Prof. H. A. Herrick of the North Division High school, and Mrs. Mary Rudd. They were forced to leave their homes, saving little property.

In the meantime the flames had spread to two other frame houses at 469 and 471 Seminary avenue, but not until the tenants had removed most of the furniture and valuables to the street. Pieces of furniture and heaps of bedding littered the sidewalks.

Lill Avenue Buildings Catch.

The fire apparently was under control when a sudden gust carried sparks to a frame flat building at 475 and to two frame houses at 477 and 479 Seminary avenue and to frame houses at 1245 and 1247 Lill avenue. The Mathew Newman bottling works at 1243 Lill avenue also caught fire and the rear of the structure, a one story brick building, was burned.

Considerable excitement was caused when Patrick Ahern, who occupied the first floor at 471 Seminary avenue, was unable to find his 4 months old child. Mrs. Ahern, with her husband, had left the infant sleeping in a room while they went to the back porch to watch the fire. Seeing their home would soon be in danger they ran to find the baby, but it was gone. After a half hour's search the infant was found surrounded by a group of women who had heard it crying, half covered by sofa pillows and clothing belonging to persons driven out of their burning homes.

Woman Invalid Is Rescued.

Mrs. Marshal King, an invalid, living in the first flat at 461 Seminary avenue, was carried from the building by her husband with the assistance of the firemen. Mrs. Anna Chase, occupying the third floor at 459 Seminary avenue, fainted during the excitement and was carried from her home to a house across the street.

People who had carried their goods into the street reported a number of thefts to the police, but the crowd was so great the guilty ones could not be found. Broken dishes and mirrors littered the sidewalks. In the excitement a frenzied man appeared at a window on the third floor of one of the buildings and, amid the cheers of the crowds, hurled several armloads of chinaware to the street.

ONCE-A-DAY MILK DEADLY

HEALTH DEPARTMENT WARNS CONSUMERS OF DANGER.

Sends Letter to Heads of Wagon Drivers' Union Pleading for Some Change in Present Rules in the Interest of Babies' Lives—Hot Days Bring Complaints of Sour Lacteal Fluid and a Marked Increase in Infant Mortality Follows.

Unless immediate changes are effected in the methods of supplying Chicago with milk, the health department asserts that the public health will be seriously menaced and that a tremendous increase in infant mortality during the summer months will follow. The one delivery a day plan now being followed by drivers of milk wagons is held to be a danger. Further, citizens are warned to assure themselves that their milk dealer does not use bottles which are not properly cleansed before filling.

"The dirty milkman," the public is warned, "is more dangerous than the dishonest one."

Two deliveries of milk a day, it is held, are absolutely essential if infant health is to be protected. As it is the milk delivered in the city is thirty-six hours old, on the average, before it reaches the customer. The drivers make only a morning delivery, and thus the supply, already thirty-six hours old, must last for the following twenty-four hours.

Every warm day this spring has brought an increase of the complaints to the department concerning sour milk. The effects already are seen in a rising death rate among infants. At the close of last week it was reported that there had been during that period 184 deaths of children under 5 years of age, as against 138 during the previous week, or an increase of 33 per cent. As compared with the corresponding week of last year the increase was 43.7 per cent.

Urges Union to Relent.

In view of these facts Health Commissioner Reynolds has sent a letter to the heads of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union asking that the problem be given serious consideration. It is believed that the drivers will consent to the old plan of two deliveries if the gravity of the case is presented to them from the humanitarian side.

In addition the commissioner has sent letters to the heads of various philanthropic and charitable organizations asking their influence to this end.

In the Ghetto it is found that milk delivered in the morning absolutely cannot be kept for the succeeding twenty-four hours. Already three riots have occurred in the vicinity of Eighteenth street and Canalport avenue. Mothers have flocked to the depots of milk dealers demanding a fresh afternoon supply. As a result a number of dealers here have started the two delivery system. But their efforts have been blocked by members of the union.

"The problem is the most serious the department has faced in years," said Secretary Pritchard. "It is a matter of life and death. It is practically impossible to keep milk for twenty-four hours in the congested districts, and it is in these districts that the greatest infant mortality results. The people there seldom are able to purchase ice. We believe that the milk drivers will see the dangers of the situation and give the problem serious consideration."

Good Milk Saves Many Lives.

According to the department's statistics, close milk inspection during the last six years has brought a decided improvement in the milk supply of the city. During the previous six years, before stringent methods were enforced, there had been 66,003 deaths of children under 5 years of age in the city. During the six years now closing there have been but 51,046 such deaths. The under 5 years population, according to the federal census, increased 30 per cent between 1890 and 1900. So that, on this basis, instead of 51,046 deaths in the second six year period there would have been, had the earlier death rate continued, 85,083 deaths.

DOG THAT CAUGHT FUGITIVE TO FIGURE IN MURDER CASE.

Trial of John Kniat for Killing Leon Hintz in Pozen Last November Will Have a Novel Feature.

A big, brown mongrel dog, which, the state declares, tracked and captured a murderer as well as a thoroughbred bloodhound could have done, will figure in the murder trial of John Kniat, which was called before Judge McEwen yesterday and continued. In the afternoon Assistant State's Attorney Fake went to Pozen, the scene of the killing, and notified Charles Delinski, the dog's owner, to bring the animal into court.

Kniat is charged with stabbing Leon Hintz, 18 years old, on Nov. 17 last, in spite of Mrs. Hintz's struggles to protect her son. The trouble began with a quarrel in a saloon, and Kniat, seizing a knife, followed Hintz toward his home, at One Hundred and Forty-fourth street and Western avenue.

Mrs. Hintz stepped between the men, and, seizing Kniat by the shoulders, she pushed him back and pleaded with him not to continue the quarrel with her son. The latter stood so close behind his mother that Kniat could touch him with his hand. Reaching over her shoulder, Kniat, as her story goes, seized the young man by the hair and drew his head over his mother's shoulder. Then followed the knife thrust which severed Hintz's jugular vein.

Kniat fled and Mrs. Hintz fell fainting beside her son's body. Delinski had seen the fight, and, securing his dog, started the animal in pursuit of the fleeing man.

RISKS LIFE TO SAVE A WOMAN.

Flagman Sperain of Lake Street Line Carries Mrs. A. W. Wood from Before a Train.

Regardless of his own safety, Charles Sperain, flagman at the Central avenue (Austin) depot of the Lake street elevated railroad, jumped in front of a train yesterday and rescued Mrs. A. W. Wood, 410 North Pine avenue, Austin. He carried her from the track, but too late to escape being struck by the motor car of the train. Both were thrown to the ground beside the track and severely cut and bruised. Less than twenty feet away the woman's husband stood and saw her rescued from death. She had started to cross the tracks and failed to notice an approaching train.

POLICE SEEKING MISSING GIRL.

Myrtle Byrnes, 13 Years Old, Said to Have Desired to Become an Actress.

The police have been asked to find Myrtle Byrnes, 13 years old, 318 Ogden avenue, who has been missing since Friday noon. Miss Byrnes was a pupil at the Marquette school, and Friday afternoon, after eating her lunch at home, left for school, telling her mother that she would be home late, as she intended to visit a girl friend. The girl is a musician and is said to have been ambitious to become an actress.

STRIKES BAR TO $1,000,000 PLANT

Big Allis-Chalmers Improvement Is Abandoned, and the Labor Unrest Blamed for Change in Plans.

EMPLOYERS MUST UNITE.

Restaurant Owners Unite to Meet Employes' Demands; Metal Trades Reach an Agreement with Workers.

Business interests of the city have become alarmed at the constant strikes and labor controversies that have marked the last three months, and are refusing to enlarge their local plants, as many of them planned to do a year ago.

This new condition was brought prominently before Chicago labor leaders yesterday, when it was informally announced that the Allis-Chalmers company had definitely abandoned its proposed $1,000,000 improvement on the Frazer-Chalmers plant at Twelfth street and Washtenaw avenue. Members of the company acknowledge that they had changed their plans, but would not say positively that labor troubles were the sole cause of their action, fearing that such a statement would injure the city.

They expressed themselves as confident that organized labor would ultimately adjust itself to present economic conditions, and declared the desired change would probably be brought about by the organization of employers. Other business men took the same view during the day, for over 2,000 restaurant keepers banded themselves into an association to meet the demands of their employés, which are to be presented next week.

One Day's Labor Developments.

The other developments of the industrial world yesterday were as follows:

Beer wagon drivers employed by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing association struck for higher wages, causing dismay in over 100 saloons.

Brass workers, buffers and polishers signed an agreement with the Chicago Metal Trades' association that insures peace in that industry for one year.

Vice President Summis of the Blacksmiths' brotherhood will reach the city today to take up the present controversy in that trade.

Officers of the Pinkerton company succeeded in filling the places of their striking watchmen. Some of the strikers returned.

Laborers employed in the sheep house of Armour & Co. went on a strike, tying up that plant.

Peace negotiations between the laundry owners and proprietors were opened by President Schardt of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Strikers at Lassig plant of American Bridge company asked that men in other plants of same company be called out.

Gasworkers to try again to have discharged men reinstated; if they fail they say they will strike tonight.

Metropolitan "L" employés granted 10 per cent wage increase.

Allis-Chalmers Plans Changed.

Early in the afternoon a committee from the employés of the Allis-Chalmers company visited Supt. Neidemeyer of the Frazer-Chalmers plant to discuss a settlement of the strike there. Out of this meeting came the news of the abandonment of the proposed improvements. The company informed the men that it was anxious to have all the unions file wage and hour demands at once so that it can be assured of an end of the constant labor troubles that have harassed it for over two years. This met with the approval of the men, and another conference soon will be held.

It developed also that the company had decided to enlarge its local plants at a meeting of the directors eight months ago. The scheme provided for the building of new mills at Twelfth street and Washtenaw avenue that were to cost between $900,000 and $1,000,000. Six weeks ago the directors met again and reluctantly dropped their plans.

Among the reasons advanced was the present turmoil in labor circles. The company has been fought by several of the most powerful unions in the country. It has had its agreements broken, its men called on strike for trivial reasons, and has suffered heavy losses as a result.

Will Not Admit Reason.

When asked whether labor troubles were the sole cause of the change in plans, P. W. Gates of the company refused to commit himself.

"I do not think it best to make such a statement," he said.

"Do you believe this present condition will become permanent?" he was asked.

"No; for the business interests of the city will force a change," came the reply. "It is simply a question of when the citizens become alive to the conditions. Now politicians and citizens are making capital out of labor, but they cannot continue to do so.

"Capital is now unorganized and it will have to band together. It is being aroused to the necessity of such action and I look to see a change. When a fire gets started it takes a good department to put it out, and it will take a good organization of employers to stop the present labor fire, but it will be stopped."

Bridge War to Be Renewed.

The unions are to renew war against the American Bridge company. Its Chicago employés profess to hope that the 30,000 workers in the various shops throughout the country may be induced to strike. Ten days ago the inside bridge and structural iron workers in the Lassig division of the company—Fullerton avenue and the Northwestern tracks—struck because of alleged discrimination, and demanded a nine hour day.

Last night the strikers met and ordered their business agent to call out the union employés at the American division of the company, Fortieth street and Princeton avenue. They also ordered him to ask their international president, Frank Buchanan, to call a strike on all the plants of the company.

At present there are 1,100 men out in the Lassig division, and the business agent will ask the 500 employed at the American division to join them before tonight. The company has large mills in Pittsburg and throughout the east.

Gasworkers Discontented.

The gasworkers employed by the People's Gaslight and Coke company met last night at 171 Calhoun place and decided to make one more attempt to get the company to reinstate the men who were dropped during the recent controversy. This attempt will be made by representatives of the Chicago Federation of Labor. If it fails a strike is the next thing on the program.

A committee of the employés met President G. O. Knapp of the company yesterday afternoon. It requested him to reinstate the men. He replied that if they would come to him individually he would give them positions as soon as possible. The men wanted all of the employés reinstated at once, and were not satisfied with the company's reply.

Peace on "Polly L."

Employés of the Metropolitan Elevated railway company were granted a 10 per cent wage increase yesterday by an arbitration board consisting of Harry Taylor, arbiter; Wallace Heckman, representing the company; and Thomas I. Kidd, representing the men. The decision in part is as follows:

The company must deal with the union through its officers and must not discriminate against its members. The union promises not to forbid its members from working with nonunion men, but it may try to induce them to join.

All employés are to be paid for no less than ten hours' work, which must be completed within thirteen consecutive hours.

There shall be no strikes, sympathetic strikes, or lockouts, and all disputes shall be settled by arbitration if the union and company cannot agree.

Motormen are to get 25, 27½, and 28½ cents an hour, according to rank.

Acting motormen are to get 25 cents an hour after sixty days of service.

Conductors are to get 21 cents an hour.

Regular guards are to get $1.65 a day for nine hours' work, and 18¼ cents an hour for time over this.

Shopmen who have been with the company since Jan. 1 are to get a 10 per cent increase, if they have not received an increase since Jan. 1, 1902. Those who have received one are to be raised to the 10 per cent standard.

Beer Wagon Drivers Strike.

The beer wagon drivers employed by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing association of St. Louis caused dismay in the beer saloons of the city during the day by refusing to make any deliveries until the company grants them the union scale of wages.

Their action deprived over 500 saloons of either barrel or bottle beer, and nondescript wagons of every class were sent out to get supplies. Some of the saloons ran out of draft beer at noon, others of bottle beer in the evening, and none was able to get its customary orders filled.

The drivers have been restive for two weeks. The Milwaukee and Chicago Brewers' association signed the scale a month ago, but the Anheuser-Busch company is not a member of the organization and would not follow suit. Yesterday morning Business Agent Barney Probst informed Manager F. Sontag that he must give in or have a strike, and when Sontag refused to yield deliveries ceased. The men want $80 a month for peddlers, $70 a month for drivers, and $60 for helpers. They will accept no compromise. They have picketed the two stations of the company at Grand Crossing and Canal and Harrison streets and say they will continue the fight until they win.

Labor Agreement Is Signed.

During the day the brassworkers, buffers, polishers, and platers met with Secretary Paul Blatchford of the Chicago Metal Trades association and signed the following agreement:

A nine hour day, except in June, July, and August, when the proposition of a fifty-four hour week shall depend on its indorsement by the workers in a referendum. It will be granted to those shops demanding it.

Those men working since Jan. 1 and getting 25 cents an hour are to be raised 10 per cent, those getting between 25 and 28 cents are to be raised 5 per cent.

Those men who have been employed since Jan. 1 and not later than April who are getting 25 cents an hour are to be raised 5 per cent, while those getting between 25 and 28 cents are to be raised 2½ per cent.

There is to be no discrimination, and all disputes are to be settled by arbitration.

The agreement includes over forty shops and about 600 men.

Secretary Blatchford received word from President John Slocum of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths during the day that Vice President Summis of Cleveland had been ordered to report at Chicago to settle the trouble that is tying up over fifty shops and keeping over 500 men out of employment. He will reach the city today.

Restaurant Keepers Band Together.

The Employers' association succeeded in uniting over 2,000 restaurant keepers into an organization yesterday. Previously each section of the city save that in the loop had an independent organization, but now all have joined the Chicago Restaurant Keepers' association. This is formed primarily to meet the demands of the Cooks and Waiters' union for a 20 per cent wage increase.

The employés will file their demands next week and ask that they be granted before the close of the month.

Pinkertons Going to Work.

The "strike" of the Pinkerton watchmen is fading out. Thirty of the fifty strikers went back to work last night and the rest are hoping they will have a chance to return to the fold tonight. The officials of the company took the strike of their men as a joke. The labor leaders of the city refused to become parties to it and, left alone, the watchers tried to conduct their own campaign, which one of them said was "a dismal failure."

An official of the Pinkerton service said: "We have examined the pay rolls and find the wages of the watchmen averaged between $16 and $21 a week."

Many Street Laborers Strike.

Over 1,000 street laborers struck yesterday afternoon and evening on the various street jobs throughout the city. They want a nine hour day, 25 cents an hour, and time and a half for overtime. They have recently organized a union.

The union barbers employed on the south and west sides will put a new hour schedule into effect today. They will appear for work at 7 a. m. and stop at 8 p. m. On Saturday they will quit at 10 p. m. and on Sundays at noon. The firms not willing to concede these demands will suffer from a strike.

OWNERS WORK IN THE SUDS: SAVE LINEN FROM MILDEW.

Laundry Proprietors Go to Relief of Plant Harassed by the Strikers—Possibility of a Settlement.

Linen to the value of $2,000 was saved yesterday in the Square laundry, 532 Fulton street, when five of the leading laundry owners of the city handled the wash which F. H. Hotchkiss, the proprietor, had in soak and which was about to become mildewed. One of the owners served in the boiler room, two others mixed suds in the tubs, while Hotchkiss and two others handled the mangles.

Outside the door a crowd of pickets gathered waiting for an opportunity to peek through the closed blinds and see their employers at work. So anxious were they to get a view that the policemen on guard found it difficult to keep them back.

Those who aided in the work were Roderick Robertson of the West Lake laundry, 2223 State street; Albert Severinghaus of the G. A. R. laundry, 787 Milwaukee avenue; F. H. Hartless of the Austin steam laundry, Fifty-first avenue and Lake street; and P. J. Wightman of 203 Armitage avenue.

During the afternoon there developed a possibility of settlement, the owners calling on President Schardt of the Chicago Federation of Labor and asking him to take up the dispute and attempt to bring about a settlement. They were willing to arbitrate all questions in dispute, they said. The scheme suggested provides for the employment of only union help after Nov. 1.

Later in the day President Schardt held a conference with Business Agent Wilson of the union and it is probable that the owners, the officers of the union, and the executive board of the Chicago Federation of Labor will hold a joint meeting today and arrange for a series of peace conferences.

The Chinese caught the strike fever yesterday and the thirteen men employed by Will Moy, 396 Fifty-first street, were afflicted. They declared that during the last three weeks they have been working from fourteen to nineteen hours a day and have not received a wage increase. They assert that Moy will not give them more than from $9 to $14 a week, and they want at least 25 per cent more. During the day Moy telephoned the Hip Lung company on South Clark street, and it ordered the strikers to return to work. This they did, but not without grumbling.

BOY WHO UPSETS A "MURDER MYSTERY."

E. C. REICHWALD. WILLIAM HARRISON.

Eighteen months ago, when young Harrison disappeared from his parents' home at Breedsville, Mich., the neighbors almost mobbed his father and mother, believing they had murdered him. Now the youth has returned from foreign lands. Mr. Reichwald is a friend of the family, and caused the accompanying photograph to be taken, the purpose being to send it to Breedsville, where Mr. Reichwald is known, to convince the doubting neighbors that young Harrison really is alive. He will return to Michigan soon.

ENJOINS A GAS STRIKE.

DENVER JUDGE ACTS; MEN SAY NONE WAS PLANNED.

Engineers and Firemen at Plant Insist They Were Not Ordered Out—Many Industries in City Resuming Operations with Nonunion Help—John C. Driscoll of Chicago Team Owners' Association Attempts to Settle Local Troubles.

DENVER.—District court judge issues injunction restraining engineers and firemen from striking at gas plant. Men say they did not propose to go out. John C. Driscoll of Chicago attempts to settle general trouble.

ILLINOIS.—Herman Justi, labor commissioner for Illinois Coal Operators' association, says relations with miners were never better.

Denver, Colo., May 19.—Judge Bailey of the District court of Fremont county has issued an order enjoining the engineers and firemen employed by the Denver Gas and Electric Light company from going out on a sympathetic strike.

The order provides that the company is under the jurisdiction of Judge Bailey's court, being in the hands of a receiver. The men affected by the order say they had no intention of going out, for the general labor committee had exempted them from the strike order.

Late this afternoon Judge P. L. Palmer in the District court granted an injunction to the United States Colortype company against the Denver Pressmen's and the Pressmen's Assistants' unions from violating their contract with the company or passing any resolutions ordering out the employés of the company within fifteen days.

Boycotted houses in various lines are resuming business with nonunion forces as rapidly as possible, but labor leaders assert that there are no fewer than 7,000 members of unions still out.

John C. Driscoll, secretary of the board of arbitration and Associated Teaming Interests of Chicago, is here using his influence for the settlement of the strike. This morning he had a conference with members of the teamsters' union, and this afternoon he addressed a meeting of the Citizens' alliance. He met the members of the general executive committee of organized labor tonight. He expresses strong hope of a speedy adjustment of the troubles.

Miners in Illinois at Peace.

Springfield, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Herman Justi of Chicago, representing the Illinois Coal Operators' association, is here in consultation with W. D. Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the United Mineworkers of Illinois, and finally settled several points in the mining agreement formulated at the state convention held here last February. The question of shot fires for the mine at Auburn was not brought up and will be settled by the district joint committee. Mr. Justi said that he was well satisfied with the outlook for the remainder of the year, and that relations of operators and miners in the state were never in greater accord than at present.

Women Hatmakers Out.

Wabash, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—About 100 girls employed in the hat factory of N. Meyer in this city struck to day for an increase in wages. They asked for a 20 per cent increase, which was denied them. The women are trying to enlist the support of organized labor of the city. There are 200 men still at work.

Strike Notices Are Posted.

Charleston, W. Va., May 19.—Notices have been posted at all the mining operations in the New river and Loop creek field declaring a strike among the miners and calling upon all to cease work until the union demands are agreed to by the operators.

U. P. Strike Reported Settled.

Cheyenne, Wyo., May 19.—It was declared today that the Union Pacific strike had been settled and that the strikers have won every point. The report stated that all nonunion men now in the Union Pacific shops will be turned out. The strikers here have been celebrating their supposed victory. Inquiry of Supt. W. L. Park and Master Mechanic Miland tonight brought out the response that they knew of no settlement.

Yale Strike Breakers Only in Fun.

New Haven, Conn., May 19.—[Special.]—President Hadley of Yale today declared the protest against Yale students figuring as strike breakers in the teamsters' strike exaggerated in importance. "A few students have driven trucks for an hour or two only as a piece of thoughtless fun," he said. "I have indicated that what looks like fun to them may be a serious matter to others, and I do not think they are likely to continue the practice."

SCHOOL CHILDREN MAY STRIKE.

Demand Shorter Hours at New Haven and Their Petition Is Refused by Superintendent.

New Haven, Conn., May 19.—[Special.]—The New Haven Schoolboys' union was formed in this city today, and immediately made a demand on Supt. Beede of the public schools for better hours. Thirty boys from the Webster public school joined the union. In their petition to Supt. Beede the boys stated they wished the hours changed so there will be but one session—from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m.—instead of the present schedule of two sessions—from 9 a. m. to 12 m. and from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. Supt. Beede refused the demands. A meeting has been called for tomorrow to consider the advisability of a strike.

SEEKS TREASURER AND MONEY.

Drivers' Union Wants Relatives of Treasurer Enjoined from Opening a Safety Deposit Box.

The executive board of the Newspaper Delivery and Mail Drivers' Union No. 5 filed a bill yesterday in the Circuit court asking that the Fidelity Safe Deposit Vault company be restrained from allowing the relatives of David F. Williams, who is alleged to have disappeared with $2,900, from opening Williams' deposit box that was rented from the company. A portion of the missing money and the indemnity bond, the officers of the union declare they believe are hidden in the deposit box.

IOWAN OPPOSES REVISION.

JOHN F. LACEY USES LIFE OF HENRY CLAY TO POINT MORAL.

In Speech at Grant Club Banquet at Des Moines the Congressman Tells of the Original Protectionist—Says Every Attempt to Revise Tariff Has Caused Financial Distress—Thinks That of All Measures the Dingley Bill Is the Best.

Des Moines, Ia., May 19.—[Special.]—At the banquet of the Grant club here tonight Congressman John F. Lacey delivered an address on Henry Clay, in which he characterized Clay as the original protectionist and coupled his name with that of Lincoln, McKinley, and Roosevelt. He used Clay's career to demonstrate the necessity for protective tariff.

Mr. Lacey's address was an extended one, and he reviewed the career of Henry Clay in considerable detail.

"It was during a debate on the proposal to forbid the citation of any English law in an American court," said Mr. Lacey, "that Mr. Clay sounded the keynote of protection, by a resolution that the members of the legislature should wear only American clothing, and he wore with pardonable ostentation garments of purely domestic manufacture. He was proud of his Kentucky jeans. This question led to a personal assault by Humphrey Marshall, and a duel in which they were both wounded.

"And so it happened that Clay shed his first blood for protection, a cause which he always fondly denominated the 'American system.' He regarded a clothing schedule as sufficiently sacred in those days to be willing to die for it."

Early Conditions Repeated.

Continuing, Mr. Lacey said: "The revenue tariff, prior to 1824, was the Wilson law of that day. The tariff of 1824 corresponded to the Dingley act of the present time. Mr. Clay said:

"'If I were to select any term of seven years which exhibited a scene of the most widespread dismay and desolation, it would be exactly that term of seven years immediately preceding the tariff act of 1824.'

"Then he said by contrast: 'If the term of seven years were to be selected of the greatest prosperity which this people have enjoyed since the establishment of their present constitution, it would be exactly that period of seven years which immediately followed the passage of the tariff of 1824."

Revision Always Disturbing.

Coming down to present day tariff issues, Congressman Lacey said:

"In my public life I have seen four revisions, or attempted revisions, of the tariff. The Mills, McKinley, Wilson, and Dingley bills have all in turn occupied the attention of the country, and everybody knows the depression that attends a tariff agitation and general revision.

"In 1896, after having gone through so much tariff agitation, the party at St. Louis demanded the repeal of the Wilson law, and then used this instructive language: 'We are not pledged to any particular schedule. The question of rates is a practical question, to be governed by the conditions of the time and of production; the ruling and uncompromising principle is the protection and development of American labor and industry. The country demands a right settlement and then it wants rest.'

"It has had a settlement and since then has had work for the laborer and rest from tariff agitation.

"There are some who are willing to try the experiment of depriving the country of this rest even at the risk of giving abundant leisure once more to our workingmen.

"The result is the same whether protection is removed by friends or enemies.

"No doubt there are schedules in the Dingley act that are imperfect. So there have been in all tariff laws. So there will be in the next one. In time every tariff must be revised and changed.

Dingley Law Is the Best.

"Measured by this fairest of all tests, the worst tariff act ever placed upon our statute books was the Wilson law, and, judged by the same just standard, no law has ever brought us as good results as the Dingley act.

"Reciprocity has for many years been a cardinal principle of republican faith. I believe republicans universally favor reciprocity, as heretofore announced in our platform, but by this they do not mean giving much for little or something for nothing.

"I believe that no better declaration of our party principles can be drawn than that so clearly stated by President Theodore Roosevelt. What is best for the United States is best for the republican party."

CLEVELAND TRACTION MERGER.

Consolidated Company Will Have Capital of $23,500,000 and Issue Universal Transfers.

Cleveland, O., May 19.—An agreement was reached today at a conference between President M. A. Hanna of the Cleveland City railway company and President Horace Andrews of the Cleveland Electric railway company which will result in the amalgamation of their interests and the placing of every street car line under one management.

While the name of the new company has not been selected, it is understood that it will have a capitalization of not less than $23,500,000. Senator Hanna will, it is said, be the chairman of the board of directors, while Horace E. Andrews will be named as president.

The consolidated company will issue universal transfers, it is said, but there will probably be no reduction in fare, as originally proposed by the promoters of the big deal. The latter desired to sell seven tickets for 25 cents instead of eleven for 50 cents, the present rate, in order to discourage the construction of a system of 3 cent fare lines, which Mayor Johnson is credited with being largely interested in.

Quarrel Over Religious Printing.

J. E. Perry secured an injunction in Judge Tuley's court yesterday restraining Henry L. Lawrence, head of the Christian Zionists' mission, from molesting his printing office at 478 State street. Attorney T. J. Symmes, representing Perry, told the court that Lawrence had threatened to have Perry thrown out of the printing office, where circulars relating to the work of the Christian Zionists' mission are printed.

BOY COMES BACK; CLEARS MYSTERY.

Parents Had Been Suspected of Murdering Young William Harrison.

THREATS FROM A MOB.

While Youth Was Wandering Father and Mother Faced Accusers in Michigan.

The great "murder mystery" of Breedsville, Mich., which has kept the villagers and farmers agog for more than eighteen months, and resulted in the "moral conviction" and practical ostracism of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Harrison, has been solved.

Within a few days William Harrison, the supposed victim, will return home to confront the accusers and persecutors of his parents. Young Harrison is now in Chicago, and has informed his parents of his whereabouts.

Since his disappearance from home the youth has roved about the earth, seeking adventure, unwitting of the trouble into which his unexplained absence plunged his parents. During that time also the Breedsville farmer knew nothing of the whereabouts of the boy, and could make no satisfactory answer to his neighbors when they demanded an account of his son.

Boy Leaves, Then a Storm.

Young Harrison left home in November, 1901, but it was not until the following May that the excitement over his absence reached its height. The Harrison family had but recently moved to Breedsville from Chicago and Mr. Harrison did not make acquaintances readily among his neighbors. He was an invalid and his reticence and ill nature at times had not inspired confidence in him.

Thus it was that the community was ready to believe all that rumor had to say of the disappearance of the boy, and the wave of popular feeling finally compelled Deputy Sheriff Britton of Van Buren county to visit the farm, armed with a warrant for Harrison's arrest.

The deputy sheriff could not find sufficient evidence to warrant him in serving the warrant and the farmers and villagers arose in protest. Events reached a crisis about the middle of May a year ago, when only the appearance in Breedsville of Edward C. Reichwald, a Chicago commission merchant, saved the Harrisons from mob violence.

When Reichwald, who had known Harrison in Chicago, reached Breedsville, he found the place in a turmoil. On the street the villagers and farmers had gathered in groups, talking of the prolonged and unexplained absence of the boy. Some were provided with spades with which to dig up the ground of the Harrison farm in quest of the body, which, rumor had it, was concealed there.

Story of Strange Cries.

The declaration of a woman that on the night of the boy's disappearance she had heard cries of distress from the Harrison home helped fire the indignation of the people, and a leader only was needed to bring the mob down on the farmer. Reichwald knew many of the more influential men of the village and of the farming district, and informed them that Harrison was to be trusted. All that day and night he went among the farmers and townspeople pleading with them to be just, and so quieted the mob spirit.

Before Reichwald left the place at the end of a week the Harrisons were out of danger of violence, but among the farmers the feeling still remained that there was much to be explained in the absence of the boy.

The neighbors thereafter held aloof from the Harrisons, and the farmer found it impossible to sell his produce in Breedsville, and was compelled to seek a market in Bangor, several miles away, or in South Haven, seven miles distant.

Mother Tells of Woes.

In a letter just received by young Harrison from his mother the story of their trials is told.

"Sheriff Britton came to our home with a warrant in his pocket for your father's arrest," she wrote, "but he could find nothing. After awhile the clamor died down, but everywhere we went we knew that they looked down upon us. When I got your first letter I showed it to some neighbor women, and they all said it was a nice letter. Afterward people claimed that the letter was made up by Mr. Reichwald.

"I will be so happy when you get home, and we can show them all that they were mistaken."

Boy Visits Other Lands.

While his parents were thus struggling against unreasoning prejudice the boy was making his way about the world. After leaving home because of a quarrel with his father he came to Chicago. Remaining here a short time, he stole a ride on a freight train to New Orleans, and then went into Texas.

Returning to New Orleans, he shipped for Cape Town and enlisted in the British army there. Later he returned to New Orleans and reshipped for south Africa.

On this voyage out he broke his ankle, and remained on the ship without the attendance of a surgeon until the vessel, after touching at the Cape, went north along the west shore to the Cape Verde islands and thence to Quebec.

In Quebec he remained in a hospital for several months, and finally made his way back to Chicago last October. He found employment with the Chicago Typesetting company, and it was not until a month ago that he wrote home, and then the authenticity of his letter was doubted.

Pictures Taken as Proof.

Other letters followed between the boy and his mother, and Mr. Reichwald also wrote a number of letters to friends in Breedsville assuring them of the genuineness of the boy's letters. Later he had a photograph taken of himself and the boy, and copies of the photographs have been sent to Breedsville.

"It's awful to think of the trouble my parents have been through," said young Harrison yesterday. "Suppose I had been killed while away. They could never have proved that the suspicions against my parents were false."

Young Harrison is now 18 years old and has no taste for life on a fruit farm. "Father was sick and of course cranky at times, and I was hotheaded and we quarreled," he said.

Before removing to the Michigan farm the Harrisons lived at Madison and Robey streets, where Harrison had a tailor shop. There they knew Reichwald, whose friendship stood them in such good stead.

PRIMARY LAW UP TO PEOPLE.

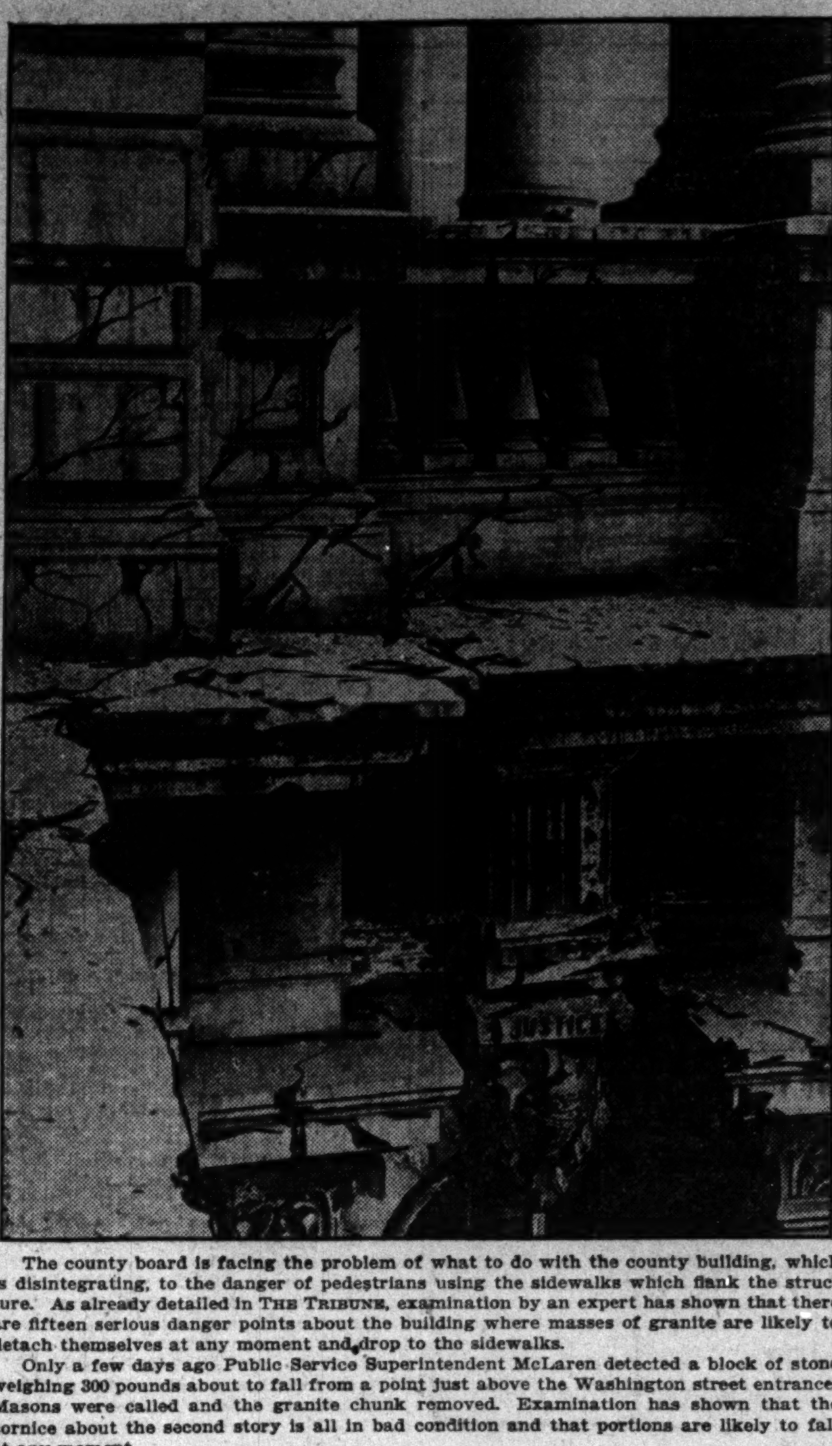
Wisconsin Senate Approves Measure and the Voters Will Have Chance to Adopt It.

Madison, Wis., May 19.—The senate this evening concurred in the primary election measure as passed by the assembly, referring the whole matter to a vote of the people, who will decide as to the merits of the bill at general election next year. The new law applies to city and county officers and to eight state officers, including governor and the members of both houses of the legislature. Congressmen are to be nominated by the old method, and a convention will be held for the framing of the state platform. The referendum plan applies to all except county and city offices.

Girl Blows Out Gas and Dies.

In America only a short time, and in Chicago one day, Sarah Hanson retired to her room at 221 West Huron street Monday night and blew out the gas. Yesterday the young woman was found unconscious. Doctors were summoned, but before they arrived the young woman died. Miss Hanson, who was 21 years old, arrived in Chicago with her brother on Monday and went to live with friends in West Huron street.

CRUMBLING COUNTY BUILDING A DANGER.



The county board is facing the problem of what to do with the county building, which is disintegrating, to the danger of pedestrians using the sidewalks which flank the structure. As already detailed in The Tribune, examination by an expert has shown that there are fifteen serious danger points about the building where masses of granite are likely to detach themselves at any moment and drop to the sidewalks.

Only a few days ago Public Service Superintendent McLaren detected a block of stone weighing 300 pounds about to fall from a point just above the Washington street entrance. Masons were called and the granite chunk removed. Examination has shown that the cornice about the second story is all in bad condition and that portions are likely to fall at any moment.

The Randolph street corner was patched two years ago after a chunk of stone weighing 500 pounds fell into the street. It is figured that the patching now required will cost $1,500.

CHARGE FIRES TO PLOT.

BLAZES AT BATTLE CREEK, MICH., LAID TO INCENDIARY.

Many Large Buildings Owned by Seventh Day Adventists Are Burned in a Short Time—Two Persons Killed—Members of Sect See Omen and Plan to Go—Coroner's Jury Begins Inquiry—If Owners Do Not Move, Authorities Will.

	Loss.
Milwaukee	$125,000
Glenshaw, Pa.	100,000
St. Johns, N. F.	50,000
Bay City, Mich.	100,000
Kenton, O.	100,000
Pittsburg	100,000

Battle Creek, Mich., May 19.—[Special.]—It is believed that the scourge of fire that has been destroying one big building after another owned by the local Seventh Day Adventists, representing over $1,000,000 worth of damage, has been the work of incendiaries, and possibly religious fanatics.

Within a short time fire has destroyed the following Adventist institutions in Battle Creek: A large sanitarium, the largest printing house in Michigan, a six story brick hospital, two health food factories, one large laundry, the original sanitarium cottages, the power plant for the orphans' home, and the barns of the sanitarium. Two lives have been lost.

It has been known that the health food factory was set on fire and officials say they know who fired the Review and Herald printing plant. There is not the shadow of a doubt that the destruction of the sanitarium barns yesterday was planned. This morning firemen found the remains of J. B. Paul of Hume, Kas., in the ruins. Paul was a patient, but had gone to spend the night with the caretaker. He was 66 years of age and well to do.

A coroner's jury was chosen, and it is thought they will recommend a warrant for manslaughter.

Officials, who think they know who started the fire, claim he is not identical with the Review and Herald firebug, who is not in the city now, and outsiders believe the effort to destroy Adventist property is an organized one. If the Adventists will not push an investigation on the ground that the fires are the will of God, the civil authorities will undoubtedly do so.

Prophetess White declares these fires are a sign that the Adventists shall leave Battle Creek, the city in which she founded the sect. The Adventist college and printing business have already been removed.

GERMS ON DOGS AND CATS

SCHOOL AUTHORITIES WARN CHILDREN AGAINST THEM.

Notices Posted Today Will Call Attention to the Increase of Hydrophobia and the Danger of Diphtheria or Scarlet Fever Contagion—Miss Anna H. Schneider, Who Preferred Seven Charges Against Miss Blanks, Herself to Be Tried.

Small boys must "let sleeping dogs lie"; they mustn't even be friendly with wide awake and shy looking canines. Little girls must curb their sympathies and not fondle stray cats. These instructions were sent out from the board of education rooms yesterday when Superintendent of Compulsory Education Lester W. Bodine ordered "warnings" against the danger posted in all the schools.

The order of Supt. Bodine against the dogs was the result of resolutions drawn up by Trustee Wladyslaw A. Kuflewski and passed by the school board calling the attention of parents to the prevalence of hydrophobia, and ordering that all children be warned against petting stray dogs. Supt. Bodine and Commissioner of Health Reynolds decided that the canines should not be discriminated against in favor of felines, and as a result the cats are mentioned.

Following Lake Forest Example.

Supt. Bodine is following the example of the Lake Forest health department in including cats in the order. Following is the notice that will be posted in all schools today:

> WARNING TO CHILDREN.
>
> There Is Danger in Petting Stray Dogs.
>
> Hydrophobia is increasing throughout the city and many of the dogs running at large are affected with it. Dogs and cats frequently come from rooms where scarlet fever, diphtheria, and other contagious diseases exist, and can transmit germs to children who fondle them.

Accusing Teacher to Be Tried.

Miss Anna H. Schneider, the teacher who preferred seven charges against Miss Ellen K. Blanks, head assistant at the Holden school, will herself be tried by the school management committee. This announcement was made at the board rooms. It was declared that Miss Blanks was ready to prefer counter charges. Among these will be the charge that Miss Schneider neglects her work to write voluminous letters to the officials complaining that she is being persecuted by those above her.

LAWYER ATTACKED: SHOOTS 2.

When Set Upon in His Office by Divorcee's Husband and Friend He Kills One and Wounds Other.

Sonora, Cal., May 19.—As the result of an attack made on J. G. Webster, an attorney, Frank Price is dead, with a bullet wound through his heart, and J. M. Watkins, a saloonkeeper, has a serious bullet wound in his head. The fight took place in the attorney's office tonight and grew out of the fact that Webster recently secured a divorce for Watkins' wife. Watkins found the attorney alone in his office. A moment later Price, a friend of Watkins, also entered and closed the door behind him. A struggle ensued and several shots were fired. The attorney emerged from the building with a battered and swollen head and a smoking pistol in his hand. He surrendered to the sherff. Both he and Watkins will recover.

TWO HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Boston City Department Horse Is Frightened by Rapidly Moving Machine and Runs Away.

Boston, Mass., May 19.—[Special.]—An automobile dashing along Columbus avenue today was the cause of a serious accident, and as a result Daniel Crowley, aged 38, and Michael Feeley, aged 60, are at the City hospital dangerously injured. Crowley and Feeley were riding in a city department wagon, when the automobile swept past. It frightened the horse and before the driver could gain control the animal was running away. The occupants of the automobile are not known, but the police are trying to find them.

Deficit for This Trolley Line.

A deficit in the operation account of the Chicago Electric Traction company is shown in a report of the business for the quarter ended on March 31, filed in the federal court yesterday by Receiver Charles Henrotin. It is said that a deficit was to have been expected for these three months, as the road does a profitable business only in warm weather.

PLEAD FOR NEW SCHOOL HOUSES.

Seven Large Delegations Call on Sites Committee of the Board.

MAKE MANY COMPLAINTS.

Declare Present Quarters Out of Date, Insanitary, and Dangerous.

Aldermen and other officials headed seven large delegations of citizens last evening in a call on the sites committee of the board of education for new schoolhouses.

They complained that the schools to which they are now compelled to send their children are overcrowded, the buildings antiquated and poorly ventilated, and in some cases insanitary and a long distance from the center of population.

The committee listened to the complaints for two hours before it was able to transact any other business. Residents who desire new schools must wait upon this committee within the next few days if they hope to have new buildings within the next year.

All the available seats in the large committee room were filled and many persons were compelled to stand.

Cragin People Win Their Point.

"If we can't carry good news back to the women in Cragin it won't be safe for us to go home," was the plea that won a school for Cragin.

It was made by Charles McFarland, a citizen with a wife and children, who headed the delegation that came from Cragin to ask the board to give the town a school.

The only schools accessible to the children of Cragin are the Hanson Park and the Armitage avenue branches of the William Penn Nixon school. These schools were described variously by the members of the delegation as "fire traps" and "disease breeders."

"The school at Hanson Park," declared Mr. McFarland, "is a fire trap, a cheaply constructed frame building which would burn like tinder. The children of Cragin have to walk a mile and a half to reach the building. The Armitage avenue branch of the Nixon school is as bad. In winter the children have to wear hip boots to get to this school, in the spring boats are needed."

Adolph Gerstenberg, another member of the committee of twenty from Cragin, declared that the epidemic of diphtheria that swept over the town last winter was due to the insanitary condition of the Hanson Park school.

Other Delegations Heard.

The Andersonville school at East Foster avenue and North Clark street also came in for condemnation when Ald. Blake said: "That school is nothing but a box made of brick. There is no pretense of ventilation. The conditions at the school are insanitary, horrible."

Judge Charles S. Cutting headed a delegation from Austin to ask for a new school to displace the present Ohio Street school. He described the present frame school building as a contemporary of the Chicago fire.

City Attorney Smulski and others asked that a new school be erected on the site of the Washington school, Morgan and Erie streets.

Ald. Beale of the Thirty-third ward was the spokesman of a number of residents, who urged a twelve room addition to the George W. Curtis school, One Hundred and Fourteenth place and State street.

Ald. Ruxton and Woodard of the Thirty-fourth ward were accompanied by thirty residents of Avers avenue, who desired that the new school which the board intends to erect in Eighteenth street be moved to Ridgeway avenue and Eighteenth street.

GAVEL RULER A TYRANT AND BUTCHER, SAYS SHERMAN.

Member of Legislature Talks to St. Peter's Men's Club and Scores Speaker's Course at Recent Session.

"When a man uses the gavel to oppose the will of the majority and to obstruct needful legislation, he is a tyrant and a butcher," said Lawrence Y. Sherman last night, at the third annual dinner of the Men's club of St. Peter's church at Belmont and Evanston avenues.

"Gavel rule in its most obnoxious sense met with some opposition at the legislative session that has just closed at Springfield," continued the speaker.

"There are two kinds of gavel rule—a use and an abuse of the emblem of power. Whenever it is used to prevent the needless waste of time, to prevent the obstruction of needful legislation upon which the majority of a deliberative body has spoken again and again, its legitimacy cannot be questioned. When it is used in an assembly of 153 men to suppress the will of the majority and to bolster up minority rule in the interest of party organization the man who so uses it is a tyrant and a butcher."

Mr. Sherman indorsed the Legislative Voters' league and said that the civil service bill introduced during the recent session was the only one worthy of the name that had ever come up in the state.

Other speakers were the Rev. Thomas E. Green of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Bishop John Haven White of Indiana.

Election Contest in Evanston.

A recount of the ballots in the Second ward of Evanston was ordered by the city council last night, on the petition of C. N. Howe, who was defeated for alderman on the face of the returns by N. P. Williams. The latter's name appeared on the ballot under the republican caption, although Williams, like all the other aldermanic candidates, was nominated by petition. Mr. Howe contends that all the votes counted for Mr. Williams as a republican nominee should be thrown out.

SHOOTING RINGS KNELL OF LEVEE.

Police Aroused by the Wounding of Sergt. Miller and Other Crimes.

SALOONS MUST OBEY LAW.

Inspector Lavin Issues Edict, but First Night's Results Are Not Evident.

The shooting of Police Sergeant Phil Miller and the holdup of Ald. Peter A. Wendling of the Twenty-ninth ward, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, gave a blow to the extension of the levee on Wabash avenue. Action, resulting from the double crime, was taken last night by Police Inspector Lavin and Capt. P. D. O'Brien of the Twenty-second street station. Hereafter no saloons will be allowed to keep open after midnight, and the district which has been notorious will assume a cleaner aspect.

"The disreputable characters have got to go," was Inspector Lavin's edict.

The talk of the police was strenuous, but results are yet awaited. At 1 o'clock this morning women were drinking in Wing's, Canan's, Smith's Utopia, Dineen's, Jacob Adler's, and other resorts of that character. Music was discontinued at midnight.

To Close Canan's Place."

Capt. O'Brien began his crusade against the district by recommending the revocation of the saloon license of Joseph Canan, 2128 State street. Stephen Kelleher, who has been partly identified by Sergt. Miller as one of his assailants, was arrested yesterday at 5:30 in the morning in Canan's "place." Two other arrests followed during the day.

When Canan was taken to the station Capt. O'Brien said:

"Canan, I understand that your saloon has long been a resort of thieves, desperadoes, and bad women. Is that a fact?"

"If my place is a resort for thieves and thugs, as you say," replied Canan, evasively, "I think you should be pleased to feel that you always have a place where you can round them up. If you tell the truth, you can always get the men you are looking for in my house."

It was then Capt. O'Brien said he would recommend that the license be revoked. Canan only laughed.

Capt. O'Brien later advised Chief O'Neill of the state of affairs, and today, it is expected, there will be official action taken by Mayor Harrison.

Protest to Mayor Harrison.

Earlier in the day, before Inspector Lavin began his warfare against the levee, Mayor Harrison received a committee which called to file another protest against conditions in the south side district. The members of this committee—L. J. Behan, Dr. H. L. Merriman, the Rev. Johnston Myers, and L. P. Torbett—have been carrying on a crusade for some time.

The mayor expressed surprise when informed that the saloons did not close at midnight. Said he:

"The police were instructed ten days ago to strictly enforce that ordinance. I am informed that the saloons are closed at 12 o'clock. I'd like Chief O'Neill to hear your complaints."

"We intend to see Chief O'Neill," said Mr. Behan, "but wish you to revoke the licenses of all saloons that evade the law."

"If I revoked the license of every saloon that didn't close promptly at midnight I would be kept pretty busy," returned the mayor.

"But we want the disreputable characters cleaned from the street," continued the spokesman of the committee.

"It's a hard thing to suppress them. If they are not there, they will be somewhere else," was Mr. Harrison's answer.

"We intend to collect evidence against the keepers of the all night saloons," said Mr. Behan, at the close of the interview, "and present it to the police. If we can secure conviction of the saloonkeepers we can compel the revocation of their licenses by mandamus proceedings."

Suspects Under Arrest.

Resulting from the "drag net," which was thrown about the levee district after the shooting of Sergeant Miller, the police succeeded in rounding up the three prisoners. Kelleher, who has a desperate police record, was first to be arrested.

The men who robbed Ald. Wendling and later shot Sergeant Miller are believed also to have held up Michael Larner in his saloon at 443 Root street, and a short time later to have mortally wounded Patrick Barrett, another saloonkeeper, at 4216 Wallace street. Barrett, who was shot while defending his money, died early yesterday morning.

At the Desplaines street station there is a man locked up with whom Lieut. Cronin was closeted for several hours last night. He gave his name as Pat Collins and answers in every detail the description of a man who is wanted for the shooting of Sergeant Miller. He has long been known as a "pal" of Kelleher's.

Saloonkeeper Gives Testimony.

There also was arrested another man who is known to the police to have been associated with Kelleher on the night of the shooting and robbery. The police refuse to divulge his name, although they state that Saloonkeeper Bruder of Bennett & Bruder, 2020 Dearborn street, recognized his photograph as one of the trio.

Bruder refused to talk until the police showed him a request to Chief O'Neill that his saloon license be revoked, and then he consented to tell all he knew. The suspects now under arrest had visited his resort earlier in the night, he said, and he was convinced that they were bent on robbery.

All Known as "Bad" Men.

Kelleher is wanted for breaking his parole at the Pontiac reformatory, to which place he was sentenced some time ago on a charge of robbery. The other men are also ex-convicts and are said to be three of the most desperate offenders with whom the police have dealt in the last few years.

Last night Paul Rust, employed as a waiter at Smith's Utopia, 2116 State street, called at the police station and told Capt. O'Brien the following story:

"Shortly after the shooting of Miller a man entered our restaurant. His hands were bleeding and so was his face. He appeared as though he had been badly shot. He asked me if 'Steve' Kelleher had been in and I said no. In a few minutes Kelleher entered by the rear door and the two stood in the hallway with drawn guns in their hands, watching to see if any policemen were in sight. Seeing none, they ran from the restaurant."

Rust was taken to the cell in which Kelleher was locked up and identified him.

Story of the Shooting.

Ald. Wendling was standing at State and Twenty-first street when the robbers approached him. Asking for a match, one of the men stepped forward and, before the alderman suspected his intentions, he had been struck with a "billy," the blow felling him. Searching his pockets, the robbers then deprived him of $50 in cash and jewelry valued at $450.

When Ald. Wendling recovered sufficiently to be able to pick himself up he telephoned to the police, and Sergeant Miller and Detectives Coughlin and Swiegert responded. In front of Bruder's saloon were three young men, who were pointed out by Wendling as his assailants.

Miller stepped forward to arrest them and the shooting began. The two detectives, it is said, took refuge in an alley, while Miller began to fight it out alone.

This he did, and bravely, till a bullet from one of the robbers' revolvers struck him in the chest, when the robbers fled. Some reports are that there were five of the robbers, but up to a late hour the police had been able to account for only three. Other suspicious characters will be arrested, however. Sergeant Miller is at Mercy hospital, where it is said that his condition is not serious.

DRUGGED; $1,165 TAKEN.

GEORGE SMITH REPORTS LOSS TO LAKE STREET POLICE.

Madison Buffet Raided as a Result and Seven Persons Arrested, All of Whom Deny Guilt—Saloon Guarded and Safe Will Be Opened Today with Dynamite if Necessary in Effort to Find Missing Money and Jewelry—Girl's Purse Snatched.

Drugged and robbed of $1,165, a watch, and a diamond pin was the complaint made to the police last night by George C. Smith, 141 Warren avenue, recently of Greensboro, N. C.

Smith was found lying in a stupor on the steps of the Second Baptist church by Policeman McCarthy, who aroused the man with some difficulty. Smith was then taken to his room and a physician summoned. Later he fully recovered and went to the Lake street police station and reported the robbery.

He said he went to the Madison Buffet, 524 West Madison street, kept by John Dammers, late Monday night. After taking a few drinks with three women he became drowsy, but has a dim recollection of his pockets being searched. He then lost consciousness and did not regain it till Policeman McCarthy awakened him at 3 o'clock in the morning.

Police Raid the Saloon.

Following Smith's complaint, a raid was made on the resort. One man, John Meade, attempted to escape by jumping from a second story window in the rear. He was arrested later, however.

Others arrested were: Dammers and his wife, May Brown, May Thornton, John Teele, James Courtney, Frank Bowan, and Harry Evans. All deny connection with the robbery.

The police say that in searching Dammers they found two gold coins which Smith identified as pocket pieces. The remainder of Smith's valuables were not found. The police demanded that Dammers open the safe in his saloon, but he said he could not open it. An expert safe opener was then employed, but he was unable to find the combination. The saloon was closed and is guarded. The safe will be opened today by dynamite, if necessary.

Purse Seized and Recovered.

A crowd of excited citizens pursued a young man who it is alleged seized the pocketbook of Miss Susie Garrett, a stenographer in the Ashland block, last evening. He was captured after a short chase and given into the custody of a policeman. At the East Chicago avenue police station he gave the name of Marcus Evans, admitted taking the purse, and gave it to the police. Miss Garrett was returning home and was at Oak and State streets when the purse, containing $38, was seized.

IDENTIFIED BY TATTOO MARK.

Victim of Plymouth Place Murder Said to Be Joseph Selma of Waukegan.

A heart, pierced with three arrows, tattooed on his hand, last evening served to identify the victim of the murder Monday night in the rear of Vitto Leglis' saloon, 203 Plymouth place. The dead man was Joseph Selma, a sailor of Waukegan, according to Charles Johnson, 20 East Van Buren street. No trace of the murderer has been found, but the police are looking for Harry Mason, a frequenter of State street saloons.

At Fifteenth and State streets yesterday afternoon one of a group of five men drew a revolver and began firing at Paul Schiller, 2630 Throop street, who was standing alone a few feet away. The fifth shot fired struck Schiller behind the left ear, inflicting a slight wound. Then all the men fled. Schiller says he does not know why he was attacked.

Stanley Wesley, alleged murderer of Catherine Perry, refused to testify at the coroner's inquest yesterday afternoon and the jury held him to the Criminal court without bail.

BOY WOULD PREFER DEATH TO LIFE AT PONTIAC.

William Collins Writes Note Complaining of Evil Associates There and Tries to Commit Suicide.

After writing a note saying "there are nothing but thieves at Pontiac and I would only be made worse to go there," William Collins tried to commit suicide in his cell in the South Chicago police station.

The note was delivered to the desk sergeant instead of the boy's mother, and an antidote was administered, which counteracted any effects of some match heads he had swallowed.

Collins, who is 17 years old and lives at 341 Ninety-eighth street, is said to have broken open the safe in John Peterson's store, Ninety-eighth street and Commercial avenue, a week ago. Three years ago, on a charge of theft, he was sent to Pontiac, where he remained for more than a year, and he did not want to go back there.

After writing the note to his mother saying he would rather die than go back, he gave it to a tramp cellmate, who was to be released. The tramp handed it to the desk sergeant.

MEET TO ELECT NEW BISHOP.

Representatives of Thirty-five Parishes in Quincy Episcopal Diocese Are in Session at Galesburg.

Galesburg, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—The annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Quincy opened today with a large representation from the thirty-five parishes. In the convention sermon the Rev. F. S. Penfold of Quincy advocated strongly that the convention vote to change the name from the Protestant Episcopal to the American Catholic church.

The memorial sermon on the late Bishop Taylor was preached by the Rev. W. H. Moore of Quincy. In the business session the Rev. C. W. Leffingwell of Knoxville was elected president of the convention.

A warm discussion, in which some personalities were used, arose over a motion to allow the Rev. Sidney Jeffords of Peoria the full privileges of the diocese. The president thought the matter should be referred to the committee on privileges, and thither it went after a heated discussion. The bishop will be elected tomorrow morning, and the sentiment indicates the election of Dr. Fawcett of Englewood.

MINISTERS TO GIVE CONCERTS.

Kenosha Pastors Plan War on Sunday Saloons and Baseball with Free Music as Attracton.

Kenosha, Wis., May 19.—[Special.]—The ministers of Kenosha, through the medium of the Ministerial association, may enter into competition with the Sunday saloon and baseball game in the fight for the attendance of the amusement loving people Sunday afternoons. After appealing to the officials in vain it is now proposed to have a free band concert every Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the association. It is hoped in a short time the baseball park and Sunday saloon will be deserted.

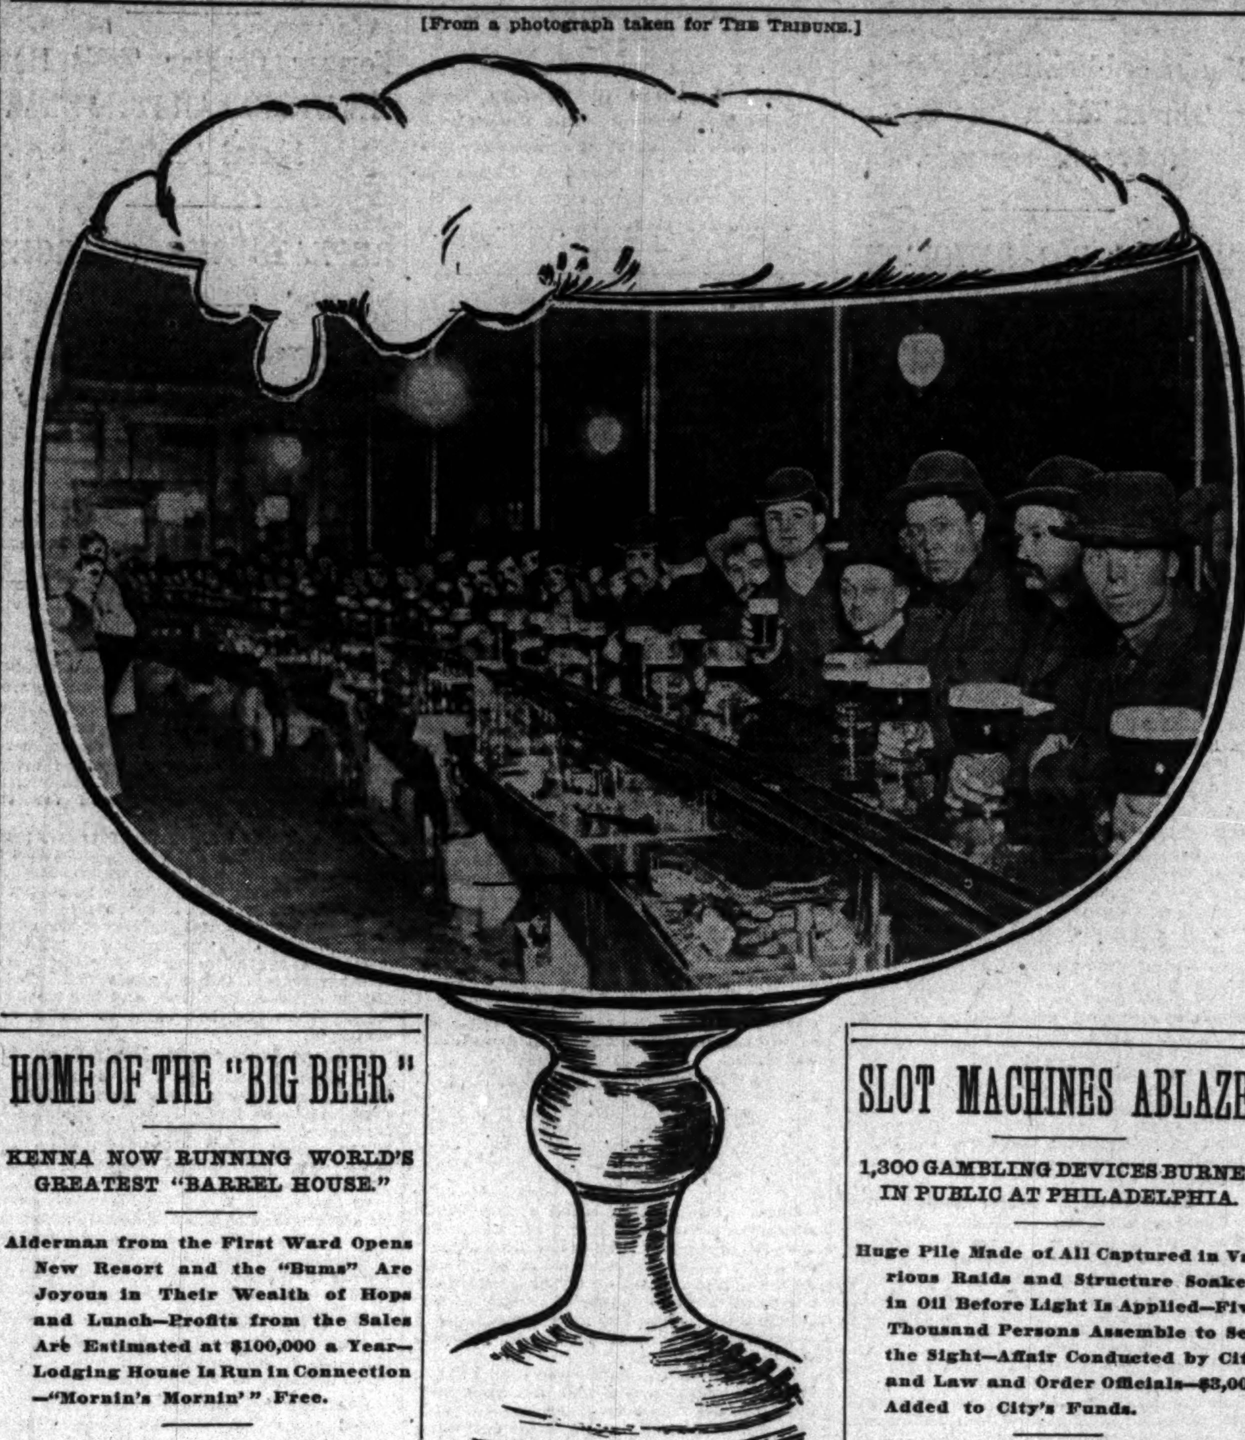
[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]



HOME OF THE "BIG BEER."

KENNA NOW RUNNING WORLD'S GREATEST "BARREL HOUSE."

Alderman from the First Ward Opens New Resort and the "Bums" Are Joyous in Their Wealth of Hops and Lunch—Profits from the Sales Are Estimated at $100,000 a Year—Lodging House Is Run in Connection—"Mornin's Mornin'" Free.

Resplendent with electric lights and polished mirrors the new "barrel house" owned and conducted by "Hinky Dink," otherwise Ald. Michael Kenna, has been thrown open to the public. The resort is the pride of the "tired and weary," and over what is said to be the longest bar in the world thousands of "tubs" are passing daily.

When the "Workingmen's Exchange," the alderman's other house, on the opposite side of the street, was closed to make way for a new building, there was sadness and dismay.

"Woe is us," was the cry. "What is left for us in 'Chi.' ?"

But the answer came back full of hope and faith.

"'Hink' will never desert us. We have trusted him and he has never failed us."

This faith was not misplaced. The alderman secured a long termed lease on the building on the opposite side of Clark street, a few doors south of Van Buren street, and a hundred carpenters and other mechanics were put to work. The result was known when the doors were opened Saturday evening.

World's Biggest "Barrel House."

The room, 100 feet long by 50 feet wide, is said to be the largest "barrel house" in the world. The bar, curving slightly to the middle of the room, is eighty-four feet long. A small office is at one end of the bar, and a bread box that is big enough for a refrigerator is at the other.

On the opposite side of the room is a lunch counter, where bowls of soup, prepared in the kitchen below, with unlimited quantities of bread, are always ready for the hungry.

There are no larger receptacles made for beer than the glasses that are handed across the bar. The bowl seems as large as an ordinary hat. The price is 5 cents.

In front of the long bar is a trench, through which water is occasionally forced to carry away the beer foam. An electric pump forces the beer from twelve barrels at a time from the ice box below.

Three bartenders are kept at work, and the sales are recorded on cash registers. Twice or three times a day the alderman comes in from his other saloon, at Clark and Van Buren streets, and empties the contents of the money drawers into a large sack, which he stows away in the safe.

Early in the morning an agent from the brewery comes and counts the dimes and nickels, as there is little other money that reaches the registers. The alderman knows from the indicator how much money there should be, and he has no time to count it himself. The agent gives him or his secretary a receipt, and every month a check is sent for the amount that remains after the price of the beer has been deducted.

Food, Drink, Even Beds.

Above the "barrel house" a lodging house is being made ready. There will be rooms for 250 men—all guaranteed to be filled at registration time. Private lockers, shower baths, iron bedsteads, are some of the conveniences. It is not for the one night lodger, as the rooms are to be rented by the week. The rate will be $1 each.

"I am going to give these poor 'hobos' the best home they ever had in their lives," said Ald. Kenna yesterday.

Between 7 o'clock Saturday evening and the same time on Sunday forty-eight barrels of beer had been sold. The supply ran out, and the bartenders were idle for several hours. There are about ten 'tubs' of beer in a gallon, and in a barrel there are thirty-two gallons. Forty-eight barrels means that 15,360 glasses of beer were sold in less than twenty-four hours in the new home of the "bum."

"I expect to average thirty barrels of beer a day in this place," Ald. Kenna explained. "Across the street I have sold on an average of seventeen barrels a day for the last five years, and here I shall have room for all my customers."

And There's a Fortune in It.

Is Ald. Kenna making money? Well, here is what one of his friends said last evening:

"'Hink' making money? Well, I guess. If I had his place and the trade I'd retire in a year. Just figure it up. With his rebates and his dividends from the stock he holds in the brewery his beer will not cost him more than $3.50 a barrel—and that's putting it high. He will average 320 glasses from each barrel, so that thirty barrels a day will mean an income of $480. The beer will cost $105. His help, lunch, and other expenses will be about a hundred more.

"Is he making money? He will make $100,000 a year out of this place alone—twice the salary of the president of the United States, and out of a South Clark street 'barrel house.' He will get a thousand dollars a month from the lodging house, too."

First Drink Is Free

The beer trade is about the only trade of the house, practically the only whisky served being the "mornin's mornin'," which is given free to each of the lodgers before breakfast.

This drink is known among the lodgers as the "corpse reviver." It is served in tall, imposing looking glasses that are deceptive as to the amount they hold. A drink from the "ice man's" bottle in an ordinary saloon is like soothing sirup by comparison, as it is said along Clark street that a teaspoonful of "corpse reviver" would make a Chinaman whip Jeffries. After one free injection of the reviver the lodger, braced for a strenuous day, goes forth to work on his own peculiar vineyard.

CHARGES SCIENCE HEALER WITH BREAKING UP HOME.

Mrs. Cornelia Wardell Testifies in Her Suit for Divorce from Charles E. Wardell.

Mrs. Cornelia Wardell, who is suing Charles E. Wardell for separate maintenance, told her story in Judge Smith's court yesterday. She blamed Mrs. Fannie S. Rollins, a Christian Science healer, with breaking up her home. "Mrs. Rollins told me," Mrs. Wardell testified, "that she could separate couples or bring them together. She wanted me to promise that if my husband started to turn against me that I would not run after him. I would not make such a promise."

Wardell, his wife said, first went to the healer to be cured of the cigaret habit. When her husband went out at night, she declared, "he would shake his fist in my face and say he hoped I would be dead when he returned."

Mrs. Wardell then described a call at Mrs. Rollins' in search of her husband. She said:

"I heard my husband shout: 'Put her out; put her out.' I told Mrs. Rollins she was old enough to be my grandmother and that she was not doing right to take my husband away. I said her son ought to look after her. She replied: 'My son is my only protection.' Then I said: 'He ought to throw my husband downstairs.'"

The case will be taken up again at 10 o'clock this morning.

Decree for Mrs. Vaughan.—The final chapter in the married life of Mrs. Carrie E. Vaughan and her husband, Arthur J. Vaughan, was written yesterday afternoon when Judge Bishop signed a decree granting Mrs. Vaughan a divorce. The evidence in the case was heard some time ago. Mrs. Vaughan is awarded a considerable amount of the household property, including furniture, books, vases, and dishes. Vaughan is directed to pay his wife $265, due for alimony and solicitor's fees, and $250 besides. Vaughan is given the custody of their child, Marie Vaughan. He is also awarded a silk shawl and nineteen souvenir spoons.

Theater Musician Sued.—Fred L. Yahnke, a musician at the Dearborn theater, is defendant in a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Louise Yahnke. On one occasion she declares her husband threw a dish of hash in her face.

Says His Wife Is Lost.—George H. Moore wants to be freed from his wife, Lena Moore. He charges desertion. In June, 1899, it is alleged, she left her home and went to live at 4901 State street. Since then Moore declares he has lost trace of her.

Deserted Ten Years Ago.—Lena S. Crofts has filed a suit for divorce from Charles Crofts, whom she charges with desertion. She asserts that her husband willfully deserted her in May, 1893.

SAYS CHICAGO SHOULD LEAD CHURCH OF THE INTERIOR.

Willard Scott Thinks This City and Boston Should Be Congregational Capitals—Football a Means of Grace.

"Chicago should dominate the Congregationalist constituency of the interior. It should be one of the two capitals of Congregationalism in this country, Boston being the other."

This statement was made by the Rev. Willard Scott, formerly pastor of the South Park Congregational church of Chicago, now of Worcester, Mass., in an address before the Illinois Congregational convention at Evanston yesterday.

"You should have your offices all in one building," he continued. "You cannot make people believe you are the center of the church by putting a picture of the Boston Congregational building on your letterheads."

A layman was elected moderator of the association in the morning in the person of Maj. E. D. Redington of the First Congregational church of Evanston. J. E. Keene of Peoria was chosen assistant moderator. On taking the gavel Maj. Redington made the remark: "This body will not be ruled by the gavel."

Figures showing the condition of the church in Illinois were given by the Rev. W. Knighton Bloom of Sandoval. The church membership in the state is over 50,000, the number of Christian Endeavorers is over 12,000, and there are 440 ministers. The home expenses last year amounted to nearly $700,000 and $150,000 was raised for missions and benevolence.

That football is not altogther bad was asserted by Dr. James L. Barton, secretary of the American foreign mission board. He said:

"I know of one church in which football was a means of grace. Boys were attracted to the church by the organinzation of a football team among the Sunday school students."

Catarrh of nose or throat immediately relieved and ultimately cured by use of "Boro-Formalin" (Elmer & Amend).

SLOT MACHINES ABLAZE.

1,300 GAMBLING DEVICES BURNED IN PUBLIC AT PHILADELPHIA.

Huge Pile Made of All Captured in Various Raids and Structure Soaked in Oil Before Light Is Applied—Five Thousand Persons Assemble to See the Sight—Affair Conducted by City and Law and Order Officials—$3,000 Added to City's Funds.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—[Special.]—Fully 5,000 men, women, and children watched 1,300 slot machines go up in smoke today.

The gambling devices, valued at $25,000, were piled in a heap, saturated with oil, and then touched off.

Secretary Gibboney of the Law and Order league and Magistrate Eisenbowen conducted the ceremonies on a vacant lot at Thirty-second street and Lancaster avenue.

In addition to the public officials and the police there was quite a company of distinguished clergymen interested in the city's war against gambling and gambling devices. It was an hour after the program time before the fire was begun, and even then there were several cartloads of machines that had not been taken from the police headquarters in the city hall.

Great Pile Is Set on Fire.

When the kerosene had been soused liberally over the great tangled mass of wood, glass, and machinery, and the match applied, the effect was highly spectacular. The flames darted here and there in the small mountain of machines, and mounted still higher and higher until it was one terrific bonfire, the heat from which drove all the spectators further and further away. So fierce was the blaze that when wagons appeared from the city hall with more of the condemned devices, the drivers did not dare approach the hill of fire.

Ropes had been stretched about the inclosure, and every one was forced to take refuge outside the lot.

Two companies of the city fire department were on hand, ready to go into action instantly in case the flames threatened to spread, or the crowd became unruly.

The teamsters were allowed to wait until the flames had subsided before they threw on the last of the machines. These, too, caught and blazed merrily. In a short time all that was left of the handsome devices was a tangled, blackened mass of wreckage.

Enlivening Incidents Many.

In the work of handling the machines the teamsters found coins now and then which had been tangled up with the complex machinery.

The gem machine of the lot was set apart until after the blaze grew high. It was a double machine, and a work of art, for taking quarters, and is said to have cost $600, which was captured at Third and Walnut streets on Jan. 2, 1903, and was found to contain about $60. It blazed beautifully. An explosion in the burning pile now and then was said to be due to the air tight cylinders of the pneumatic devices in the gambling machines.

Of the 1,300 machines the Law and Order society claimed credit for 700, and the rest were seized in Director Smith's raid. Secretary Gibboney of the society said that for every machine captured more than five were hidden or carted away from the city. The highest number of machines in operation in the city at one time, he believed, was about 10,000.

Raids Netted Over $3,000.

There was $1,560 turned over to the district attorney from the 700 machines he confiscated, and about as much more from the other machines. From this was to be deducted the expenses of Contractor Burk for hauling, and two barrels of coal oil and two bags of shavings, before the net income of the city from this source could be figured out. It goes into the city treasury.

The forty-five indictments against as many persons bound over by Magistrate Eisenbrown were all quashed some time ago. The feeling was that the people who lost the money they invested in the machines were punished enough.

THEATER MANAGER WINS POINT.

Will J. Davis Triumphs Over A. Toxon Worm of the "Chinese Honeymoon" Company.

Manager Will J. Davis of the Illinois theater has won the point at issue in the altercation which brought him to blows Saturday night with A. Toxon Worm, manager of the "Chinese Honeymoon" company. Mr. Davis declared yesterday morning that the theater would be closed unless the owners of the production should immediately agree to withdraw the objectionable advertising put out by Mr. Worm, and late in the afternoon the owners of the play announced that Mr. Davis' wishes would be observed. Mr. Davis has caused Mr. Worm's name to be stricken from the programs as manager of the company and has ordered that he be forbidden entrance to the playhouse.

SEEKS CAUSE OF AUNT'S DEATH.

Mrs. E. R. Moffat Demands an Inquest Over the Body of Mrs. Frederick Rennie.

An inquest will be held today over the body of Mrs. Frederick Rennie, 126 De Kalb street, who died Monday night at 255 Oakwood boulevard. The inquest is to be held at the request of Mrs. E. R. Moffat of 37 Surrey court, a niece of Mrs. Rennie, who wishes to learn what happened in the hours preceding her aunt's death. Mrs. Moffat says she has reason to think that her aunt transferred some property shortly before her death. Apparently Mrs. Rennie died from natural causes.

TALK, SHAKE HANDS, EXIT

REPUBLICAN JUDICIAL CANDIDATES VISIT FOUR WARDS.

Each Utters a Few Glittering Generalities About the Ticket and Several Words for Himself and Greets His Nearest Auditors—Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Eighteenth, and Nineteenth Are Visited—Democrats Warn Voters Against Alleged Trick.

What has been termed the "yours truly" campaign of the republican judicial nominees was carried into the Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Eighteenth, and Nineteenth wards last evening. The voters were given a chance to see what manner of men they were asked to vote for and the candidates followed their usual custom of giving their audience a chance to hear them talk as well.

While "boosts" for themselves in particular and the rest of the ticket in general marked several of the "talks," there was considerable unanimity of opinion on the importance to their campaign in having the ward organizations get the voters out. Occasionally the chairman of the meeting promised the candidates the support of the ward organization.

"Here we are. Look at us. If you think we look all right, vote for us," was the epitome of many of the "talks." The candidates, having gone through this formula more or less amplified, shook hands with a few of those in the front seats and then departed for another meeting, where the performance was repeated.

W. S. Elliott, H. O. Sprogle, A. M. Pence, and A. J. Hirschl made the rounds of the wards together, each speaking in turn. Judge Hanecy, accompanied by a few friends but no other candidate, made the rounds of the meetings later and repeated his explanation of how the republican judicial ticket was the product of the greatest primary vote ever polled and not of a machine.

Democrats Meet Rival Attractions.

Two big fires a mile away interfered with the attendance of a democratic meeting in the Tenth congressional district at Social Turner hall, Belmont avenue and Paulina street, in the evening. Another disappointment was the failure of several of the candidates to appear. E. O. Brown, Lockwood Honoré, Julian Mack, William P. Black, George Mills Rogers, Joseph A. O'Donnell, and S. S. Parks were present.

Mayor Harrison, Samuel Alschuler, and W. S. Forrest were the speakers. Mr. Harrison replied to the charges that the democratic ticket was machine made. "Under our system of conducting conventions," he said, "you know that it is always necessary to have a preliminary conference of party leaders to select the best men. I deny that this is a machine made ticket."

Warned Against Republican Trick.

Reports to the effect that democrats are being asked to vote for certain nominees on the republican ticket were acted on yesterday by the democratic executive committee and candidates. It was decided to send out an address exposing the alleged scheme of the republican organization hustlers to save Judge Hanecy and Judge Gibbons. According to the committee these republican workers, in every ward, are making agreements with democrats to trade votes in such a way as to get all the democratic votes they can for the two republican candidates.

Republican Ticket Is Indorsed.

The German-American republican club yesterday adopted resolutions indorsing the republican ticket.

WANT TO VOTE ON PARK BONDS.

Lake View Citizens Petition, Under New Law, to Have Question on Ballots.

One hundred citizens and taxpayers of Lake View have filed a petition in the County court through Attorney Frank Hamlin to have the question of a $1,000,000 bond issue for the improvement and extension of Lincoln park placed on the ballot at the coming election. The petition is filed under the referendum act passed on May 7 by the legislature for the improvement and extension of parks, and is the first to be filed under the act. The matter will be presented to Judge Carter, and on his order the question will be placed on the ballots.

CLAIMANT TO FORTUNE IN JAIL.

Carl J. Carrolson, Who Says He Is Heir of Millionaire Rice, Accused by Wife at Muncie, Ind.

Muncie, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—Charged with the attempted murder of his whole family, Carl J. Carrolson, a business man of this city and claimant to the vast estates of Millionaire Rice, who was murdered in New York, is a prisoner in the Muncie jail.

Mrs. Carrolson, who is exceptionally attractive, claims she was awakened this morning to find her husband cutting off her hair. He had placed a handkerchief saturated with chloroform, she claims, over her face, and her sudden awakening saved her life.

She claims her husband spread the poisonous fumes throughout the house and that their four little children had narrow escapes. Carrolson claims to be a direct heir to the millions of Rice, and for the last year he has been vigorously pushing his claims to the estate.

SUES JUDGE HANECY FOR $242.

Victor C. Gardner Brings Action—Defendant Says Claim Is a Bill Long Ago Paid.

Suit was filed yesterday afternoon in the Superior court in the name of Victor C. Gardner for the recovery of $242, alleged to be due from Elbridge Hanecy, judge of the Circuit court. The action is assumpsit. Judge Hanecy said last evening:

"Five years ago I had dealings with Gardner, who kept a feed store at Thirty-ninth street and Prairie avenue. He charged me for more feed than he delivered, but I paid his bill and took a receipt. Two years later he presented another claim. I showed my receipt, and he said his bookkeeper must have made a mistake. Now this claim comes up. It is simply an attempt to extort money from me."

Richard H. Peterson, 1244 Jackson boulevard, is attorney for the plaintiff.

RECEIVERSHIP IS TO STAND.

Merchants' Building Improvement Company Loses Its Case in Appellate Court.

The Appellate court yesterday affirmed the order of the Circuit court appointing a receiver for the property of the Merchants' Building Improvement company, an action which was taken on behalf of the Chicago Exchange Building company, a creditor. The Merchants' Building Improvement company contended that it had a complete defense and that a receiver should not have been appointed until a hearing had been had upon such defense. The reviewing court holds that such a defense was not made clear.

COBB SHOWS NEW BUILDING.

Takes Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Through Incompleted Federal Structure.

Robert B. Armstrong, first assistant secretary of the treasury, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning and spent part of the day examining the new federal building in company with Architect Henry Ives Cobb. While Mr. Armstrong declared that he came to Chicago on private business, he had a long conference with Architect F. T. Fitzpatrick, and left for New York late in the day.

Girl Bitten by a Dog.

Mabel Hall, 11 years old, 114 North Lincoln street, was crossing the street to join some playmates yesterday when a dog knocked her down and fastened its teeth in her leg. Bystanders drove the dog away and called the police. The dog is said to be owned by Martin Callahan, 129 Canal street.

TRACTION GRANT WANTED AT ONCE

Chicago City Company Will Ask Renewals When Committee Meets Tomorrow.

MAYOR TAKES NEW VIEW.

Will Not Insist on Referendum if Companies Consent to a Fair Ordinance.

The Chicago City railway will move for renewals of its expiring franchises at once. When the council committee on local transportation meets at 2 p. m. tomorrow it will have before it a letter from the company requesting that action be taken without delay.

This will be entirely separate from the matters of the Union Traction company, which will be delayed at least until the receivers can consult with Judge Grosscup as to what they are to do, particularly as to what disposition shall be made of the ninety-nine year claims. This consultation is expected when Mr. Govin returns from New York next week.

Mayor Modifies His Position.

Mayor Harrison yesterday modified his position as to the necessity of a referendum on franchise extension ordinances to the extent of saying that if the ordinances as agreed on were fair to the city a referendum might be dispensed with. He insisted, however, that the ordinances when drawn must be published for a sufficient time before being voted on to enable the people to study them, and any interested parties to get up a referendum petition if desired. Who was to be the judge as to the fairness of the ordinances was not indicated.

The mayor and members of the local transportation committee united in saying there was no objection to taking up the ordinances of the Chicago city railway separately. The communication the Chicago City company will send to the committee will set forth the fact that certain of its franchises are about to expire; that action looking toward their renewal has been delayed on account of the expressed wish of the city to have a municipal ownership enabling act passed, and that now the Mueller bill is a law the company is anxious to go on with the work.

Proposition of the Company.

Whether the communication will set forth what the company is willing to offer in return for the franchises asked for has not yet been determined. It is generally understood, however, that it is willing, among other things, to consent to a waiver of its rights under the ninety-nine year act, providing the city in return will acknowledge that something of value is being waived and make concessions in return on its side.

The company is also willing to agree to have all its franchises terminate at the same time, twenty years from the passing of the ones now asked for, so that if at that time the city wishes to purchase the property and operate it itself it can acquire the entire system.

As far as the improvements to be made are concerned, the company is willing to abide by the recommendation in the Arnold report; that is, an underground trolley north of Twelfth street and the overhead to the south, with a rearrangement of the downtown terminals so that a loop can be provided for the cars running in Clark street.

As to the question of compensation, the terms offered probably will be 7 per cent of the gross receipts, which, under certain conditions, might be increased to 10. The matter of transfers from and to the Union Traction company lines is a thing for arrangement between the two companies.

It is likely the communication will suggest that inasmuch as the matters in dispute were pretty clearly defined at the conferences held last February, it might save time to have the city's lawyers draft an ordinance which would form the subject of debate.

"Our position is simply this," said Col. E. R. Bliss, general counsel for the company, "if we are to improve our service, as the people demand, this franchise question must be first settled, and the sooner it is settled the quicker we can get to work."

Statement by the Mayor.

In explaining his position toward franchise legislation now the Mueller bill is a law the mayor yesterday said:

"Now we have enabling legislation. The one stumbling block in the way of a settlement of the traction question has been removed and from now on it is clear sailing if the traction companies wish to secure an extension of the franchises on terms fair to the citizens.

"I stand by the referendum. I stood by it two months ago and it would not be right to go before the people with that principle and now to forget it.

"The necessity of the referendum can be avoided by the traction companies dealing fairly with the city and the council dealing fairly with the people.

"As things are the ordinance can be framed and published and the council can wait long enough for 25 per cent of the voters to petition for a referendum on it if they object to the ordinance.

"If the ordinance is drawn up so as to be fair to the city and meet the approval of the people 25 per cent will not petition for a referendum. Let the extension ordinances be drawn up so fairly and justly to the people as to secure what the people want and there will be no need for a referendum.

"If they try to forget the just demands of the people and give to the traction companies what they are not entitled to a referendum will be necessary. If the ordinance is not fair I'll get out and hustle for a petition for a referendum myself.

"If the Union Traction company is not willing to come in for an extension ordinance I believe in treating with the Chicago City railway company."

Sherman on Governor's Message.

Speaking of the governor's message accompanying his approval of the Mueller bill, Lawrence Y. Sherman said:

"When Gov. Yates signed the Mueller bill I think he did right. The passage of the bill by the general assembly and its approval by the governor will strengthen the republican party. I do not share in his fears that there are hidden dangers in the bill. Neither do I think the senate passed the bill by default and the house by riot. I am willing that the people of this state shall say whether we in the house were legislating by riot or whether the minority, by unlawful and revolutionary uses of the party 'organization,' was attempting to suppress legislation, and we intervened and restored the constitutional rights of a majority."

CHARLES T. YERKES SUED BY NAUGLE, HOLCOMB & CO.

Original Contractors for Building of Suburban Road Claim $200,000—Action Against Them for $70,000.

Charles T. Yerkes was yesterday sued for $200,000 by the old firm of Naugle, Holcomb & Co. for the use of the American Surety company of New York. Mr. Yerkes himself has had for some time pending a suit for $70,000 against the same firm.

The nominal plaintiffs were the original contractors in the building of the Suburban Railway company and their money disputes grew out of this.

"When Mr. Yerkes bought the Suburban road," said Clarence A. Knight, "he advanced the contractors $70,000 under their agreement to turn over to him $1,250,000 of bonds of that company. They went out of business after failing to turn over $86,000 of these bonds, and Mr. Yerkes sued for them and the $70,000. He does not owe them a cent.

"The presence of the American Surety company in the case is due to the fact Naugle, Holcomb & Co. owes it, and it is trying to recover in this way."

WM. ROCKEFELLER IN RING OF FIRE.

Camp on Big Adirondack Preserves Is Threatened by Blazing Forests.

LONG FIGHT WITH FLAMES

Cotton Dealers Seek to Break Speculation by Calling for Big Original Margins.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE. }
New York, May 19. }

Rockefeller Camp Threatened by Forest Fires.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rockefeller of this city have been staying for the last few weeks at Bay Pond, in the Adirondacks, where the principal building of the Rockefeller preserve is located. All around them, from a distance of two miles to twenty from the main camp, the forest fires have been raging for twenty-two days. At first the flames were driven to the northwest from Bay Pond in the Rockefeller park, but the breezes shifted and sent sparks from the burning trees again towards the southeast. Then the fires leaped across the railway tracks about two miles above the Rockefeller camp and burned through the forest on the south of the camp.

Mr. Rockefeller, when he saw the fires leap through the tops of the trees so dangerously near his camp thought for a time it would have to go. The burning brands were hurled within a short distance of the main buildings and for several hours gangs of men struggled to prevent the destruction of the private railway station. Three gangs, numbering in each instance forty and upwards, have been and still are fighting the fires about the Rockefellers' camp.

Mr. Rockefeller also worked to prevent the spread of the fires, traveling with his men along the railway tracks on a hand car and extinguished the fires wherever he could. The danger surrounding the Rockefeller camp was emphasized today, when sparks from a passing train set fire to the grass a hundred feet from the main building.

Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller started to return here last night, but a wreck on the railroad prevented.

Cotton Dealers Seek to Break Speculation.

Wall street was startled today when McFadden & Co., the largest and financially the most important firm of cotton merchants in the world, headed a movement of local operators to break the sensational speculation in the cotton market. Associated with them is Daniel J. Sully, the former leader of the bull movement. The first gun was an attack on the forces of W. P. Brown, the New Orleans leader. There was a general calling for "original margins" by the local houses on brokers who have acted for Brown interests.

In plain language, this means the cash will have to be put up on every contract now outstanding and to be made hereafter. The calling of "original margins" is a comparative novelty in the cotton trade, except in times of panic or on occasions when the parties to contracts believe there will be a collapse in prices.

In the present campaign undertaken by W. P. Brown of New Orleans prices are nearly 3 cents a pound higher than they were during the cotton coup. Notices sent out today called for original margins, not of $1 a bale, as is usually the case, but of $3 and $5 a bale, according to the size of the contract. This call involves millions of dollars, and is regarded by many authorities as a plan to measure the financial resources of the new party in control of the market.

Incidentally the calling of original margins will affect the money market. It was generally reported that one of the first calls was made by S. M. Weld & Co. on Atwood, Violet & Co. The latter firm is generally regarded as having close connections as brokers with the New Orleans party, while Weld & Co. came to the front in the public eye as having "cleared" for D. J. Sully in his great cotton movement which is now terminating.

It is believed that the latter firm is acting for McFadden & Co.

The working of the scheme for calling original margins involves the placing of a sum of money, equal to that called, in the hands of trust officers. For example, Mr. Sully may have sold 5,000 bales of July cotton to the Brown party. Weld & Co., his brokers, thereupon issue to the Brown brokers a call for an original margin of $5 a bale. Both parties will have to put up $25,000 with the trust company until the cotton has been delivered and the transaction closed. The working of the plan calls for a great amount of cash, and it is said that by this means an effort will be made to strike a blow at the resources of the Brown party. Notwithstanding the notices sent out, prices established on the cotton exchange smashed all records today.

Trust Companies After Bank Business.

The lines in the fight for business between the local banks and the trust companies appear to be drawing even tighter since the trust companies with clearing house connections began to sever them. The clearing house banks lately have been receiving from out of town correspondents, mostly banks, letters referring to circulars which these correspondents say came to them from trust companies in this city. The following is a sample letter:

"The —— Trust company of ——, your city, has offered to collect our United States items outside of New York City and New England at par, crediting our account on the day of receipt. This service has heretofore been rendered to us by the —— national bank of Philadelphia. We would prefer to have our funds in New York, other things being equal."

In some banking quarters the circulars are construed as representing something like an effort at retaliation by the trust companies because of the action of the clearing house in adopting a rule requiring the trust companies that clear to keep a cash reserve against their deposits. This bidding on the part of trust companies for business, it was said, will mean a reopening of the question of charging a commission for the collection of out of town checks and may possible precipitate a war for business.

Three Italians were arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields today, who the secret service agents say are the leaders of a plot to forge thousands of naturalization papers. The prisoners are Roberto Bunaro, a foreman of laborers; Rocco Figulio, a printer; and Giuseppe Caparolli, a foreman in the department of sewers.

Park Elephant Does a Few Stunts.

A small elephant standing on its head on a truck going uptown was a spectacle that filled many young souls with delight this afternoon. Director Smith of the Central park menagerie had sent Billy Snyder, the elephant man, and Harry Tyson in a two horse truck to Hoboken to get the trick baby elephant, which arrived on the steamship Arcadia on Saturday. It is a female, 4 years old, and weighs about 1,200 pounds. It is six feet high and was in good humor.

Made Member of the Pope's Household.

The dignity of domestic prelate to Pope Leo XIII. was formally conferred upon Bishop McDonnell of Brooklyn today upon the occasion of the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. A number of prelates and prominent clergymen from all parts of the country were in attendance, among them being Archbishops Quigley of Chicago, Ryan of Philadelphia, and Elder of Cincinnati; Bishops McQuaid of Rochester, Chatard of Indianapolis, Ludden of Syracuse, O'Connor of Newark, McFaul of Trenton, and Mgr. Marchetti, representing the papal delegate, Falconio. The new honor to Bishop McDonnell makes him an assistant at the pontifical throne, and therefore an immediate member of the pope's household. The bishop wore his new robes of silk, sent from Rome for the occasion. He is the only bishop in the United States at present who is an assistant at the papal throne. The honor was conferred because of the progress of the diocese under his administration and because of his well known devotion to the holy see as shown by the pilgrimages of the last few years.

Police Raid New Policy Game; Play Lists of Stocks.

Since the departure of "Al" Adams, "the policy king," for Sing Sing, the police have been looking for his successor in what is known as the "new game." Capt. William H. Hodgins claims he has captured this "banker" in the person of Herman Fringer, alias "Daniel Sweeney," and his "runner," Joseph McDonald, at their headquarters at 21 Hamilton street late this afternoon.

Capt. Hodgins, who weighs more than 250 pounds, got caught in a small window while getting into the place. His men rescued him. The captain found a piece of paper, which contained a lot of drawing slips, and documents of the International Stock company's dealings with customers. The new game of policy, according to Capt. Hodgins, is just a little different from the old game. The players of the old game picked "gigs," "saddles," and other combinations from numbers running from 1 to 78. In the new game there are no "gigs" or "saddles"; instead there are the names of stocks listed on the exchange. Any three of these stocks, with the accompanying stocks, can be chosen by a player who has a good dream book. According to the winning slip, 48, 54, and 74, representing the American Steel, American Leather, and American Rubber stocks, were the first three on the list.

Estate of Rich Man Sued for Alleged Son.

An extraordinary suit against the estate of Charles Broadway Rouss, the blind merchant who died on March 3, 1902, was on trial today in the Supreme court before Justice Blanchard and a jury. It was brought by J. Arthur Fischer as guardian of an 11 year old boy, Charles Broadway Rosseau, whose mother, Eva S. Figgett Rosseau, says is the son of Rouss and that Rouss promised to settle $100,000 on him when he reached the age of 10. Rouss died a few months before that time.

Mrs. Rosseau is a well educated Virginian, and on the witness stand told her story in a quiet, convincing manner. Mrs. Rosseau testified that Rouss set up a home for her at 42 East Tenth street, where, on June 5, 1892, the boy was born, she having assumed the name of Rosseau a few months before. Dr. W. Travis Gibb attended the mother. Rouss was at that time 56 years old, and when he saw the baby he expressed his delight at being the father of the boy, saying he felt like a spring lamb over it, and he called him "his little prince." Dr. Gibb also said Mr. Rouss showed extraordinary affection for the boy, being particularly delighted when told of the strong resemblance between them.

Police and Subway Strikers in Many Fights.

Clashes between police and striking Italians took place at several points along the line of the subway today. The regulars at the trench and the reserves at the station houses were called upon to suppress a dozen fights caused by the attempts of the striking excavators to intimidate their countrymen who tried to return to work.

At Seventy-second street and Columbus avenue a young Italian was set upon by ten strikers. Merchants, messenger boys, and laborers passing at the time went to the lad's assistance. The police made three prisoners. About 2,000 men, or 50 per cent of the required number, are now at work on the subway.

A gang of striking Italians tried to induce men at work on a church at West Hoboken to quit. A squad of police attempted to disperse the strikers, and in the fight which followed the officers were roughly handled.

Constitution Meets Accident; May Not Race.

The ill luck which has followed the yacht Constitution ever since its launching two years ago is still active, for an accident today when it was being hauled out at City Island will keep it out of the first two or three of the Glen Cove races, if not the whole series. During the process of hauling out the cradle props gave way. The yacht heeled over with such force that some of the bilge blocks went almost through the thin bronze plating. The keel sank in the mud and it was all the tender could do to release it. Constitution will be dry docked at once.

Reliance went out for a spin at New Rochelle today. In a light wind it stood across the sound to Glen Cove, and after jogging about the cove for awhile it recrossed the sound in a light air and tied up at its moorings.

Harriman Will Be Operated On This Morning.

It was decided after a consultation of physicians and surgeons tonight to operate on E. H. Harriman tomorrow morning. This decision, however, is contingent on the advice of Dr. E. L. Trudeau, who, last summer, attended Mr. Harriman at Paul Smith's in the Adirondacks, when he had his first attack of appendicitis. Dr. Trudeau left Saranac lake tonight and will reach New York early in the morning. Mr. Harriman is almost well from his second attack, and is in good condition for the operation. He was informed of this last evening by the physicians who held the consultation.

Financiers Sail for Europe.

H. H. Hanna of Indianapolis, Charles T. Conant, treasurer of the Morton Trust company, and Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks of Cornell university, the members of the United States commission on international exchange, sailed for Europe today on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. Enrique C. Creel, the chairman of the Mexican commission, sailed on the same vessel. The party probably will remain abroad for three or four months, visiting London, Paris, The Hague, Berlin, and St. Petersburg, and perhaps one or two other European capitals.

WESTERN UNION MUST MOVE. SAYS COURT OF APPEALS.

Legal Fight with Pennsylvania Railroad Decided in Favor of the Latter—New Jersey Injunction Dissolved.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—The United States Court of Appeals today held that the Pennsylvania railroad had a legal right to remove the poles and wires of the Western Union Telegraph company from the railroad's right of way. The decision today affirms a judgment of the West Pennsylvania United States court and reverses a judgment of the New Jersey United States Circuit court.

The Pennsylvania court refused to grant the petition for an injunction sought by the Western Union Telegraph company against the Pennsylvania railroad, and the New Jersey court granted it.

The opinion is written by Judge Dallas, who says the decree of the New Jersey court was not made on the merits of the case but upon the ground that it would result in irreparable injury to no one and might soon be reviewed upon appeal, whereas an order refusing the injunction might have entailed much loss to the telegraph company.

The opinion quotes the contract of the Western Union company with the Pennsylvania railroad, dated Sept. 20, 1881, which contained a provision that after a period of twenty years, upon written notice given by the railroad company, the telegraph company would be bound to remove its lines whenever requested. After quoting numerous authorities, the opinion says:

"As it was not asserted that the telegraph company had the right independently of contract to maintain its lines upon the railroad and in view of the settled construction of the law, we cannot permit such a contention to be recognized as the basis of jurisdiction."

The opinion concludes as follows: "Having reached the conclusion that the fundamental position of the telegraph company in each of these cases is untenable, the Circuit court of western Pennsylvania is affirmed and the decree of the New Jersey court is reversed." In each case costs are imposed.

ARRESTED DURING ROOSEVELT VISIT.

Man Heard Making Mysterious Threat Taken Into Custody at Sacramento.

CARRIES BIG REVOLVER.

President Travels in Two States and Is Joined by Secretary of the Navy Moody.

Sacramento, Cal., May 19.—During President Roosevelt's visit here this evening a man was arrested by Citizen F. M. Woodson. Woodson heard him say; "One has died, and another might just as well."

When arrested and taken to the jail the man gave his name as Randleman. He had a big sixshooter inside his vest and two extra cartridges in his pocket. He offered no explanation. He has a ticket from Sacramento to the Selby Smelting works. He had $27 in his pocket.

Guest of Sacramento.

Sacramento gave President Roosevelt an enthusiastic welcome when he arrived at 6:45 o'clock this evening. The whole city was decorated in honor of the nation's chief executive, and the station was surrounded by a great throng of cheering people.

The president was met at the station by Gov. Pardee and Mayor Clark and the citizens' committee. Followed by several carriages filled with citizens and preceded by a coach filled with musicians, the president drove from the depot to the grandstand, which was crowded with school children, who presented a pretty appearance, each one of the several thousand little ones waving an American flag.

After the review of the school children President Roosevelt drove to the Sutter club, where he dined. After dinner he drove to the state capitol building, where he had a brief informal talk with Gov. Pardee and other citizens.

Now on Way to Portland.

The governor's reception over, President Roosevelt stepped out upon the rostrum erected on the east front of the capitol building and delivered an address to the assembled citizens. Thousands were present. At the conclusion of his remarks the president drove to his train at the depot, and later started on his journey toward Portland. Several stops will be made in California before the Oregon line is reached.

Secretary of the Navy Moody, who joined the president at Riverside, Cal., and who was to have started for Washington today, has accepted the president's invitation to go through to Cheyenne with him. Cheyenne will be reached on May 30.

While the president's train stopped at Reno this morning he went out on the back platform of his car and greeted the immense throng that had assembled to give him a true Nevada welcome. He did not attempt to make a speech, but talked first to one, then to another. When his train started he kept waving his hand and saying, "Goodby! goodby!"

Visits Nevada's Capital.

President Roosevelt reached Carson at 9 o'clock this morning. The city was in gala attire and members of the presidential party stated that the capital of Nevada was the most handsomely decorated city of its size that had been visited. The weather was fine.

Gov. Sparks and Mayor Mackey of Carson met the president at the state line and accompanied the party to their city. The entire party was driven to the state capitol building, where a platform had been erected. The portico of the capitol was circled with rifles, forming an arch over the desk from which the president spoke. Over this was stretched a banner with the words: "Nevada honors the hero of San Juan." Among the decorations were two mounted specimens of Buffalo heads, raised on the farm of Gov. Sparks.

It is estimated that fully 15,000 persons gave the president welcome as he drove down the street leading to the Capitol park. The grounds were crowded. The president made a twenty minutes' talk. He dwelt on the possibilities of irrigation and forestry and congratulated Nevada on her state law regarding irrigation.

Brief Address at Reno.

After the visit to Carson the president's train returned to Reno, and the party was taken in carriages to the courthouse, where the president made an address.

After a drive about Reno the president spent ten minutes in the chamber of commerce, and was then driven to the state university, where he spoke to 400 students.

Among the pleasant incidents of the president's visit to Reno was when H. J. Barto of Battle Mountain, one of the Roosevelt Rough Riders, who smelt smoke with the president in his famous charge up San Juan hill, sent his card in to the president.

"Show him in," was the president's command. On Barto's appearance the president greeted him cordially and asked him several questions.

The president was presented with a string of Truckee river trout, fresh from their mountain home, and a case of Nevada honey, when his train passed through on its way to Carson.

B. F. JONES PASSES AWAY.

Head of Big Steel Corporation and Well Known Politician Dies in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 19.—Benjamin F. Jones Sr., member of the advisory board of Jones & Laughlins Steel company, Ltd., and for many years head of their manufacturing interests, died at his residence in Allegheny at 2:25 this morning. The end came unexpectedly. Mr. Jones had been ill for the last week or ten days from nervousness, but no serious results were apprehended.

On April 29 he was seized with an attack of indigestion. Later neuralgia set in on the right side of the stomach, and the acute pain caused considerable suffering at times. The pain and worry attendant on his illness caused Mr. Jones so much nervousness that his constitution was undermined, and when the fatal attack made itself felt his vitality was unable to withstand the shock.

Mr. Jones was 79 years old. He had been one of the foremost contributors to the wonderful industrial development of Pittsburg, and for years had exerted great influence on the public affairs of Pennsylvania. His life had always been filled with responsibilities. He was chairman of the republican national committee during the Blaine campaign in 1884, and was known throughout the country.

While making no pretense as a writer or public speaker, Mr. Jones wrote an article on protection in the North American Review which has become a classic, and his speech in calling to order the republican national convention of 1888 evidenced his ability as an orator.

OBITUARY.

MRS. GEORGE W. KENDRICK JR., one of the best known educators in the United States, died last evening at her home, 3507 Baring street, Philadelphia. Few women of the last century did more for the intellectual and moral uplifting of their sex than Mrs. Kendrick. She was also prominent in most of the patriotic movements of the last decade.

Denies Charge of Wife Murder.

Greencastle, Ind., May 19.—Henry Seward, upon whom suspicion rests for the murder of his wife, was before the coroner and prosecuting attorney today. Seward says that since their marriage he and his wife had never had a cross word and there never had been any jealousy. Seward said he would immediately sell his property and turn the money over to the officers to use in carrying on the search for the murderer. He said his wife's wedding ring and his razors were stolen by the murderer.

the militia, when questioned today regarding the alleged scandal in connection with furnishing supplies to the militia, said:

"There can be no scandal in the furnishing of supplies, for the good reason that no supplies have been turned over to the state troops, and not one dollar of the appropriation has been expended. There may be 'graft' as alleged, but I cannot understand how it is brought about.

"Arms, ammunition, uniforms, tents, and other supplies are furnished the state troops, but none of the money ever passes into the hands of the states. The proportion of the appropriation due each state is assigned to them and the proper officer, upon requisition, is furnished with supplies. These funds have not been apportioned among the states and will not be until Secretary Root receives the report of the inspectors, who are now engaged in the work of ascertaining how many state troops are enrolled, as allotments are based on the number of men actually in service."

Reid, Murdoch & Co. of Chicago, importers of currants, object to paying 2 cents a pound on "dirt" or impurities, which are packed with the fruit, and have asked the Supreme court to review the decision of the board of general appraisers, the District Federal court, and the Circuit Court of Appeals against the importers. The testimony showed that as high as 26 per cent of impurities were sometimes contained in the shipments of uncleaned currants, and as cleaned currants pay the same rate of duty, the importers claim the effect of the ruling is to subject the same class of merchandise to two different duties.

The government holds that impurities are inherent in merchandise; that the currants of commerce are uncleaned, and that previous decisions on other articles and the difficulty of ascertaining the amount of impurities preclude the allowance of rebates.

By denying the application of the Anglo-American Provision company of Chicago for a review of the judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals, the Supreme court has, in effect, affirmed the ruling of the treasury department that no allowance can be made for rebate duty on the imported borax used in preserving hams and other hog products which are exported.

The company claimed it was forced to use imported borax because of the high price fixed by the borax trust on the domestic product, and that it was entitled to a reimbursement under the rebate law for duty paid on imported material which enters into the manufacture of an exported article. The government maintained that hams, sides, etc., were not manufactured articles within the meaning of the law, and that the quantity of borax used was not, as the law provides, easy of ascertainment.

Chief Clerk Walter Clark of the North Carolina Supreme court is the choice of William J. Bryan for the democratic presidential nomination. While last in Washington Bryan experienced a desire to discuss politics and arranged an interview with Joe Blackburn. Mr. Bryan sounded Blackburn as to his choice for presidential nominee.

The Kentuckian ventured to say he had given the subject little thought, but proceeded to enumerate the various democrats who had been discussed in connection with the nomination. Judge Parker first came in his mind, but the mention of his name did not arouse enthusiasm in the colonel, who finally made a flat declaration that he was not the man. Senator Gorman was objected to with equal positiveness by the Nebraskan. Olney likewise was eliminated. Hill was passed up in an abrupt way, and after exhausting the list of probabilities Senator Blackburn mentioned the name of Grover Cleveland. This threw the colonel into a half hour argument which was denunciatory to the only living expresident.

Senator Blackburn remarked: "I have exhausted the list and none fill the bill, so I would like to have your views."

Then it was that Mr. Bryan said he had in mind "a man who filled every requirement for the party leadership in the next great presidential contest." With much eagerness Senator Blackburn asked for the name of the man.

"Judge Walter Clark," was the reply.

"And who is he?" asked the Kentuckian.

"He is the chief justice of the North Carolina Supreme court," Mr. Bryan said, "and an honest, courageous man, standing squarely on the party platform."

Some months ago Judge Clark was a guest of Mr. Bryan at his home in Lincoln, where he spent several days. It is said of Judge Clark that he is more populistic than Mr. Bryan. In 1896 he went to Mexico to study the free silver question. That same year he accepted the populistic nomination for chief justice after having been named by the democrats.

BAPTISTS SCORE REED SMOOT.

Woman's Home Missions Society Will Ask Senate to Exclude the Mormon from Membership.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 19.—At the second day's session of the Women's Baptist Home Missions society resolutions were adopted placing the society on record as opposed to the seating of Reed Smoot in the United States senate and petitioning the senate to exclude Smoot from its councils and to take such initiative as may be necessary to secure for the people of the United States an amendment to the constitution making polygamy a crime against the organic law.

A resolution declaring that the feeling against negroes manifested by many white people and the idea that negroes were not capable of developing a study of moral character was unchristianlike and not justified by the findings of missionaries working among the negroes was adopted.

The directors' report relating to the consolidation of the various Baptist organizations was referred to by the committee on resolutions as follows:

"Your committee is of the opinion that the board of directors acted wisely in unanimously rejecting any plan for consolidation that fails adequately to recognize and provide for the work of our society. In this connection also special attention is called to a conference recently held by certain leading pastors in Chicago, at the invitation of your board, in which it was affirmed with practical unanimity that no plan of merging could be favored that would 'sacrifice efficiency in carrying forward the specific work for which the women's societies were called into being.'"

CALLS ALL POLITICS CORRUPT.

Bishop McVickar Gives Scathing Denouncement of Present System in Address to Churchmen.

Providence, R. I., May 19.—[Special.]—The address of the Rt. Rev. Bishop W. N. McVickar was the principal feature of this morning's proceedings at the 113th annual convention of the Rhode Island Episcopalians. He said:

"I speak of the call and duties of Christian citizenship in the day of darkness and gloom for the state and the nation, as well as when the very foundations of our god given heritage are at stake. That political machinery by which we are governed is corrupt to rottenness is not too much to say; indeed, it needs not the saying, it is flagrant and defiant and its effects on the community are everywhere known and felt.

"It is bad enough to be badly governed, but it is worse to know that the laws which are to be made and the offices for their administration are spoils and loot to be acquired at a price in the interest of any party or any scheme."

TULLOCH INSISTS PAYNE IS WRONG.

Former Cashier Tells How He Handled All Porto Rican Postal Accounts.

REPEATS HIS CHARGES.

Disallowed Bills Often Repaid as Salary to Men Who Actually Performed No Service.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Ex-Cashier S. W. Tulloch was in Washington today, and in an interview said:

"I notice Mr. Payne observes that I could know nothing more about the postal service in Porto Rico than about the postal service in Chicago. Perhaps Mr. Payne isn't aware that as cashier of the Washington city postoffice no postmaster there could even secure a box of matches that I didn't pay for. Money for the salaries of the postmasters, clerks, carriers, route men, and other employés for every postoffice in the island passed through my hands, and the postmaster of Washington city was responsible on his bond for the proper disbursement of it.

"Not only was I the cashier for every postoffice in Porto Rico, but I was also auditor of the accounts, which I had to watch carefully lest some employés might double up on me. I was required to look out there were no double payments either for services or materials, that not more than one building in any town or city was rented for a postoffice, and scores of other things. Often these vouchers were not in satisfactory shape, and had to be returned, not once, but twice or thrice, and corrected.

Kept Accounts for Porto Rico.

"I acted likewise in a third capacity in keeping accounts for the supplies sent to every office in Porto Rico. A postmaster, for instance, whose bond was $2,500 might be furnished $2,500 worth of stamps and other postal materials on going to the island.

"This sum of money was turned over and over again. He would send me cash, which he had realized on these materials or vouchers for expenditures, as the case might be, and I had to send him still further supplies, always watching out that the amount intrusted to his care did not exceed the amount of his bond.

"If I did not know more about Porto Rican postal affairs than about postal affairs in Chicago," declared Mr. Tulloch, "I wasn't fit to be cashier. That's all there is to it."

How Accounts Were Repaid.

Touching the question of expenses for individuals which auditing officers refused to pass, Mr. Tulloch said:

"I know that in some cases where these men came in with expenses which the accounting officers of the treasury would not pass, an ingenious scheme was devised to help them out. By direction of First Assistant Heath the names of these employés would be ordered kept on the pay rolls for a time, long enough to make sufficient money in salary to equal the tabooed accounts.

"I know in one case a favorite had come back to Washington, and his name had been dropped from the rolls. He had been drawing pay at the rate of $1,200 a year, but it was found that some of his expenses would not pass the auditing offices. Forthwith an order came to me to put him on the rolls at $1,400. He performed no additional work, but was paid a salary till the deficiency was made up. In other words, the government was made to pay itself."

Capt. Henry A. Castle, auditor for the postoffice department, today gave out a statement in reply to charges made against his office by ex-Cashier S. W. Tulloch of the Washington city postoffice. Capt. Castle says:

"I have not yet received the postmaster general's letter transmitting abstracts of Mr. Tulloch's complaints referring to this office, but my reply will be brief, prompt, and, I think, conclusive. I shall welcome the opportunity, for I have had special satisfaction in the record of this bureau in settling the accounts of the Spanish war period.

"Some of Mr. Tulloch's statements are reckless and others absurdly false. The controller never disallowed $40,000 that had been approved by this office. My recollection now is that less than $1,000 finally was disapproved, and that of that amount a considerable portion was simply charged under another head."

Postmaster General Payne today said that he had not communicated with Former First Assistant Postmaster General Heath, but that he thought he would do so later on.

Milwaukee Office All Right.

Mr. Payne said today that the investigation at some of the postoffices had been completed, instancing Milwaukee, where, he said, the accounts had been found correct. He said Controller Tracewell had personally investigated the accounts of the New York postoffice, and the postmaster general added that he understands the accounts were found to be straight and in proper shape.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Faust by Pupils.

Pupils of the Chicago Musical college, assisted by some professional instrumentalists, gave Gounod's "Faust" last evening at the Auditorium before an audience that filled the vast house to its last seat. The performance was one entirely creditable, the fact being considered that the talent engaged was almost exclusively amateur. The orchestra, under Theodore Spiering's leadership, furnished an accompaniment surprisingly smooth and embued with a spirit and intelligence and characterized by an attention to shading and expression that made it thoroughly acceptable, and served furthermore to demonstrate again Mr. Spiering's pronounced talent as a leader of opera. The chorus, which was made up entirely of pupils, was also worthy of hearty commendation. The voices were all young and fresh, the faces and figures likewise, and the Gounod music was sung with admirable precision in attack, good body of tone, and considerable appreciation of both its dramatic significance and its musical beauty.

The principals had of course to stand involuntary comparison with the many famed professionals who have been heard here time and time again in the same rôles, and the comparison was no slight one. But all the work showed earnest endeavor, and in certain instances praise may with justice be bestowed. Henry A. Mix sang Faust in reasonably satisfactory manner, proving himself the possessor of a tenor voice of agreeable quality fairly well schooled, and which when matured should enable him to take a place of more or less prominence on the professional stage. Carl Cochem displayed a ponderous bass as Mephisto, his most satisfactory achievement being the singing of the Serenade; Francis Lieb sang the music of Valentine with an unlooked for degree of effectiveness; Miss Katherine Gemmill as Marguerite was less efficient, her voice being so schooled that it is pinched and hard and produced with effort; Miss Myrtle Wilkins was acceptable as Siebel, and Miss Ellyn Swanson as Martha and Kenneth P. Boulton as Wagner completed the cast.

W. L. HUBBARD.

At the Theaters.

The headliner this week at the Chicago opera house is Robert Hilliard, who, with his company, is presenting the dramatization of Richard Harding Davis' "The Littlest Girl," in which he has been seen here before, and which is this week again proving its popularity. Others on the bill are the Glinsarettes, a troupe of European acrobats, who are more than commonly skillful; Musical Dale, who supplies a pleasing musical act; Foy and Clark, who have a merry skit called "The Spring of Youth"; and Howard and Bland.

At the Olympic Emmett Corrigan and his company are appearing in a comedy entitled "The Man with the Green Eyes"; Nichols sisters are offering a coon act; Charles Harris, "the lamp inspector," has an amusing number; and Inez McCusker is heard in musical selections; and at the Haymarket the headiners are the Eretto family of jumpers, Elizabeth Murray, Wilfred Clarke and company in "A Mock Tragedy," and Mr. and Mrs. Waterous in musical specialties.

At the Masonic Temple theater this week the star of particular brightness is Camille D'Arville. The popular light opera singer is slighter in figure than when last seen here, but her good looks have suffered none in consequence of the change, and her voice is still among the best sopranos of its class. She sings in the same hearty, good natured fashion that has ever distinguished her, wandering occasionally from true pitch, just as she long has done, but on the whole pleasing her hearers beyond the average. She gave yesterday a sentimental love song, "For You," and as encore "My Honeysuckle Girl," which now figures conspicuously among the successes of, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

Other attractive features of the bill are Scott brothers, who do some remarkably neat acrobatic work; Alice Raymond, who plays the cornet, French horn, and trumpets in skillful fashion; Morris Cronin, who does some clever juggling; Hayes and Healy, the "ringmaster and the circus rider," who have an amusing comedy acrobatic act; and the Empire City quartet, which offers an acceptable musical number.

Miss Marlowe is now in the last week of her engagement at Powers' and the last week but one of her present season. Next Monday she will take "The Cavalier" to Milwaukee, and after seven performances there will leave for New York and sail immediately for her summer outing in Germany. In September she begins rehearsals of her new play, "Fools of Fortune," which H. V. Esmond has written for her.

"When Johnny Comes Marching Home" is in its second week at McVicker's, and is prospering as pronouncedly as it did during the first seven days of its stay, which means that crowded houses greet it at every performance. "The Tenderfoot" is moving along happily at the Dearborn, "King Dodo" finds its quota of admirers at the Studebaker, "York State Folks" is in its last week at the Great Northern and is doing large business, as it has ever since it arrived, and "The Voyagers" is journeying smoothly along at the La Salle.

At the outlying theaters the bills consist of "Mistress Nell Gwynn" at the Bush temple, "La Mascotte" at the Garrick, "Lynwood" at the New American, "Reaping the Harvest" at the Academy, "Ten Ton Door" at the Bijou, "At Piney Ridge" at the Columbus, "Sandy Bottom" at the Alhambra, "The Clemenceau Case" at the Thirty-first Street theater, and "Master and Man" at the People's.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kendrick celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary yesterday at the home of their son-in-law and youngest daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Frank H. Zinn, Pine avenue, Riverside, where they have made their home since 1895. Thirty-five guests were at luncheon.

MEN OF THE GRAY IN BIG REUNION.

Confederate Veterans Assemble in New Orleans and Cheer Their Favorites.

TRIBUTE TO GEN. GORDON.

Great Outburst of Enthusiasm Greets Widow of Stonewall Jackson When She Appears.

New Orleans, La., May 19.—The thirteenth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans was opened in the great auditorium at the fair grounds to day.

There were thousands of veteran soldiers, hundreds of beautiful women, and above and around on every hand a profusion of fluttering flags and waving streamers. There was martial music without limit and enthusiasm unbounded. Over the beauty and success of the day there was only a single shadow, and that promises to disappear before the morning. This was the illness of Gen. Gordon, the commander in chief of the organization. He was not well when he left his hotel for the auditorium and had not been in his usual health for several days. Nothing but his grim fighting spirit carried him through the day without something akin to a collapse.

The general was not able to attend the afternoon session at the auditorium and remained quietly in his room at the hotel, receiving no visitors. His condition is in no manner serious, but it is possible he may not be able to preside at all the sessions between now and Friday noon. He expects, however, to be present tomorrow.

Great Demonstration at Opening.

When the hour for opening arrived the platform was crowded with women and men whose names are household words throughout the south. When Gen. Gordon entered the hall cheer after cheer rang through the building. He was surrounded by a group of friends as he reached the rostrum and for a time was unable to reach his chair. No sooner was he seated than a young woman—Miss Tarleton of Waco, Tex.—approached, and, bending down, kissed the general. He sprang quickly to his feet to acknowledge the honor with repeated bows.

Gen. J. B. Levert, commander of the Louisiana division of the confederate veterans, called the assembly to order and introduced the chaplain, Gen. the Rev. J. W. William Jones, who delivered an eloquent invocation. Then in succession came speeches of welcome to the veterans from Paul Capdevielle, mayor of New Orleans; Loys Charbounet, who spoke for the local organization of the Sons of Veterans; Mrs. William J. Behan, representing the Confederate Southern Memorial association; and Gov. W. W. Heard, who spoke for the people of the state of Louisiana.

Address by Governor Heard.

After a few opening words of welcome the governor said: "Veterans, the outcome of the struggle that you carried on for four long years against the most powerful forces and armaments that the world has yet seen, in no manner or sense can obscure the glory and fame that you won for Dixie's land. It is not extravagant to say that the 600,000 confederates confronted a coalition of America, Europe, and Africa."

The governor concluded his address by repeating the welcome of the people of Louisiana.

E. B. Krutschnitt of New Orleans, chairman of the local executive committee in charge of all the arrangements for the reunion, presented to Gen. Gordon as commander in chief the auditorium, which had been constructed for the convention's use. As Gen. Gordon rose to reply he was enthusiastically cheered.

Mrs Stonewall Jackson Presented.

Gen. Gordon made a short speech of acceptance and at its conclusion he led to the front of the platform Mrs. Stonewall Jackson and said: "It was my fortune, and I will never cease to thank God that it was my fortune, to follow, to know well, and to love Stonewall Jackson. He is not here, but the best half of him is here in the person of his wife. Comrades, I present to you Mrs. Stonewall Jackson."

In the wild cheers that swept the hall the fair faced woman from Virginia was made to know once more how the southerner remembers.

"And here's a young Jackson," called out the general, leading forward a pretty girl, Miss Julia Jackson Christian, the granddaughter of the famous soldier. As he spoke he kissed her, and the cheers were redoubled for the general and the girl.

Judge John H. Reagan, the sole surviving member of the Davis cabinet, then spoke from one portion of the rostrum, and an adjournment was taken until the afternoon.

After the speech the mobbing of Gen. Gordon was resumed with redoubled energy. One old soldier intoxicated by his enthusiasm and a few incidentals, sank on his knees before the general, and would have hugged him had not the bystanders interfered.

The oration of Judge Rodgers consumed the entire afternoon session.

The convention will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Sons of Veterans met at noon in the Crescent theater, but transacted no business beyond listening to a number of welcoming addresses and appointing various committees.

The feature of the evening was the ball given by the Washington artillery at their armory.

PALESTINE HOME FOR ORPHAN JEWS

International Fund May Grow Out of the Recent Race Riots in Bessarabia.

LOCAL RELIEF PLANS.

Contributions Pour In for the Sufferers and Many Benefits Are Planned.

Out of the movement to relieve the sufferers in Kishineff may develop an enterprise for an orphan home in Palestine for children of the victims of the mob.

A letter was received yesterday by Leon Zolotkoff, grand master of the western department of the American Federation of Zionists, and Bernard Horwich, chairman of the relief committee organized in the Ghetto, urging the founding of such an institution in Palestine. The letter was written by M. Ussiskind of Ekatrinaslow, Bessarabia, who is the head of the Zion movement in his part of Russia.

Suggests Home for Orphans.

It is as follows:

Ekatrinaslow, May 8, 1903.—Messrs. Zolotkoff and B. Horwich, members of the international Zion executive committee, Chicago—Dear Sirs and Brethren: I have just returned from Kishineff, where I have witnessed the misfortune of our brethren. Only a Jeremiah could picture the horrors that I have seen. Every Jewish house with few exceptions is ruined. Hardly a person of Jewish blood can be found in that city who did not suffer bodily injury. I have been in the cemetery and gazed at scores of newly made graves. I have seen the terribly injured people in the hospitals, groaning and wishing to die. I think it would have been better for a good many had they been killed outright, as they will remain cripples, suffering for life. The disaster is beyond description.

However, we Zionists must not lose our heads, but continue on our way to Zion, where we will perhaps be able to live in peace. I would propose that a fund be created for the purpose of establishing in Palestine an orphan home for the children of those who have been murdered in Kishineff and that our dear Dr. Kohan Bernstein be the one to whom contributions be forwarded. The orphans should be brought over to the holy land, where they may grow up on the soil of Palestine, live in peace, and forget the terrible experience of exile. I have sent my contribution to Dr. Kohan Bernstein and hope that every other good Zionist will do likewise.
M. USSISKIND.

Some Local Relief Plans.

"I think the suggestion is excellent," said Mr. Zolotkoff. "Money could not be devoted to a more worthy enterprise. What is to become of these children unless they are provided with some refuge, and where could a better place be found than in the land of their forefathers, where they will be allowed to live without persecution?"

At a meeting of the Ghetto Kishineff relief committee this afternoon, the advisability of applying whatever money is raised in future to the orphan home will be discussed. The committee already has sent to Kishineff $2,750. In addition to this sum a committee of nine collectors has raised $2,175 in the last four days and $1,458 has been raised at massmeetings, a total of $3,633, which is being held to await the decision of the committee.

Charles F. Gunther, president of the Coliseum association, has offered the building to the relief association for a benefit performance some night next week. Charles Elliott, manager of the Thirty-first Street theater, will devote the receipts of Thursday night's performance to the sufferers.

Another benefit performance, in which stars from all theatrical companies playing in Chicago will participate, is being planned for May 28. Manager Litt of McVicker's has offered the use of the theater.

President William R. Harper and the professors of the Chicago university have been asked to coöperate with other schools and colleges of the city in urging justice, fair play, and protection for the Jews in Russia.

DERVISHES SUFFER HEAVY LOSS

In Fight at Burrilli 300 of Mad Mullah's Followers Are Killed, Only Two Wounded Found.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 19.—An official war office dispatch from Aden, Arabia, under today's date, gives details of the desperate encounter which took place at Burrilli, Somaliland, May 4, between an Abyssinian force operating in conjunction with the British against the mad mullah and a large force of the latter's dervishes. After a hand to hand fight lasting forty-five minutes the dervishes were driven off with the loss of 300 killed and 2 wounded. The Abyssinians had 21 men killed and 10 wounded. Subsequently the Abyssinians raided the wells northwest of Burrilli and captured several prisoners. The latter said the mullah was at Ubertake.

The defeat of the Mad Mullah's dervishes is the first blow struck by the Abyssinian contingent which is coöperating with Brig. Gen. Manning's advance. The Abyssinians number 10,000, are mostly armed with modern weapons, and are accompanied by some British officers.

The scene of the Burrilli fight is 120 miles southwest of the scene of the disaster to the British force under Col. Plunkett on April 17, when the colonel, all of the British officers, and practically his entire force of 170 men were annihilated by the dervishes, and is 200 miles from Gen. Manning's present quarters at Bohotle.

Premier at Opening of French Chamber Says He Is Prepared to Discuss Situation.

PARIS, May 19.—The chambers reassembled today after the Easter holidays. Premier Combes announced that it was his purpose to immediately discuss and dispose of all interpellations involving the religious policy of the government.

Offers to Give $250 to Charity if Russian Ambassador Can Convince Three Americans That Massacres Are Due to Hatred for Money Lenders—Announcement in House of Commons Places Number of Victims at Double That in Report.

LONDON, May 19.—The Jews of London are indignant at the assertion of Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador at Washington, that the troubles at Kishineff were the outcome of the usury of the money lenders. The editor of the Jewish World offers to give $250 to any American charitable institution named by Count Cassini if the latter can substantiate his assertion to the satisfaction of three Americans of standing in the United States.

Cranborne Tells of Massacre.

The underforeign secretary, Lord Cranborne, was asked in the house of commons today for information on the massacre of Jews at Kishineff, Bessarabia, a month ago. The secretary, in reply, placed the total number of killed at about double the number given in the official Russian report. Otherwise the facts did not differ from those already published. Lord Cranborne added: "According to the government's information the disturbances arose from the murder of a Christian lad, which was wrongly attributed to the Jews. The latter retaliated on their assailants, and the result was an attack on the Jews by a mob on Easter Sunday and Easter Monday, in which, it is believed about 100 Jews lost their lives and many more were injured."

Governor's Dismissal Confirmed.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 19.—The report that Lieut. Gen. Raaben, governor of Kishineff, Bessarabia, where the massacre of Jews took place a month ago, had been dismissed by the czar, is confirmed. The imperial ukase dismissing the general is dated May 17.

The authorities here have suppressed the Volny and have prohibited street sales of the Novosti, in both cases for contravention of the press regulations.

Says No Help Is Needed.

The Russian government has received no representations from the government of the United States in regard to the Kishineff massacres beyond an inquiry, through Ambassador McCormick, several days ago, whether the money and supplies which were being offered from all parts of America for the sufferers would be acceptable to the Russian government. The foreign office replied that, while it greatly appreciated the American generosity, there was no need for relief, as the wants of the inhabitants of Kishineff were looked after.

There is no doubt that while Russian officials much regret the Kishineff massacres, they equally resent what they call the "anti-Russian agitation in America," which they claim "is fomented by the influential English press."

German Funds Distributed

BERLIN, May 19.—The Russian government's reply to Ambassador McCormick regarding the latter's inquiry about the acceptability of American relief for the suffering Jews at Kishineff was read by the Jewish committees here with interest as being the only official utterance yet made on the question of foreign contributions.

The German foreign office has not acted in the matter nor has the Russian administration raised any obstacle to the transmission of funds collected in Germany.

The Commercial Disconto bank, one of the forwarding agencies, has been informed that its collections are now being distributed at Kishineff, through a business firm there, without hindrance. In all $50,000 has been raised in Germany for the Kishineff relief work.

RUSSIAN GOVERNOR IS SLAIN.

Assassinated by Two Men in the Town Park at Ufa, Capital of Province.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

UFA, European Russia, May 19.—Gov. Bogdanovitch was instantly killed today by two men in the town park.

Bogdanovitch was governor of the province of Ufa, in eastern Russia, and some 1,500 miles from Bessarabia, the scene of the Jewish massacres. The province is bounded on the east by the Ural mountains. It has 47,031 square miles of territory and a population of 1,500,000. Ufa, the capital, is a walled town of 40,000 inhabitants.

LONDON CLUBS LIMIT BRIDGE.

Fix Total at Lower Sum than Players Have Been in the Habit of Staking on Game.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 19.—Several west end clubs have found it necessary to limit bridge gambling by restrictions similar to those cabled as having been adopted in the houses of society leaders. The newly formed Atlantic club has decided that not more than $2,500 a week be booked to a single member, points to be limited to 50 cents each, with a maximum of $50 on a game. These sums considerably exceed those allowed by the other clubs, but the Atlantic is the name of "the millionaires' club." This explains why high play is allowed there.

The weekly limit at the St. James club has been fixed at $1,500 and at the Bachelors' club at $1,000, while the points of the game are limited to 25 cents at each club.

No money changes hands during the games at these clubs. Each place employs a card room cashier to keep the accounts. If the loser does not pay his account by an appointed date he ceases to be a member.

One of the developments of the game is that interested persons will sit behind a known skillful player and back his skill. The secretary of one of the clubs says that when a member is known to be an exceptionally good player, but not rich or not rash enough to play for heavy points other members will carry him, that is pay his points and draw a percentage of his winnings. Many a clever man is making $5,000 a year in this manner without running any risk.

SAYS BEDFORD BABY IS GENUINE

A. Thomas, Who Declares He Was Appointed Sponsor by the Father, Vouches for Infant's Identity.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Herald.]

PARIS, May 19.—A. Thomas, a commission agent at 34 Rue Monthabor, Paris, who says he was the godfather appointed by the late G. S. Bedford for the child now said to be an adopted one, said today:

"I can formally declare that the child was in his Paris apartment six weeks before his death. I personally saw the baby lying on his bed of sickness not only once but on several occasions when I called on business. Mrs. Bedford was present at every one of these interviews, and on one occasion especially I remember Bedford asking if I had not the opinion that the child resembled him, a fact I could not deny.

"Should any doubt exist in the mind of anybody it would be easy to compare a photograph of the deceased with the child, and at once the most biased person would declare the likeness most striking.

"My opinion has been confirmed by several friends in Paris of Mr. Bedford who knew him well, and have seen the child since it came to Paris in January and were struck with the resemblance."

FREE TRADE NOT SACRED.

LORD ROSEBERY DESERTS TIME HONORED BRITISH IDEAL.

In Speech at Burnley He Gives Qualified Support to Secretary Chamberlain's Policy of Fostering Colonial Commerce — Suggests Liberal and Free Discussion of Entire Subject—Student of Social Economy Says Changes Are Sure to Come.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 19.—In an address delivered before the Burnley chamber of commerce today ex-Prime Minister Lord Rosebery spoke approvingly of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's tariff proposal, and, although he did not commit himself fully to their support, he said he did not regard free trade as a part of the sermon on the mount. He did not believe that it should be received rigidly as a divinely appointed dispensation, while as a convinced imperialist he said he would condemn no scheme for the unity of the empire without full examination and consideration.

Admits Need for Change.

He pointed out many difficulties in the way of accepting Mr. Chamberlain's proposals and he believed it necessary in the event of the adoption of the scheme to have some form of direct representation for the colonies in Great Britain. In any case, it was certain a real change in the existing fiscal system must be preceded by a business conference between the best financial experts in Great Britain and the colonies to decide whether the scheme was practicable or advisable.

Declares Change Sure to Come.

Benjamin Kidd, the sociologist, author of "Social Evolution," in indorsing Mr. Chamberlain's proposal for a preferential tariff between England and her colonies, says he sees the phases of Mr. Chamberlain's work, begun in the Birmingham municipality, expressing themselves on the larger and higher stage of colonial politics. He adds:

"The basis upon which our old free trade policy rested is past, or is being rapidly cut away. Free trade rested on free competition. The tendency of all our financial undertakings is now towards monopoly.

"There certainly will be in the near future but one overshadowing issue in politics in this country, as there is already only one in the United States. It will be that of the consumer on one hand and labor on the other, leagued against monopoly in production.

"The fight of the consumer will be to preserve the principle of free competition, the fight of the worker to preserve the standard of living and wages. They will both have to organize themselves through the state. The empire is the only possible economic basis of this new policy."

Colonies Displaying Interest.

Mr. Chamberlain's tariff proposals as set forth in his Birmingham speech are being received with sympathetic interest by public men and the press in the British colonies, but there is little apparent prospect of this sympathy taking practical form. With the exception of Prime Minister Barton, the whole federal cabinet of Australia is not disposed to alter the existing tariff regulations while the cabinets of the individual colonies have not a voice in tariff matters.

Some newspapers point out that it would be just as disastrous to have Australian markets swamped with British as with foreign goods. The farthest that the protection section is prepared to go is to increase the duties on foreign goods while maintaining duties on British goods as they are at present.

Is Liked in South Africa.

The reception of the proposals in south Africa has been more formal than in Australia, especially by the interests centering at Johannesburg, although the German section there does not favor them. A considerable indorsement of the scheme has been received from Cape Colony, particularly from the progressives, but the government does not commit itself to any view. The prime minister of Natal fears that the scheme is impracticable under existing conditions.

REDMOND BLAMES DISTURBERS.

Says Trouble Started by Mrs. McBride in Dublin Was Due to Irresponsible Malcontents.

LONDON, May 19.—John Redmond, M. P., concerning the disorderly proceedings at the meeting of citizens held in the Dublin rotunda last night in support of the Irish parliamentary fund, says:

"The disturbance would have been easily nipped at the outset, but the people naturally shrank from using force to remove Mrs. McBride and other women who led the disorder. After awhile these women left, and the other disturbers were speedily removed. They consisted of thirty or forty young men who acted in concert. They were roughly and violently treated, which I regretted, but it was impossible to restrain the people.

"The disturbance was quickly over, and for two hours after unanimity and enthusiasm prevailed. Long speeches were delivered, resolutions in conformity with the object of the meeting were unanimously adopted, and large sums were subscribed to the Irish parliamentary fund. On emerging into the street Lord Mayor Harrington received an enthusiastic reception.

"The disturbance was planned by an irresponsible junta in Dublin, who are exasperated at the peaceful prospects for Ireland."

SIFTON REPLIES TO CARNEGIE.

Canadian Minister Is Satirical in Treating of Prophecy Regarding Future of His Country.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 19.—The Hon. Clifford Sifton, Canadian minister of the interior, speaking at a banquet here tonight referred to Andrew Carnegie's recent statement that there is no future for Canada except as part of the United States. Minister Sifton said they had been told that a great many times and doubtless it was distressing, but there was one consolation, all were going to destruction together. Canada had been fighting against geography for years, pretty successfully, but it was true that the progress was not phenomenal. A few hundred thousand people going into the woods would not accomplish wonders in a short time.

CHINA BOWS TO RUSSIA.

ONE BY ONE SHE AGREES TO ALL DEMANDS FIRST REJECTED.

Promises Everything Asked Regarding Manchuria and Exclusive Mining Rights in the Mukden Province Are Believed Granted the St. Petersburg Government — Great Britain Decides to Accept Same Terms as United States in Settling Indemnity

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 20, 3 a. m.—According to a Pekin dispatch to the Times dated May 19, China is agreeing one by one to all the demands presented by M. Planchon, the Russian chargé d'affaires, which she pretended to reject en bloc. She already has undertaken not to alienate any portion of Manchuria to any other power, not to alter the present administration in Mongolia, not to open any new treaty ports in Manchuria, and has given an assurance not to employ foreigners in the administration of Manchuria, and whether China gives her consent or not Russia retains the telegraph line between Port Arthur and Mukden.

China also has agreed that Russia shall have full control of the customs at New Chwang, and there is little doubt that an agreement exists giving Russia exclusive mining rights in the Mukden province.

Follows America's Example.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Great Britain has decided to accord China the same terms in the settlement of the Boxer indemnity as those accepted by the United States. The state department has been informed that the English chargé at Pekin has signified the willingness of his government to accept payment on a silver basis for a term of years, reserving under bond the right to receive payment of any deficiency that might exist should it hereafter be decided that the payments should have been made on a gold basis. This much strengthens the attitude of the United States.

Regardless of the outcome of the present negotiations respecting the political domination of Manchuria, it can be stated that this government is prepared to insist to the end upon commercial privileges for United States merchants in Manchuria equal to those enjoyed by the merchants of other nations, Russia included.

Dowager Receives Viceroy.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PEKIN, May 19.—Chang Chih Tung, viceroy of Wuchang, received his long expected audience with the empress dowager at the summer palace here. Her majesty conferred on him the right to ride horseback in the Forbidden city. His arrival in Pekin has aroused the jealous opposition of both the Chinese and Manchu high officials, who fear the dowager empress will appoint him a member of the grand council, which, it is reported, Prince Ching, president of the grand council, recommends, as he needs an able assistant.

IS SHY OF YERKES' MERGERS.

London County Council Committee Says Public Is Not Sufficiently Guarded in Underground Scheme.

LONDON, May 19.—The London county council today considered the report of the parliamentary committee dealing with the proposed amalgamation of underground railways in London. The report says:

"The proposed company consists of a group of financiers headed by Mr. Yerkes. Under the agreement provision is made for large payments to the Yerkes and Speyer groups for its services in the formation and promotion of the company. The committee is of opinion that the scheme needs the fullest consideration by the public, whose interests are insufficiently guarded by the terms of the amalgamation."

The county council took no action on the report today.

BOYS SEGREGATED IN JAIL

JAILER WHITMAN TRIES A NEW PLAN WITH SUCCESS.

Prisoners Under 20 Are Kept from the Older Criminals and Result Is Declared Excellent—Have a Separate Tier of Cells and Classroom, for Which the Lake View Woman's Club Has Given a Library—Enjoy Calisthenic Drill.

The evil of compelling young offenders to associate with older criminals, which has been the basis of much criticism of jail systems, is being minimized in the Cook County jail by segregation methods. The term "juvenile prisoner," which, before the establishment of the juvenile court, meant prisoners under 16 years of age, has been expanded by Jailer John L. Whitman to mean prisoners under 20 years of age. Accordingly, the "juvenile department" of the jail now includes prisoners between 16 and 20 years old.

The arrangement by which the juveniles have been segregated has been in effect but a short time, but the results have justified the experiment. Under the segregation arrangements the younger prisoners are housed by themselves on the seventh tier, and instead of meeting the older criminals in the general exercising corridors during the day, they spend their time in the schoolroom under the general direction of their teacher, Mrs. Mary Cliff.

In explaining his latest move to benefit his charges Jailor Whitman said yesterday:

"Many of the older boys wanted the schooling, and they needed it. There is a wide difference between the average prisoner under 20 and the average over that age, and it is better for the younger prisoners to be by themselves. They have shown that they appreciate the privileges extended to them by their conduct since being segregated."

Boys Are Given a Library.

In addition to their separate housing and separate exercise grounds, the juveniles have been given a separate library by the Lake View Woman's club. Yesterday sixty-four volumes were placed on the shelves in the school room, and the number will be increased to 100 in a few days. As soon as the books are worn out, the club will replace them. In addition to these books, the boys have access to the books of the general library. The volumes selected by the club are sufficiently simple to be read and understood and are of a character to take the boys' tastes away from the "dime novel" style of literature, to which many of them owe their delinquencies.

One of the recent movements of the younger prisoners is the organization of an association, which is an adjunct of the Moral Improvement association of the jail. The members meet every Monday evening and are entertained with songs, readings, and lectures. One object of the association is to regulate the personal habits of the members, and there is a committee which looks after the condition in which the members keep their cells.

First Schooling for Many.

During the morning intermission from their cells the juveniles attend classes. Mrs. Cliff is teaching them the elementary branches, and not a few of them are receiving practically their first schooling. The first half hour of the afternoon session is given over to reading, and the last hour to calesthenics. A piano in the school room affords the music to which the boys go through their exercises, under the direction of a leader chosen from their number.

Drill hour is to the boys a welcome relaxation from the inactivity of jail life, and their young leader spares no trouble to keep them moving. In a short time plans for regularly directed calesthenics for the adult prisoners will also be in operation.

DEATH FATE OF MISSING OFFICER

Five Members of Constabulary Fall in Fight Where They Slay 35 Natives.

CONDITION IN CEBU BAD.

Many Insurgents in the Field, and Strong Measures to Repress Them Are Promised.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, May 19.—Lieut. Walker of the constabulary, who yesterday was reported missing after the recent fighting in the island of Cebu, was killed by a superior force of fanatical Pulajanes, which surrounded the lieutenant's party. Two privates of the constabulary also were killed and three were captured. Two of these prisoners were murdered. One escaped. Thirty-five of the fanatics were killed.

The situation in some of the districts of Cebu is regarded as serious. It is reported that the total of the bands of insurgents in the field exceeds 1,500. Col. Taylor of the constabulary reports that the enemy's forces are dispersing. He says the constabulary is capable of suppressing the disorders and predicts an improvement in the situation. It is believed here that the adoption of energetic measures will be necessary to suppress the disturbances.

Brave Cavalryman Known.

William Ballon formerly a private in the Fifteenth cavalry, is the cavalryman who alone checked the rush of the insurgents at Suclatan, island of Mindanao, on May 15, and defended the American dead and wounded until relieved.

It was at Suclatan that Capt. Clough Overton and Private Harry Noyes were killed and Private Harlow was wounded by fifty insurgent prisoners whom they were guarding. The fourth member of the party was Ballon, who was not wounded.

Cardinals to Pick Archbishop.

ROME, May 19.—The commission of five cardinals appointed at the time Gov. Taft was in Rome to deal with Philippine affairs is now busy with the nominations of bishops for the archipelago. The commission is composed of Cardinals Rampolla, Serafino Vannutelli, Steinhuber, Vives y Tuto, and Satolli, the last replacing Cardinal Gotti when Gotti was made prefect of the propaganda.

At its next meeting the commission will appoint an archbishop of Manila, but the date of the meeting has not been fixed, as the commission is waiting for information from Spain about two Philippine priests that Archbishop Guidi proposed for bishops of Cebu and Vigan, or the Camarines. Information has been especially asked for regarding Mgr. Nozaleda, the former archbishop of Manila.

The commission will also decide ecclesiastical questions referring to Cuba, especially the appointments of bishops of Pinar del Rio and Cienfuegos.

It is also learned that Boris Sarafoff, the leading Macedonian agitator, was here recently and visited the prominent Bulgarian residents.

NEW SAILORS' PALACE OPENED.

Prince and Princess of Wales Attend Ceremony, During Which American Women Add to Funds.

LONDON, May 19.—The prince and princess of Wales today opened the new sailors' palace erected in the Limehouse district of this city at a cost of $180,000 by the British and Foreign Sailors' society. A large number of American women were present and handed purses to the princess for the fitting up of the "American room." Ambassador Choate, in seconding a vote of thanks to the prince of Wales at the opening of the institution, emphasized the interest which Americans took in this sailors' society. The American women of London, he said, never lost an opportunity of showing public spirit in all such causes.

PARIS, May 19.—C. Gray Dinsmore, W. K. Vanderbilt Jr., and "Tod" Sloan, were among the Americans who qualified today for the section of the Paris-Madrid automobile race which starts from Versailles at 3 o'clock next Sunday morning. Replying to a question by one of the judges, Mr. Vanderbilt said that automobiling in America was practically killed, owing to adverse legislation, speed limits, and poor roads. Foxhall Keene and W. T. Dannat are among the Americans who have qualified for tomorrow's section of the race. There are 314 entries in all.

GREGOR K. MAKES WORTH RECORD.

Lowers Time for Mile and a Sixteenth to 1:46 in the Feature Event.

LINGUIST'S GOOD RACE.

Trainer Phillips Sends Horse to Post with a Patent Bit and He Wins.

The performances of Gregor K. and Linguist, a pair of promising Derby candidates, were features at Worth yesterday. They won their respective races so impressively and in such marvelously good time, considering the strong wind which blew up the stretch, that they were tabbed as factors in the blue ribbon event to be contested at Washington park next month.

Their races yesterday compare favorably with the best shown here by Au Revoir, thought by some to be the best 3 year old which has performed at the local track this season. The Bennett Derby aspirant was given a setback by Linguist early in the meeting, when, however, he was not at his best, and it must be said in favor of Cook's colt that his last defeat was caused by a troublesome sore mouth and a tendency to run out at every turn.

Linguist Wins All the Way.

Yesterday Trainer Phillips sent him to the post well hooded and with a patent bit, which made him run as straight as a string, with the result he won from barrier rise to finish, and, with the exception of a slight hustle at the sixteenth pole to stall off Soothsayer's rush through the stretch, won handily. Dan McKenna, J. C. Milam's Derby possibility, was third. The time for the distance—one mile and seventy yards—1:44 3-5, was only three-fifths of a second slower than the track record hung up by Alfred C. on Monday.

Linguist's race, good as it was, hardly came up to that of Gregor K. at one and one-sixteenth miles in the feature event of the day. W. M. Hedges' gelding gave away lumps of weight to Bondage, Thane, and Rolling Boer, the other starters, and ran the distance in 1:46 flat, a cut of two-fifths of a second off the track record, which was held jointly by Nitrate and Denman Thompson.

Local turf followers would now like to see Gregor K., Linguist, and Au Revoir hook up at any distance between a mile and mile and a sixteenth at equal weights, as they are undoubtedly the best Derby aspirants uncovered here this season.

Gregor K. an Outsider.

In the handicap Gregor K. was the extreme outsider in the betting. His opening price was 4, which drifted to 5, at which figure his admirers went to him, forcing his odds down to 3, and at post time there was plenty of 4 to 1 in sight. Rolling Boer, on the strength of his victory last Thursday at 1¼ miles, with 114 pounds up, was the selection, with Thane the second choice.

To a good start P. Phillip took the Hedges gelding to the front, and at the end of the first quarter had gained a lead of two lengths. This was cut to a length by Bondage in the race down the backstretch, but rounding the far turn Gregor again moved away and hit the straight with a margin of a length and a half in his favor over Arthur's trick. Thane, which had been chasing Bondage, began to lag, and soon gave way to the Boer horse. With the wire in sight the boys set down to ride in earnest, but they maintained their respective positions throughout the stretch, the first three—Gregor K., Bondage, and Rolling Boer—finishing lengths apart as named.

Interest in the first race was centered in Lucien Appleby, his first start of the season. The event, a five furlong dash, was conceded to Tom Carey's filly, Nellie Waddell, and she won it, but if Appleby had a race or two under his belt the result might have been different. As it was Lucien made a bold bid and finished a good second. He was back heavily to run in the money.

Compass came to life suddenly, and, backed down from 9 to 7 to 1, won the mile and a quarter race in which Gin Spray was the top heavy favorite.

HORSE BREAKS DOWN, BUT WINS

Luke Ward First in Great Finish at Morris Park—Baychester Stake to Brigand.

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—So keenly fought was the six furlong handicap at Morris park today, with the result in doubt to the last stride, with six horses spread across the track so close together a blanket would have covered all, that the great crowd present went wild with excitement. To cap the climax, the winner, Luke Ward, went so lame that his jockey, Bullman, dismounted after the finish, and it is said he really broke down a half a furlong from the finish.

This was the race of the day beyond question. Musketeer, whose owner feared he would not come down the incline well, was beaten about ten inches, with St. Daniel, closing like a lion, and Intunta, Homestead, and Knight Harlem right on the heels of the first two. Luke Ward's gameness in winning after breaking down elicited much favorable comment.

James Galway's colors were first past the post in the Baychester stakes, worth $1,910 to the winner. Brigand was last off, but the other horses left so big a gap next the rail that Fuller shoved his mount along, and by the time three furlongs were covered was in front. It was not until they were well down the hill that Reliance, a 4 to 5 favorite, began to close on Brigand, and at the finish he seemed to be going stronger than Galway's colt, which was then beginning to feel the effects of the early pacemaking.

The sale of Maj. Daingerfield was reported at the track today. He was sold for $25,000 to W. B. Leeds. J. E. Madden sold the two fillies, Marmee and Marriage Bells, to Thomas L. Watt for $9,000. Summaries:

LATONIA DERBY ON TODAY

RACE WILL FEATURE OPENING DAY AT CINCINNATI TRACK.

Prospect Excellent for a Good Day and a Fast Course—Bad News Is Favored for the Classic by the Talent, Judge Himes and Tancred Being Next in Choice—Horses Carded to Start Work Well and Are in Fine Condition.

Cincinnati, O., May 19.—[Special.]—The Latonia Jockey club opens its twenty-first spring meeting tomorrow with the seventeenth running of the Derby as its feature. The prospects for a successful meeting are splendid. The races are of a character to insure good fields. Over 1,000 horses are on the ground, many of them 2 year olds of class. The older horses are of inferior quality.

Nine 3 year olds are carded for the Derby, and if they all start the field will be the largest in the history of the race, eight having been the largest number in any previous Derby here. The race is at a mile and a half and will be worth more than $7,000. The entries:

Owner, horse, jockey.	Wt.
E. Corrigan's Maxey Blumenthal [J. Reiff]	110
Will H. Sayres' Tom Hall [E. Ellis]	114
P. Dunne's Rampoosa [J. Winkfield]	110
Stevens & Rutledge's Sailor's Dream [C. Kelly]	111
C. R. Ellison's Judge Himes [H. Booker]	127
John F. Schorr's Gold Bell [R. Williams]	114
S. S. Brown's Tancred [Helgerson]	114
T. C. McDowell's Woodlake [Crowhurst]	114
Woodford & Buckner's Bad News [B. Davis]	111

There is no class to the field. While Judge Himes won the Kentucky Derby, and on performance is probably the best, the consensus of opinion is he cannot carry 127 pounds over a mile and a half and win.

The choice will be either Tancred or Bad News, the former most likely. Gold Bell worked the Derby distance over the Louisville track on Friday in 2:38 and will have a first class following. The others are given no chance by the handicappers. However, the race is an open one and apt to be won by any of them.

Entries for the other events:

YARDARM FOR THE BROOKLYN.

Thomas May Start His Derby Candidate in Big Handicap—Hermis Will Not Go to Post.

[BY T. J. GALLAGHER.]

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—There is reliable information that the American Derby candidate, Yardarm, will carry the colors of E. R. Thomas in the Brooklyn handicap on Thursday of next week. He is weighted at 96 pounds, and the manner in which he carried 95 yesterday at Morris Park encourages the belief that he will be a contender in the big field of high class performers that will probably start.

Mr. Thomas authorized the statement that Hermis would not be a starter in the Brooklyn, but would probably be reserved for the Suburban, or until ready for a hard race in the judgment of his trainer, Jimmy McCormick. Asked about the possibility of a match between Hermis and McChesney, Mr. Thomas declared he would not make a match of any kind.

There is ground for the belief that Irish Lad will be sent to the post in the Brooklyn handicap, and then sent to Chicago to get acclimated for the rich event at Washington park. The colt is understood to be the property of Herman B. Duryea, but is trained by J. W. Rogers, who also has charge of William C. Whitney's string, which includes the Brooklyn and Suburban candidates, Gunfire, Goldsmith, and Leonora Loring.

Whitney Horse Wins Craven Plate.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 19.—The Craven plate of 150 sovereigns at the opening of the York spring meeting today was won by William C. Whitney's Pan Michael, ridden by Martin. John Osborne's Roover Crag was second, and H. Sandford's Craigmount third. Four other horses ran. The betting was 4 to 7 on the winner.

EASY MARK FOR THE CHAMPION.

"Young Corbett" Knocks Out Jack Keefe of East St. Louis in the Third Round.

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—[Special.]—Jack Keefe of East St. Louis was knocked out by "Young Corbett" in the third round tonight at the West End club.

Keefe has a good record among local men and is heavier and taller than the champion. He did the sprint act in the opening round, but was knocked down cleanly near its close. The second was a rattling round. They mixed it and Keefe landed several jolts to no avail on the champion, who lifted Keefe with upper cuts and sent him back with short arm jabs.

They went to a clinch shortly after the opening of the third. After the break Corbett put a left to the body and a vicious right swing to the jaw. As Keefe sunk to the floor Corbett nodded to the crowd as if to say: "That will be about all tonight."

IOWA TO PLAY IN CHICAGO.

Hawkeye State University Team Will Meet Northwestern at Football on Nov. 14.

Iowa City, Ia., May 19.—[Special.]—The Iowa athletic board of control today scheduled a football game with Northwestern university, to be played in Chicago on Nov. 14. The Chicago university team will be out of town on that date. The Iowa-Northwestern game is highly favored by Iowa students and alumni, who desire a Chicago game annually. Iowa had played regularly in Chicago since 1898 until last fall. Iowa expects to have a strong team next year, and the game with McCornack's eleven is expected to be well contested.

Engraved loving cups will be given to winners of first, second, and third places in all the events and banners will be given to the winners of the relay races. A big "welcome" will be given by the students June 5. One and one-third rates have been secured on the various railroads for the visiting athletes.

Notes of the Midway Athletes.

Chicago will meet Wisconsin this afternoon on Marshall field in baseball. Maxwell or Howe will pitch for Chicago.

The university coeds will begin a series of baseball games this afternoon for the coed championship of the university. The juniors and seniors will play.

The second annual golf tournament will be held on Friday and Saturday. The present members of the team are Capt. Sloan, Ashley Dixon, Fred Pettit, and Roef Pettit.

W. Rooney was elected captain and W. L. Gregory manager of the newly organized sophomore baseball team at the University of Chicago. The sophomores will challenge the freshmen.

Phi Delta Theta defeated Sigma Chi in the semi-finals of the interfraternity league yesterday by the score of 27 to 7. Delta Tau Delta will play the winner of the Phi Delta Theta-Alpha Delta Phi match for the fraternity championship.

Morin Defeats Harris.

Morin defeated Harris in an exciting finish in the thirty-seventh game of Mussey's three cushion tourney last night. Runs of four and six at the end gave Morin the victory by a score of 50 to 42 in seventy-nine innings.

CHICAGO TEAMS HAVE IDLE DAY.

White Sox Hold Lead While Colts Are Forced from First Place.

GRIFFITH'S CLUB TODAY.

Comiskey's Men Will Play New Yorkers at the South Side Grounds.

Both of Chicago's baseball clubs were idle yesterday, and to one of them the day off was costly, for the Colts lost their position at the head of the National league through the fact that their own game in Boston was postponed, while the New Yorkers won a game from the champions. The White Stockings enjoyed their open date in the schedule without any such penalty, although their nearest rivals, the Athletics, won from St. Louis.

Everywhere two fans gathered together during the day the unprecedented situation of the day before, when two Chicago teams led the procession in two major leagues for the first time in history, was discussed, and many an argument was heard on the chances of one or both of them pulling off a pennant at the end of their respective races. But with all this excitement among the fans, there was unwonted quiet at baseball headquarters. President Johnson of the American league was in Detroit. President Hart of the Colts was out of town most of the day, and President Comiskey of the White Sox dropped baseball for the day to attend to some personal business.

White Sox Confident.

The White Stockings spent the morning in practice, but the afternoon found several of them trying to select long shots at the track, confident that they would not need any extra practice to defeat Clarke Griffith's Greater New Yorkers today. Manager Griffith himself was of a far different opinion.

The New York American leaguers came to the city early yesterday from Cleveland, and their leader is hopeful of breaking the streak of bad luck which has followed the team on the road. Griffith will do his best to win on his old stamping grounds, and it will be a great series between the former and the present White Sox managers at the south side grounds for the next three days, weather permitting.

Griffith's team has been handicapped by the absence of "Lefty" Davis from the outfield and Jimmy Williams from the infield, and by the fact that Billy Keeler has been slow in rounding into form this spring, but Griffith believes he has a strong combination when it gets to working and says it will begin working right here in Chicago. While Griffith does not begrudge Comiskey or Callahan their success and extended his heartiest congratulations to them on his arrival, he is perfectly willing to help his own team out of the second division at the expense of his former teammates if he can do it.

Fielder Jones will resume his position in centerfield today in all probability. The New Yorkers play here today, tomorrow, and Friday, then the Boston team is due for three games here, closing the long home series.

Colts Again Play Boston.

The Colts are scheduled for another game in Boston today, then jump to Philadelphia for four games, which will carry them over until Monday of next week. Following that comes a series of three games in New York and a fight for the lead, after which the Colts will return to their own stamping grounds for Decoration day.

President Hart, wishing to give the fans all the baseball they want while the interest is at fever heat, is trying to get consent to advance one of the later games and play it on the morning of Decoration day, which is open in Chicago's schedule. There will be no conflict with the American league here on that day, and in the present state of the fans' minds there would be no getting into the west side park at all on the afternoon of May 30.

Rain Stops Colts' Game.

Boston, Mass., May 19.—[Special.]—Selee's colts did not have a chance to hold on to the lead in the National league race today, for at the last moment the weather man turned loose a shower that soaked the diamond and drove the players to shelter. Just two innings were played before the rain put a stop to hostilities.

The Beaneaters started off as if they intended to stop the winning streak of the colts, and scored one run in the first inning. Victor Willis was in the box, and in the short time played he handed out a nice sort of curves and benders with which Selee's men found it hard to connect. Jack Taylor was on the slab for the visitors, and appeared in good form.

Despite the threatening weather, 2,000 people took a chance and went to the park to see the game. Manager Selee had his mother at the game, and was sadly disappointed when the contest could not be finished. One more game will be played here before the colts pack up and go to Philadelphia for a series.

BOSTON WINS FROM DETROIT.

Dineen Has Tigers at His Mercy and Collins' Team Takes Game by Score of 3 to 2.

Detroit, Mich., May 19.—Dineen had the locals at his mercy until the ninth inning today, when two errors and a hit gave them two runs. Mullin also pitched well, but a bad first inning wound up his chances. Score:

NEW YORK DEFEATS PITTSBURG.

Leach and McGraw Are Put Out of Game, but Giants Win by Score of 4 to 3.

New York, May 19.—New York won a lively game from Pittsburg today by a score of 4 to 3. Dunn practically won the game by timely hitting, as he drove in a run in the third inning and also the winning tally in the eighth. With one man out in the ninth the visitors had a chance to win, but failed to get the necessary hit. Leach was put out of the game in the seventh inning and in the eighth McGraw was put off the field. President Pulliam announced that he had suspended Pitcher Doheny for three days on account of his disorderly actions during yesterday's game. Score:

Brooklyn, 3; Cincinnati, 2.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 19.—Brooklyn won a well played game from Cincinnati through Evans' good pitching. This was Evans' first winning game of the season. He held the visitors to seven scattered hits, only three being made off him in the first seven innings. A triple play by Beckley and Cormoran was one of the fielding features, the others being Dahlen's three assists, two of which were one hand stops of line hits in the seventh inning. Score:

NORTHWESTERN WINS A GAME.

Much Beaten Evanston Team Defeats Notre Dame by a Score of 9 to 8.

Notre Dame, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—Northwestern's much beaten team defeated the varsity here today in one of the poorest exhibitions of baseball ever seen on Cartier field. The home team played listlessly throughout, making eleven costly errors and batting and running bases in stupid fashion.

Northwestern put up a ragged fielding game, but played safe at critical moments, Nutall pitching good ball. Ruelbach pitched a good game, but costly errors in the seventh and eighth innings gave Northwestern a lead which the varsity could not overcome.

The visitors made it unpleasant for the spectators by continually kicking on the umpire's decisions without reason. They failed to provide an umpire as agreed, so Lynch officiated. Score:

Wisconsin, 4; Albion, 1.

Albion, Mich., May 19.—[Special.]—Wisconsin defeated Albion in a snappy game this afternoon by a score of 4 to 1. The relative strength of the teams today would have been well represented by a score of 1 to 0 in Albion's favor, as this one run was scored by Matthews' three bagger and Knickerbocker's clean single, while Wisconsin's four came two at a time on inexcusable errors by Matthews and Knickerbocker. Terre Haute, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—Manager Donovan of the St. Louis cardinals still has faith in Terre Haute pitchers, although Brown and Hackett, obtained from the Terre Haute club, have not been winning, and has made an offer to Amos Scott, now with Terre Haute. Scott asked the Terre Haute association for more salary. He will probably get it.

CLEVELAND MAY GET SUNDAY BALL

Mayor Johnson Favors Amateur Games if They Do Not Disturb Residents.

WANTS CITY WIDE OPEN.

Believes Laws Interfering with Individual Liberty Should Not Be Enforced.

Cleveland, O., May 19.—[Special.]—Mayor Johnson is determined baseball shall be played in public parks on Sunday by amateur clubs. A week ago, three members of the board of public service, which has control of the parks, decided to issue permits for the playing of Sunday games.

Protests were made and City Solicitor Baker held that no such permits could be issued, because state law prohibited ball playing on Sunday, either with or without an admission fee. Then Mayor Johnson said he could see no objection to Sunday baseball, so long as nobody was disturbed by it. The board of public service, acting on the advice of the city solicitor, reconsidered its action and declined to issue permits.

Now, however, the city solicitor declares the state law was not intended to prevent playing by amateur clubs, and says the police cannot arrest players in parks without warrants, and that he will not issue warrants for such arrests. Therefore, nothing stands in the way of Sunday games.

Mayor Johnson is in favor of a wide open Sunday. He said in a public address the other day that he believed the laws should not be enforced which interfered with the individual liberty of the people, so long as the enjoyment of that liberty did not interfere with anybody else.

Minneapolis Smashes the Ball All Over the Lot and Beats Toledo 24 to 2.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 19.—In the greatest batting streak ever seen on the home grounds Minneapolis completely swamped Toledo today by a score of 24 to 2. German pitched the first three and a half innings, Allemang taking his place. Lally made three doubles, a single, and a home run out of seven times at bat. Score:

TO UNITE BOWLING FACTIONS.

Meeting of Local Club Representatives to Be Held Tonight to Form New Organization.

Representatives from many of the local bowling clubs will meet tonight at the Sherman house to form the Chicago bowling association. The new organization will be the outcome of plans formulated at the annual meeting of the American bowling congress at Indianapolis to establish subsidiary bodies in all large bowling centers. Such organizations have been established in several cities, Chicago being behind because of friction between two factions. The rival factions both organized, but at the solicitation of the directors of the A. B. C. agreed to disband, and Secretary Sam Karpf was appointed to form the new association. He has sent invitations to all of the local clubs, and a large attendance is anticipated. Indications are the meeting will be harmonious, although there may be some close contests for the several offices.

SMOKELESS FIRE; ILLINOIS COAL.

Members of Commercial Club See the Combination at Champaign.

STATE UNIVERSITY PLANT

Uniform Size of Fuel and Automatic Stoker Held to Be Essential Features.

In the interest of a cleaner Chicago fifty-one members of the Commercial club and guests went to Champaign yesterday to investigate smoke preventive experiments at the University of Illinois. The men, many of them at the head of the city's chief industries, were told about proper methods of hand firing, about automatic stokers, about fire brick arches, boilers, chimneys, and draft, and coal, and how to put them together with the minimum of smoke.

They were told that with crushed coal and correct stoking fuel could be saved and soot practically done away with. They looked into white hot fire boxes and gazed at the top of a tall chimney for a quarter on an hour at a time.

The conclusion brought back by the party was expressed to them by Prof. L. P. Breckinridge, who showed them over the plant, in these words:

"It is feasible to design and construct new boiler plants in which Illinois coal may be burned without objectionable smoke.

"With the vast coal fields in the state, larger than those of any other state in the union," Prof. Breckinridge said, "the commonwealth possesses a power as great as if there was a Niagara Falls water power every 100 miles. The fuel is here, and will make this the greatest manufacturing community on earth, but it must, for the sake of economy and health, be burned without smoke, and can be burned without smoke."

Automatic Stokers at Work.

In the experiments there was nothing radically new. Several automatic stokers have been installed in the boiler house. Each was run at a normal load and then increased to its maximum capacity in turn. It was observed that while no change was in progress in the fire the chimney was practically smokeless, but when the fire was being pushed or a new fire was being made, some light smoke issued. The heavy, grimy, sooty smoke that characterizes many of the large steam plants in Chicago was never distantly approached.

"If our power houses in Chicago did as well as this," Smoke Inspector John C. Schubert said, "I would lose my job."

On the other hand, Peter B. Wight of the Municipal Art league felt that nothing short of absolute cleanliness in the burning of fuel would be satisfactory. The majority of the men expressed themselves as pleased with the tests, and there was an unanimous sentiment that were the smoke reduced to the volume produced at the university, Chicago would have an end of any real nuisance.

Schubert Pleased at Result.

"It is an especial satisfaction to me," Inspector Schubert said, "to get all these men together. I have reason to know they all are interested in the problem. This has given me an opportunity to talk with them in a more informal manner than would be possible in the course of business. I am heartily pleased with the interest shown, and feel that it will smooth the way to coöperation in the fight against smoke."

Franklin MacVeagh, chairman of the committee which was partly responsible for the trip, was equally pleased.

"It was at first intended," he said, "that only half a dozen of the committee should go. But so great was the interest manifested in the smoke inquiry that the whole club was invited to join."

How to Burn Soft Coal.

In giving his conclusions about burning soft coal, Prof. Breckenridge said:

"The conditions necessary to secure smokeless combustion of bituminous coal are as follows:

"The gases must be distilled from the coal slowly.

"The distilled gases must be well mixed with the air.

"The gases must not be allowed to come in contact with cool surfaces before complete combustion has taken place."

The essential features of a smokeless plant, the educator said, were:

Sufficient boiler capacity.
A good draft.
Uniform size of coal.
Some good type of automatic stoker.
Intelligent direction in the boiler room.

Limited Room a Difficulty.

It was pointed out that the chief difficulty met with in many power plants in Chicago was the limited room. The entire equipment is frequently crowded into such a small space in city basements, it was said, that perfect results are impossible. In these places suffering from lack of space the use of steam jets was conditionally recommended. The drawback was increased consumption of fuel and noise.

"The coal should be burned on as small a grate area as is feasible; this means a thicker and hotter fire, better economy, and less smoke," Prof. Breckenridge said. "Not enough attention has been paid to uniformity in the size of the coal. Large plants should be provided with crushing machinery, so that at times, when the sizes desired cannot be obtained, the crushing may be done at the boiler house. Most stokers work with greater regularity with the smaller sizes, such as nut, pea, or slack."

The coal burned at the university is mined in Sangamon county and is delivered at $1.37 a ton.

Incidentally with the investigation of the smoke problem the Chicagoans were shown over the university and given every attention by the authorities. The visitors tramped over the campus lawns and through the college halls, with professors to explain everything. When the party halted, late in the day, on the porch of President Draper's house the cadets of the two lower classes were marshaled out to drill before them. A salute of artillery was fired as they passed the parade grounds on their way to the station.

Replies to R. T. Crane.

Prof. David Kinley introduced a bit of diversion into his description of the work of his department, that of commerce, by replying to the opinions recently expressed by R. T. Crane on college education.

"I wish Mr. Crane had come with you," he said, "as I have something to tell him. I believe I can show him that colleges do give their graduates something worth having. In the last year I have received applications from men wanting to employ a dozen bright, capable students from this department. Today I could place half a dozen. A prominent railroad man has written me that he will give a position to every graduate. An insurance company in the east offers to furnish summer employment to all the students."

Prof. Kinley explained that his courses trained young men for practical business as far as was possible outside of actual experience.

The trip of the Commercial club was made in a special train furnished by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and Illinois Central railroads.

SUIT OVER 'TADPOLE HOLE'

RICHARD E. BURKE PREPARING TO TEST APPROPRIATION.

Action to Be Brought Soon, Probably in Form of Bill for Injunction to Prevent State Treasurer from Paying Over $152,000 Set Aside by Legislature for the Illinois and Michigan Canal—Constitution Quoted as Forbidding It.

The proposed suit to nullify the $152,000 appropriation for the "tadpole hole" will be started soon.

The bill passed by the legislature and signed by the governor does not become effective till July 1. Before that time Richard E. Burke, the representative who fought the measure in the legislature, will attack the right of the assembly to vote public money for the aid of the canal.

Bill for an Injunction.

The suit probably will be in the form of a bill for an injunction to prevent the state treasurer from paying over the money on the ground that it is forbidden by the constitution. The following clause of the constitution is quoted:

> The Illinois and Michigan canal shall never be sold or leased until specific proposition for sale or lease thereof shall first have been submitted to a vote of the people of the state at a general election and have been approved by a majority of all the votes polled at such election. The general assembly shall never loan credit of state or make appropriations from the treasury in aid of railroads or canals; provided, that any surplus earnings of any canal may be appropriated for its enlargement or extension.

This was adopted by the constitutional convention in 1870. All the arguments and minutes of this convention have been collected and Mr. Burke, with many others, is of the opinion that it was the intention of the convention to forbid appropriations except from surplus earnings.

The ground is being canvassed and it is probable that John Barton Payne, who has been interested in the opposition to the bill, may be a leader in the fight. Attorney General Hamlin may also take part.

Hard Fight in Legislature

"The first bill introduced by the friends of Mr. Snively asked for $199,000," said Mr. Burke. "Finally this was cut to $144,000 and the rest added in an amendment introduced by Representative Gardiner, who asked for draining and dredging about La Salle. The bill finally passed after a long fight, with six votes to spare.

"Attorney General Hamlin will return to Chicago in the middle of June. The matter will be fully decided upon at that time. It will be impossible for the commissioners to demand the money until July 1.

Should Be Filled Up.

"There has been more rottenness in this canal business than has ever been hinted. 'Expenses, $20,000.' 'Expenses, $10,000,' are items that can be found time and again in the reports. What do they mean? Why are there no receipts to show where this money has gone? It is the best place in the state to find jobs for voters. This 'tadpole hole' should be filled up. Last year but forty-one vessels passed through the canal. Its earnings amounted to about $8,000. And we appropriate $152,000 to keep up such a thing. It is a disgrace.

"Of course, there will be the argument that we must expend money from the public treasury to maintain our public utilities. But this has ceased to be a public utility. It is a public nuisance. It is a public shame."

Mr. Payne and Mr. Burke will meet today to talk of the proposed suit.

POLICE PENSIONS FOR MARCH TO BE PAID THIS WEEK.

Money Needed Accumulated Before Governor Signed New Law—Fund Now on a Sounder Basis.

Police pensioners will receive on Friday the payments due for the month of March. The members of the pension board met yesterday afternoon, found that $20,000 had accumulated in the treasury previous to the signing of the new pension law by Gov. Yates, and accordingly determined to apply this sum to the payment of the belated March pensions. It is now believed that there will be no further need to pass a payment, as the new law is expected to yield an income sufficient to place the fund on a permanently sound basis.

The new law diverts to the pension fund 3 per cent, instead of 2 per cent as heretofore, of the saloon and some other license receipts. It is figured that this will mean an annual increase of $30,000. The fund also has 75 per cent of the receipts from dog taxes.

After Friday's payment the pension fund will be under the new law. A new board will be appointed, its members to consist of three citizens, appointed by the mayor; one member of the police force, elected by the policemen; and a fifth member, to be similarly chosen by the pensioners from their ranks. Under the law pensions will range as follows: Widows, $35 a month and $5 additional for each child under 16 years of age up to a total of $50; retired patrolmen and sergeants, $50 a month; all other retired officers, $75 a month, $75 being the maximum.

REORGANIZED CYCLE TRUST SOON TO RESUME BUSINESS.

Conveyances of All Property Executed—It Will Operate Under Name of Pope Manufacturing Company.

The reorganization plan of the bicycle trust has been perfected, and it will soon operate under the name of the Pope Manufacturing company. Attorneys Offield, Towle, and Linthicum, who have represented the company in the local court proceedings, yesterday received word from New York that a conveyance of all the property had been executed to the Pope company.

The reorganization was brought about by a committee of New York bankers and brokers. They arranged a plan by which $500,000 of receivers' certificates were to be surrendered for cancellation and $3,500,000 was to be paid by the Pope company for all the property of the old corporation.

The property included in the transfer is distributed as follows: In New Jersey, $3,556,446; in New York, $63,387; in Connecticut, $243,048; in Massachusetts, $13,606; in Pennsylvania, $45,000; in Ohio, $12,500; in Illinois, $15,300; in Wisconsin, $37,500. Other miscellaneous assets bring the total inventory value up to $4,388,889.

Valuable Chicago property is covered by $2,000,000 worth of stock of the American Cycle Manufacturing company, held in New Jersey.

The reorganization plan has been approved by the courts.

YEAGER CASE VERDICT READY.

Coroner Will Decide That Young Man Met Death by the Hands of Persons Unknown.

Kokomo, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—After an investigation covering three days, in which over 100 witnesses were examined, Coroner Harrison adjourned the inquiry into the mysterious death of Louis Yeager, and has announced that his verdict will be that the deceased came to his death by the hands of persons unknown. Neither the coroner nor the public accepts the suicide theory. Nobody now believes Logan Ingles, Dillard Eads, and Frank Eads had any connection with the crime. They will not be arraigned, and their relase will be ordered in the morning. The county commissioners will tomorrow consider the petition from farmers near the scene of the tragedy for the posting of $1,000 reward or more. Under the law they are limited to an offer of $500. This will be offered.

$10 REWARD FOR $10,000 BILL.

Bootblack Finds Money on Sidewalk and Returns It to Owner—Thanks for $850.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—Carmine Cammorata, a bootblack, found a $10,000 bill on the sidewalk at Twelfth and Market streets. He returned it to the loser and received $10 as a reward. A few minutes later Policeman Volner picked up at the same corner a pocketbook containing $850. He also restored it to the owner and his recompense was, "Thank you." As no one saw Cammorata find the $10,000 bill he might have kept it. Instead of doing so he handed it to his employer.

UNANIMOUS VOTE TO FIGHT POLICY.

Executive Body of Citizens' Association Decides on Permanent Crusade.

WILL WORK IN SILENCE.

"Shops" in Black Belt Recently Closed Reopen and Sell Tickets as Formerly.

By a unanimous vote of its executive committee the Citizens' association formally decided yesterday afternoon to institute a permanent campaign against the policy swindle in Chicago. Work will begin today along lines which President Seeberger said would be kept a secret until the preliminary evidence against the Patsy King-Tom McGinnis clique is well in hand.

It is possible that the association may present some evidence to the May grand jury, though the majority of the executive committee is in favor of awaiting the outcome of the 128 cases in Judge Chetlain's court before making any public move. Judge Chetlain was occupied yesterday with the Martin Howe murder trial and the policy cases were continued till Friday.

President Seeberger, Francis S. Peabody, and George E. Cole made vigorous speeches before the executive committee, which assembled at 4 p. m. in the La Salle street headquarters. Mr. Peabody reviewed the bitter fight which the association made on the big lotteries in the late '80s and recalled the signal victory won.

Without a Dissenting Voice.

Secretary Singleton laid before the committee the statistics and other information as to policy collected by THE TRIBUNE, and then the vote was taken on the advisability of taking up the campaign. There was not a dissenting voice. While the crusade will begin with the collection of evidence of actual policy playing, the committee will depend upon the success or failure of the prosecutions in the Criminal court to determine the best mode of procedure.

If it shall prove that the state gambling law is defective, and that convictions of policy players cannot be effected, recourse will be had to the city ordinance. The committee stands prepared even to urge the passage of a new and more comprehensive ordinance if the present one should be found inadequate.

"There are to be no fireworks about this fight on the policy swindle," said President Seeberger. "We find we are most effective in a quiet, persistent campaign. The fireworks will be noticeable, I am confident, in the results. We have never fought a losing battle. We have thrown ourselves into this crusade with heart and soul, and I know we shall have the assistance of the public."

Any Evidence Welcomed.

Mr. Seeberger wishes to hear from all persons who are in a position to furnish evidence against the policy syndicate or otherwise further the campaign.

Investigations conducted yesterday by THE TRIBUNE showed that the policy gang is again as active as before the beginning of the agitation. Nearly all of the 150 shops recently closed in the black belt have been reopened, and the machinery of drawing and distributing tickets is daily in full swing.

Three Men Arrested.

Charged with conducting a policy shop three men were arrested in the morning by Detective Herts and the gambling detail from the chief's office. The prisoners gave the names of Erastus Daniels, 237 West Harrison street; Louis Knapp, 246 Halsted street; and John Miller, 228 Halsted street. They will have a hearing this morning in the Harrison street police court.

MISSOURI SUPREME COURT REVERSES PERJURY VERDICTS.

New Trial Ordered for Two Men Mixed Up in Street Railway Franchise Deal—Lower Tribunal Criticised.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 19.—The verdicts in the cases of Julius Lehmann and H. A. Faulkner, former members of the St. Louis house of delegates, who were sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for perjury in connection with the Suburban street railway franchise deal, were reversed by the Supreme court today, and the cases were remanded to the St. Louis Circuit court for a new trial.

The court holds the indictments against Faulkner and Lehmann were valid, but that the trial court erred in instructing the jury that if it found Faulkner and Lehmann swore they had never heard of the $75,000 boodle fund, when in fact the evidence showed that they knew of the money, even from newspaper reports, they should be adjudged guilty of perjury.

The decision says that the trial court had no power to supply by its instructions an averment not in the indictment, and to permit, as it did, a conviction on a chrge not included in its indictment.

The bribery case of Col. Ed Butler of St. Louis will be advanced and docketed for hearing at the October term of the Supreme court. He was convicted in the Boone county Circuit court of attempted bribery.

Early Hearing for Bribe Case.

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—The trial of Emil Hartmann, former speaker pro tem of the house of delegates, charged with selling his vote on the city lighting bill, was called in Judge Ryan's court today. It is the first case growing out of the $47,500 deal, in which it is charged money was distributed to delegates.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ACCUSED.

Colorado Springs Force Denounced as Corrupt by Grand Jury and Investigation Is Advised.

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 19.—The grand jury which has been in session investigating city and county affairs has been discharged after presenting a large number of indictments and a report sensational in its denunciation of the police department, which it accuses of being not only corrupt, but inefficient and the protector of criminals generally. The report urges that another grand jury be immediately called, as there has come to light important matters connected with the public funds and offices demanding action. The report intimates that general corruption prevails in local public offices. Additional indictments were returned against Chief of Police Vincent King and Detective Joel Atkinson, charging them in three counts each with secreting witnesses. Indictments were returned against four bunco steerers and confidence men now under arrest. Other indictments are said to be against public officials.

BUYS HORSE WITH BAD CHECK.

O. W. Welsh Sought on Charge of Defrauding the American Riding Academy.

Police of the Twenty-second street station are searching for O. W. Welsh Jr., who says he is connected with a wealthy Massachusett's family. Welch went into the American riding academy at 77 Sixteenth street Monday afternoon, and, after inspecting a number of animals, selected one and said he would be willing to pay any price for it. He finally gave a check for $800 and drove the horse away. Payment of the chuck was refused.

SOUTH FIRM ON NEGRO ISSUE.

Educator from North Carolina Says Roosevelt's Policy Has Not Altered Public Views.

Baltimore, Md., May 19.—[Special.]—"President Roosevelt's policy toward the negro has not materially altered the views of southern white people in regard to the black man," said Frank P. Venable, president of the University of North Carolina, and recognized by the southern people as a political and educational authority. Mr. Venable was in Baltimore to deliver the address to the graduating class of the University of Maryland. Continuing on the negro question, in an interview, he said:

"I do not mean to convey the impression that it has generated harsh feelings, but it has intensified their determination to give the negro all that belongs to him socially, politically, and otherwise, and no more. In other words, they will not recognize the negro on a plane of social equality, no matter what the president says or does. The southern people do not take kindly to any dictation from outsiders concerning solution of the negro problem."

Mr. Venable said he favored the adoption of the North Carolina election law in all "negro ridden" states.

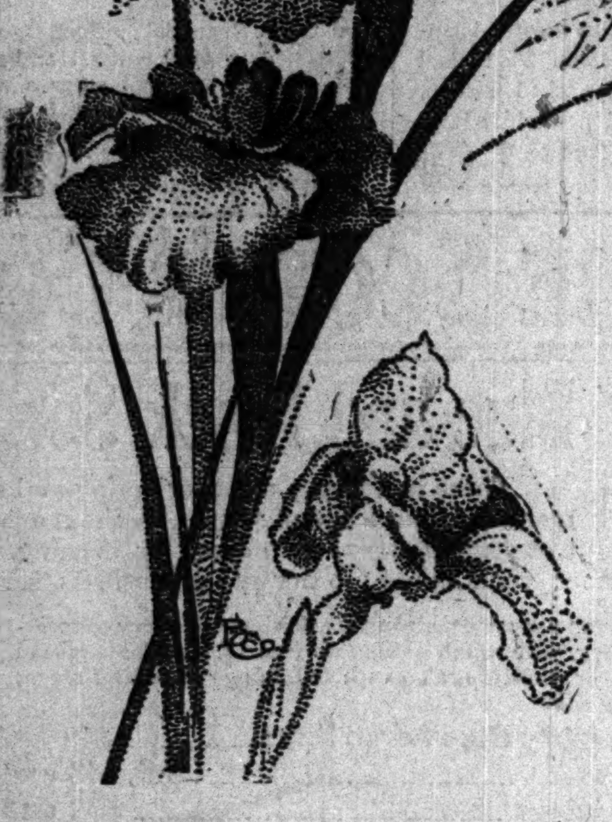
MANDEL BROTHERS DAILY STORE NEWS



In order to close out a number of patterns of imported silks in our dressmaking section, we will make shirt waist and summer gowns to your order at $35, 37.50, $40, 42.50, $45, 47.50 and $50.

Now is the time to enjoy outdoor life.

IN THESE WARM DAYS of late springtime Nature invites us to a closer companionship with herself. Parks, riversides, woods and meadows, all have a thousand attractions. Interest in outdoor sports revives — golf, tennis, baseball, fishing, rowing, cross-country tramping, and amateur photography count their devotees by thousands. Even the men and women whose business and home duties usually keep them close within the city's dusty walls, break over the restraints and go out to take deep draughts of Nature's invigorating ozone.

To enjoy outdoor life thoroughly, one must be dressed and equipped for it. One could hardly imagine a woman taking picnic comfort in an opera gown, or a man enjoying outing life in patent leathers. And it is to Mandel's that men, women and children naturally turn for their apparel for outing days.

We study the styles in this class of garments with as great care as we do the fashions for society functions, and show a complete line of faultlessly correct attire. Comfort and stylish appearance are united in the many new creations we show in women's washable suits, shirt waists, boys' and girls' wash clothing, men's outing suits, negligee shirts and wash vests, women's belts, summer shoes, etc. Our display of fabrics for women's summer dress also deserves mention here, for it is very complete and the prices are unusually low. In addition, we are headquarters for many outdoor and cottage comforts, such as summer furniture, hammocks, glassware for summer homes, mattings, cameras, photo supplies, etc.

We run our shop 54 hours per week, and our men have always been satisfied with their pay, surroundings, and treatment.

A number of our men quit work a short time ago under the following circumstances: We were among the first to adopt the 54 hour week in Chicago, and at the time the shorter hours were put into effect we submitted the arrangement of hours to a vote of our employes. Almost unanimously they voted for a division of the 54 hour week which provided for a Saturday half holiday. A vote was taken a second time last fall with the same result. Upon a recent demand by the Machinists' union that we run the shop nine hours each day, we offered to take a vote again and abide the preference of the majority of our men. This vote was taken and resulted in a majority favoring the Saturday half holiday. A number of our employes then quit work, although expressing themselves as entirely satisfied with their jobs. Our shop is an open shop, not discriminating for or against union or nonunion men. Apply to

VOSE PIANOS—

There's the same difference in the tone quality of pianos that there is in the art quality of paintings. Art appeals to the eye—tone appeals to the ear. It is just as difficult to express tone quality in words as it is to describe art quality. You must hear the one and see the other. The tone quality of Vose pianos is as distinct and superior as is the art quality of the old masters—each represents the highest artistic standard in its respective class. You should hear the genuine Vose tone before you buy a piano—you'll not be satisfied with anything inferior.

UPRIGHT PIANOS RETURNED FROM RENTAL—Every one of them brand new when rented—some used only a few weeks—all of them in perfect condition; you save from $75 to $150 by buying now.

Vose rents nothing but NEW pianos—this means every time a piano is returned from rental it must be sold, and a price is put upon it that will sell it at once—that's the Vose policy—and it enables you to buy a practically new piano of standard make at a discount of about 25 per cent.

These rental pianos include Vose, Ludwig, Howard, and other makes—many of them no one could tell from an instrument fresh from the factory; some of the cases are slightly marred, but the tone quality, the durability, the genuine intrinsic value of the piano is all there. May moving has brought in a number of these rentals—they'll be sold quickly—now is your opportunity to save money; you cannot afford to miss it.

We've also a number of exceptional bargains in pianos taken in exchange for the Vose—standard makes—$75 to $180; they go at practically your own price, and on your own terms; we haven't store room for them.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1903.

THE GOVERNOR SIGNS THE BILL.

Gov. Yates made an able argument against the Mueller bill and then signed it. It would have been better if he had permitted it to become a law without his signature. The bill is not decorated by the name at the end of it, nor is the public mind illuminated by any of the excellent reasons he has advanced for not doing what he has done. Believing and arguing as he does he should not have signed the bill. The large majorities in favor of it, as he has demonstrated, are not to him evidence that the bill is wise. The arguments of the press in its favor only created in his mind prejudice and distrust of its merits. The fact that the people wanted it was no proof that they knew what was good for them. The honesty and intelligence of the city government being admitted, there still remained in the governor's mind a doubt whether the discretion reposed in it would be wisely exercised. Indeed, the governor has advanced so many arguments against the bill that we do not know how he can justify himself to his friends for signing it.

The threat that under certain conditions the governor will call the legislature together and have the bill amended or repealed conveys no terror to those who understand the situation at Springfield. Inasmuch as the governor does not control a majority in either branch of the legislature, it would have to be a grave blunder on the part of the city council that would justify an extra session or give the least excuse for the repeal or amendment of the bill. Like Glendower, the governor may "call spirits from the vasty deep," but will they obey when he does call for them?

So the bill is a law. After all the agitation and tumult and the efforts of the governor and his friends by unconstitutional methods to defeat it it goes into the statute books. Now comes the real period of stress and storm. What with the talk of a "referendum" a year from now and the manifest intention of some extremists to impose harsh and almost intolerable terms upon the traction companies, there is not good reason to look for a prompt or satisfactory settlement of the whole question or for the swift introduction of improved methods of transportation on the surface lines. Manifestly, there must be some profit for the companies in the new charter or nobody will consent to operate the lines. THE TRIBUNE looks for the best terms that can be obtained from the traction companies and believes that 1 cent in every 5 collected in fares should go to the city; beyond that point it has not yet heard of any plan of settlement which commends itself to general approval.

WHY WATERMAN WASN'T NOMINATED.

The republican judicial ticket is hurt because it lacks one name. The sins of commission of its makers when they put some unfit men upon it are trivial as compared with their sin of omission when they failed to put on the ticket the man whose name should have led all the rest.

When citizens read the list of nominees and failed to find Judge Waterman among them they asked wonderingly how he came to be left out. They could not understand the omission of a man who had many friends, and who, so far as they knew, had no enemies. He is a republican. He has been on the bench for sixteen years. During that time he has been always wholly a judge and never anything but a judge. He has proved himself learned and upright. Neither personal nor political considerations ever have swerved him from the path of duty. He has so borne himself as to win the respect of litigants and lawyers, who saw clearly that his sole desire was to do justice as between man and man. Yet such a man as this, whose name honors any ticket it may be put on, was proscribed.

The only explanation given the people is that volunteered by a member of the convention. It is that Judge Waterman "seemed to have no friends in the caucus." Naturally so. Judge Waterman has not cultivated friends among the politicians and he might not be represented in a caucus because he believed his record would speak for him. Judge Waterman did not work for a renomination. He tried to elect no delegates. He asked the aid of no "leaders." He had too much self-respect for that. So, while he had countless friends among the voters, he had none in the caucus which made up the judicial ticket.

The cause of the striking of Judge Waterman's name from the list probably was the opposition of Congressman Lorimer. Last fall the judge would not speak at or attend political meetings held in Lorimer's behalf in the Sixth congressional district. Other judges attended such meetings. They were assailed for it. THE TRIBUNE defended the right of a judge to advocate the election of the candidate of his party for congress if he thought the interests of the country and the party would be promoted by the victory of the candidate. But a judge has the same right to refuse the invitation of a candidate to speak for him as he has to accept it. To punish him for a refusal is indefensible. It is an attempt to make the judiciary subservient to the "boss."

The republican judicial ticket, "conspicuous by the absence" of Judge Waterman's name, stands before the voters an embodiment of the ill will of "the leaders." Therein lies its fatal weakness in the popular estimation. There are good men on it whose election would be assured if Judge Waterman's name were there also. Indignant voters think only of the missing name of the conscientious, competent, indefatigable jurist, who is to be banished from the bench for no other reason than that he would not speak for a candidate for office who in his opinion perhaps did not deserve to be reëlected.

TAKE THE LID OFF!

No matter how many precautions are taken and how much vigilance is exercised, it is impossible altogether to prevent occasional misconduct by subordinates in the great departments of the national government. Unscrupulous or dishonest men will work out unthought-of methods of evading laws and regulations, and will escape detection for a while. The people, knowing there must be wrongdoing sometimes, will not condemn the administration, some of whose subordinates are faithless, provided always the administration takes as its text: "Woe to the man by whom offense cometh," and punishes the transgressor.

The republican party when in power never has been afraid to investigate the alleged misconduct of its officials and punish them if they deserved it. It has had the wisdom to know that rumors of corruption exaggerate facts and do more harm than the truth can, no matter how disagreeable it may be. It has been the policy of the party always, when suspicion of wrong was simmering, to "take the lid off" the pot and let the steam escape. That is a policy to which the party should adhere, not merely because it is honest but because it is expedient. There should be no deviation from it because a veteran politician in office does not like to expose malfeasance in his department.

All that has been said applies specially to the charges made by Mr. Tulloch, a former cashier of the Washington city postoffice, of irregularities in the administration of postal affairs, and to the view which Postmaster General Payne takes of the charges and the policy he appears inclined to adopt regarding them.

Mr. Tulloch makes specific charges, the truth or falsity of most of which can be determined by official records. He alleges that immediately after the Spanish war the military postal service fund was drawn on to defray the expenses of "Indiana, Ohio, and other politicians and friends of officials," who were sent to Cuba and Porto Rico under pretense of "making investigations," but in reality to give them profitable pleasure trips. They were given salaries and their expenses paid. The names of many of the "investigators" and sums received by them are furnished.

Mr. Tulloch says that First Assistant Postmaster General Perry S. Heath sent an order to the Washington postmaster to appoint two women as charwomen at $600 a year, neither of whom was expected to report for any duty. He specifies other appointments improperly made to take care of "intimate friends" of Mr. Heath. The civil service act was evaded and the classification act ignored. Many clerks were paid excess salaries illegally. Many persons on the pay roll did little or no service.

Mr. Tulloch speaks of the extraordinary favors granted in the department to a concern which was trying to establish a letter box system in each house, and of the attempt to force all bonded officials to do business with a New York company with which Senator Platt's son was connected. Attempts were made to induce Mr. Tulloch to pay vouchers where bills were not itemized and there were no certificates of the delivery of the goods. He protested against these and other irregularities. Finally an investigation was ordered, but it was not made. The expert assigned to the duty was removed and Mr. Tulloch went also.

After Postmaster General Payne had received the specific charges, but before they had been given to the public, he spoke of them contemptuously as being merely the vague accusations of a discharged employé which it would be an insult to his predecessor to look into. Even after the public has been informed of the charges, and has learned how minute and detailed they are, the postmaster general asserts vehemently that they "do not amount to anything," and if they did the only person at fault was the Washington postmaster, who is now dead. Mr. Payne wishes to put all the blame on the dead to protect the living.

The charges are to be investigated, but the postmaster general is not in sympathy with the investigation. He has endeavored to make it ineffective by stopping the mouths of witnesses. He has said that if the name of any man who held a sinecure office is given him he will have that person sued on the charge of stealing money from the United States. The sinecurists will be dumb when asked for information.

It is time for the president to intervene. He abhors the policy of suppressing wrongdoing. He has moral as well as physical courage and he believes in exposing crime and punishing the criminal, no matter where the blow falls. He should turn his thoughts for a moment from the Yosemite to affairs at Washington, and direct peremptorily the postmaster general to do all in his power to promote the ends of justice and expose rascality and misdoing, no matter who the culprits may be.

Cleaning Up the South Side. The preliminary work of the South Central Improvement association is progressing steadily, satisfactorily, and in true business fashion. Its directors and the members of its executive committee are alert, enthusiastic, and thoroughly in earnest. They have the confidence and support of the city government, which has agreed to coöperate with them. It is a novelty, as they have been informed, to have an association make application for improvements not only without complaining against the way the city neglects the streets but absolutely agreeing to take the streets off its hands. Hence the prompt agreement of the mayor that the south side association shall have police help in the enforcement of the "clean street" ordinance and all the water that is necessary for washing the asphalt pavements in the district between Sixteenth and Thirty-first streets and Michigan avenue and the lake. The executive committee has elected a competent man superintendent for one year, and he will employ the requisite help for cleaning streets and alleys, coöperating with private improvement associations already in the field which are cleaning single blocks. The association has computed the cost of cleaning per front foot, and the superintendent will canvass the entire district this week for subscriptions. As the amount is inconsiderable and within the means of the smallest property holders, it cannot be doubted that the necessary sum easily will be raised and deposited with the association's treasurer, and then the good work will begin in earnest. It is not intended that everything shall be done at once. The work will move step by step, and it will require much time to do it all, but the association is in the field to stay.

GIVEN A LONGER TRIAL.

The indeterminate sentence law still adorns, or disfigures, the statute books of Illinois. Among those who maintain that it disfigures them are the members of the Chicago police force and the Cook county state's attorney's office. Among those who maintain that it adorns them are the members of the state board of pardons and philanthropical penologists like Charlton T. Lewis. In addressing the Social Science association the other day Mr. Lewis outlined his position. Punishment should no longer be retributive. It should be reformatory. We cannot accurately determine just how many years of imprisonment are an adequate expiation of an offense. It is only in comic opera that we can exactly make the punishment fit the crime. What we should do, therefore, is to retain a man in confinement as long as he seems dangerous to society and release him as soon as he has given evidence of sufficient moral improvement. Under this system each prisoner will carry the key of his prison in his own pocket.

It is well that the indeterminate system is to have another chance to prove its right to exist. Criminologists are many of them enthusiastic for it. It now has some more rope and it will be able either to hang itself or to demonstrate a larger usefulness.

THE governor seemed to think it necessary to use a great deal of ink in washing his hands of all responsibility for the Mueller bill.

CAN it be possible the governor of Illinois wrote: "I will not hesitate to within twenty-four hours assemble"?

JOHN CHINAMAN'S prices for laundry work may have risen a little, but his smile is still childlike and bland.

AS THE Illinois and Michigan canal is a great public "work," of inestimable benefit to some of his friends, the governor heartily approves of the appropriation in its behalf.

THE president did not speak softly to the boy who called him Teddy, and it may be hoped that the boy subsequently made the acquaintance of a small but tough stick wielded briskly by the paternal hand.

TO ST. LOUIS: Pardon the question, but does the analysis of the water that comes from this direction indicate any improvement in quality of late?

THE Cook county courthouse, with its microbes inside and its crumbling cornices outside, is admirably arranged to catch the unwary visitor going and coming.

OBVIOUSLY the next thing in the regular order of business is the settlement of the river tunnel problem.

THE mule raisers of Missouri are to hold a conference at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York. Certainly that is far enough away from the Missouri mule for safety.

CHICAGO acknowledges with gratitude the friendly assistance of the Illinois editors during the late uneasiness.

THERE'S your old Mueller bill, confound you!—His Excellency.

IN A MINOR KEY.

The Cranky Customer.

The easy chair in front of the furniture emporium on Umpty-third street looked inviting to the man who was strolling along and looking into the shop windows, and he sat down in it.

He wiped the perspiration from his brow, took a pipe from his pocket, filled it, lighted it, crossed one leg over the other, and was smoking away in comfort when the proprietor of the emporium came out.

"Can't you see," said the proprietor, "that this chair was put out here as a sample?"

"I don't see anything to indicate it," replied the other, removing his pipe from his mouth for a moment; "but I'll take your word for it."

"Well, it was. Don't you see the price tag on it—$4.75? We put it here to sell and not to furnish a lounging place for everybody that happens along."

"Four dollars and seventy-five cents? That's reasonable enough. I've seen chairs in Grand Rapids, no better than this, sold for almost as much, and they didn't care two straws whether you bought or not. Those fellows in Grand Rapids are too blamed independent." (Puff, puff.)

"You heard what I said, didn't you?"

"About this being a sample? It's for sale, isn't it?"

"Certainly."

"Same as everything you've got inside?"

"Of course."

"Then it isn't a sample. It's a part of your stock. You shouldn't misrepresent things." (Puff, puff.)

The furniture dealer began to turn red.

"All the same," he said, "you'll get out of that chair, or——"

"Hold on. You said it was for sale. I'll take it. I'd rather buy it than move. I think you said the price was $4.75. Here's the money. And now, if you don't object, I'll sit in it till I finish my pipe."

"Well, of course, you know, if I'd thought——"

"We'll not wrangle any more, if you please," interrupted the man in the chair, frowning. "I never like to be disturbed by idle talk when I'm smoking." (Puff, puff, puff.)

Fifteen minutes later he knocked the ashes out of his pipe, rose leisurely, scrawled his name and address on a blank card, and stepped inside the store.

"You may send this chair to that new house over at the corner of Umpty-second street and Bingley place," he said to the dealer. "I've got a whole lot more furniture to get, but it takes too much conversation to buy it here. Good-day."

The Probabilities.

"McGoozle, where are you going to spend the summer this year?"

"Well, we are hesitating between a tour of Europe and a couple of weeks at my wife's uncle's farm near Naperville—with the chances strongly in favor of Naperville."

Floored.

"Your poem, miss," said the magazine editor, "is not without merit. What, do you think it is worth?"

"It ought to be worth $25," replied the caller.

"H'm—are you aware, miss, that Edgar Allan Poe received only $10 for 'The Raven'?"

"Yes, sir," she said, "but publishers nowadays are not the sordid, soulless wretches they were in Poe's day. They recognize genius and are prompt and generous in rewarding it, sir."

The editor gasped once or twice, but handed her a check for the amount. C. W. T.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1903: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

EMPEROR WILLIAM has a new nickname which has caught on like wildfire throughout Germany, and which he will doubtless retain to the end of his days. It is that of "Daniel," and originates with the striking resemblance between the kaiser and the statue of the Prophet Daniel which constitutes one of the chief features of the magnificent new entrance to the cathedral at Metz.

It started in the latter city, where people on the streets, in the beer gardens, and places of public resort were heard asking those they met whether they had "seen Daniel," and of course the joke quickly spread to other cities and towns to such an extent that the authorities have become alarmed, and have even gone to the length of prohibiting the sale of the photographs of the statue of the Prophet Daniel, which, with its strongly marked features and its upturned mustaches, is the counterpart in marble of the emperor.

Naturally the German people, who are not without a strongly developed sense of humor, as demonstrated by their comic sheets, are quick to appreciate the many points of analogy between the Prophet Daniel and their monarch, notably the latter's readiness to act as judge and arbiter in every conceivable controversy that may arise, no matter whether it be of a military, political, scientific, commercial, industrial, social, or even biblical character. As the "Daniel of the twentieth century" Emperor William will go down to posterity.

Much of the information contained in these series of articles is derived from private letters and from sources of a personal character, and although it is in bad taste to expatiate on the merits of one's own writings, yet I should like to call the attention of those of my readers who have been following these letters for so many years to the fact that the story of the kaiser's new quarrel with his brother-in-law, Prince Bernard of Saxe-Meiningen, and of the circumstances which led to the latter's sudden resignation of his command of the army corps of Silesia, and to his withdrawal from active military service, was related at length in these letters just ten days before being printed in the Berlin papers on Friday last, and its appearance on the following day—that is to say, last Saturday, in the American press in the form of long cable dispatches. This is far from being an isolated instance of these letters containing information that only subsequently reaches this country by means of cable dispatches.

The little daughter of the ex-crown princess of Saxony, born under such singularly sad circumstances at Lindau, on the Bavarian shores of Lake Constance, has been christened, receiving the name of Pia Maria Monica, and has been inscribed on the local birth registers as a princess of the royal house of Saxony. She is so delicate a child that the intention of the court of Saxony to remove the infant from its mother's care as soon as it attains the age of three weeks will probably have to be modified.

It is related in court circles at Vienna and Berlin that the crown prince of Saxony sent a telegram to his former wife congratulating her on the birth of the child and conveying kindly wishes for her speedy recovery. This tends to confirm the story which I related here some time ago to the effect that the prince still retained sentiments of sincere affection for his former consort, and that as soon as the old king of Saxony had been gathered to his fathers a reconciliation and a remarriage would probably take place.

Let me add that it was the ex-grand duchess of Tuscany, who was present at the birth, who acted as sponsor at the baptism of her little grandchild.

There is no truth in the story which has been circulated to the effect that Sir Percy Sanderson is about to retire from his post of consul general of Great Britain in New York, a rumor which seems to have had its origin in the fact that he lately resigned the presidency of the St. George's society.

Sir Percy, who is a brother of Sir Thomas Sanderson, the permanent under secretary of state for foreign affairs, and the permanent chief of the foreign office, knows more probably than any one else in this country about the Danube question, which is destined to become a serious problem of European politics in the near future. The Danube, as every one knows, is a river which washes the banks of quite a number of countries, including Germany, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Servia, Bulgaria, and Russia.

In order to prevent Russia from establishing herself in control at the mouths of the river, and thus interfering with the use of the stream, as an artery of trade between the various countries on its banks and other maritime nations, the stream was internationalized, if one can use the expression, and the Muscovite empire by the treaty of Paris was compelled to affix its signature to an agreement whereby the river was declared free to the ships of all nations, and its control vested in an international commission composed of representatives of the Austrian, Russian, English, French, Prussian, and Italian governments, which made its headquarters at Galatz. The commission has various sovereign powers over the Danube.

Now this treaty is about to come to a close, and Russia has already given indications of her refusal to consent to its renewal and of her resolve to take such advantage of her position at the mouth of the Danube as she may deem fit. The other signatory powers are certain to object, and the question may become a burning one. But it is a complicated affair, and, as I have mentioned above, there is no one in this country who knows so much about it as Sir Percy, who for near twenty years was the British member of the international commission, besides being consul general of Great Britain for Roumania, as well as repeatedly acting as chargé d'affaires at Bucharest during the absence of the minister plenipotentiary.

Sir Percy, who is a grandson of Lord Canterbury, is an old soldier, having, after leaving Eton, gone to Addiscombe, whence he graduated as lieutenant of artillery in the Indian army, being subsequently transferred to the Royal Horse artillery. He served on the staffs of several of the governors of Madras, and retired from the army some thirty years ago, with the rank of captain, to enter the consular service.

In reply to the inquiry of a reader from Chicago, I would say that the quirinal, that is to say, the metropolitan residence of the king of Italy, was built in 1574 by Pope Gregory XIII., the pontiff, who reformed the calendar and gave us the one which now bears his name, and who also invented what is known as the Gregorian chant. Until thirty-three years ago the quirinal was occasionally used as a residence by the popes, but since Rome has become the capital of united Italy it has become the abode of the reigning house of Italy.

It has been much altered and added to since then, and indeed the major portion, and, in fact, nearly half of the palace as it now exists, may be said to have been constructed since 1870. The residential portion is almost wholly new, and it is the older part of the palace, that is to say, that formerly used by the popes, that is now devoted to state functions.

Let me get the lengthy words I used to know so well,

Listen, Mike, how does this sound: "It contraindicates
Integrity upon his part to haggle over weights,"
Or "His claudication proves his insincerity"—
Seems to me I've got the goods! What do you think of me?"

How'll it do to say that his comperendation is Tantamount to saying that he's weary of the biz?
And that his insistence that we battle in a hall
Is not only foolish but anomalistical?
Gee! About the minute that his plexus I have swiped,

HAND MADE PHILOSOPHY.

It is amusing to read the outbursts of these professors and others against the late Mr. Shakspeare and his justly celebrated but unprofitable dramas.

If there is any way for the shades who roam beyond the Styx to keep in touch with what is being said and done in this vale of tears, how must Shakspeare, Ignatius Donnelly, Kit Marlowe, Boccaccio, and Lord Bacon laugh at one another.

What a ripple of merriment must come from the different writers from whom Shakspeare lifted his plots.

Shakspeare can turn the blame for his faults upon them, if he likes, but we think he was a man like Josh Billings, who believed that "A fellow ought to steal like a scholar and claim it like a gentleman," or words to that effect.

The funniest part of it all to them must be to hover about some of our latter day theaters and listen to the puns that antedate Shakspeare and still are bravely striding the boards. Actors come and actors go, but the seltzer bottle, the slapstick, and the green whiskers go on forever, and the cow continues to cross the road at regular intervals.

And the speeches of double meaning? Shakspeare did not write any more of them than may be found in the modern burlesque.

If we had been Shakspeare, we should have revised that epitaph to:

"Now blessed be he who sees my fun,
And cursed be he who steals a pun."

IT MAY BE.

We often rail at Fate, and say
She turns a marble glance.
But it may be the other way—
We don't give her a chance.

HIS QUALIFICATION.

"How did you folks ever happen to nominate such a man as Coddley for congress?" asked the man from the adjoining district.

"Why, what's wrong with Coddley?" asked the constitutent.

"Nothing, only he hasn't the first quality of a statesman. He can't talk, he knows nothing of legislation, he never figured as a patriot—in fact, he never gave any evidence of being fitted for such a place."

"Hasn't the first quality, eh?" The constituent bridled somewhat. "Why, man; did you ever see anybody that could look as impressive in a plug hat as Coddley does?"

Amelia Bingham, the actress, was in Special Sessions yesterday afternoon to prosecute Graham Rice, the manager and editor of a daily paper, whom she charges with criminal libel because the paper printed an article saying that her husband had beaten her.

Abe Levy, who appeared for Rice, wanted an adjournment, but Abe Hummel, who appeared for Miss Bingham, asked for an immediate examination and characterized the article as "very villainous."

"O, we're not talking to the press agent," Mr. Levy broke in. "Be a lawyer and not an advance agent for a theatrical troupe."

Peace was restored and things were going along smoothly when Levy broke out again and said: "I'm not a theatrical lawyer. I'm not an advance agent for any theatrical lady. We are charged with criminal libel in that we printed a statement that this woman was beaten by her husband, and we'll come pretty near proving it, too."

Justice Mayer adjourned the examination to Friday and paroled Rice in the custody of his counsel.

Now that the operatic artists—or most of them—have gone abroad, Mr. Campanari is desolate. His comfortable apartment has for several years been a favorite trysting place for many of the song birds during the long New York season; and Mme. Campanari serves spaghetti—Edouard de Reszke can say how well. The singing giant used to forego almost any other gratification of the palate to enjoy the Campanari Italian paste, together with strange sauces, anchovies, bovoli, fagioli, and caviare, like the fellow in "Cynthia's Revels."

"Alas!" mourns the versatile and semper paratus baritone, "what Sunday suppers they were; and how Edouard and I did sing; and how the windows rattled."

WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1903.

DO YOU REMEMBER THAT—

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY:

Michael Angelo's project of turning the river Tiber from its course to recover lost objects of Roman art was revived by the pope, who offered a plan similar to that followed at the present time.

◆

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY:

The Peruvian government discriminated against American manufactures by raising the duty on furniture and other imports 90 per cent.

◆

FORTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

"The Tribune" proposed that the halting Virginia campaign which followed the battle of Chancellorsville be solved by President Lincoln himself taking command in place of Gen. Hooker.

A movement was started by the Pennsylvania miners and coal operators to expel all workmen who were not citizens of the United States or who had not taken out their first naturalization papers.

◆

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Anthony Comstock of New York, whom the newspapers referred to as "a young dry goods clerk," succeeded in convicting George Francis Train of insanity because of articles which Train had printed in his newspaper.

A financial panic started in Vienna because of the large amount of new securities that had been issued, and the minister of finance was asked to suspend all business for several days.

◆

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY:

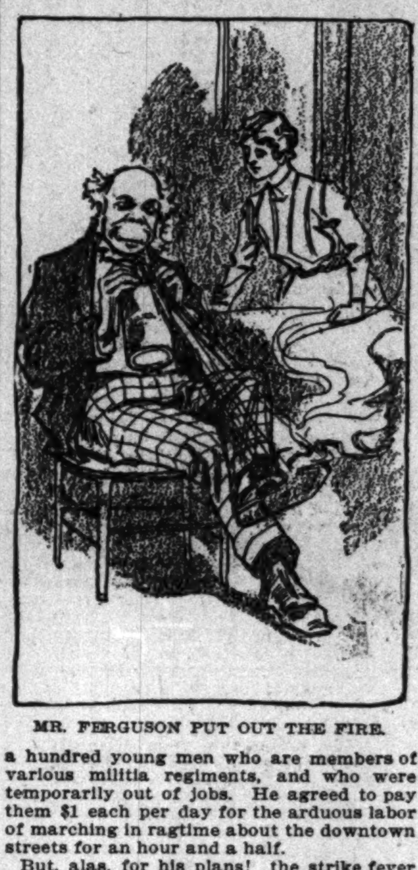
Eugene V. Debs reached New York and announced that he had come to organize a new railroad men's federation that would boycott strikes and be conducted on "business principles."

Through the Stage Door

"SURE, I stood at Gettysburg for two hours with shot and shell raging around me," said the old man in blue uniform as he removed what remained of an egg from his left ear, "but I never had one strike me before."

He was marching down State street just behind the band which daily heralds the performance of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" at McVicker's. And he was the first victim of the latest and most amusing strike which has yet visited strike tormented Chicago.

When "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" opened its engagement a contract was made with an enterprising promoter who agreed to furnish a strong lunged brass band, thirty-six, more or less, heroic cavalrymen, and the same number of foot soldiers to follow in the wake of the music. The contractor, in his turn, contracted with something like a hundred young men who are members of various militia regiments, and who were temporarily out of jobs. He agreed to pay them $1 each per day for the arduous labor of marching in ragtime about the downtown streets for an hour and a half.



MR. FERGUSON PUT OUT THE FIRE.

But, alas, for his plans! the strike fever got into the ranks of his mercenary soldiers. The other noon, just ten minutes before the parade was timed to start, his battered veterans presented themselves in the form of a hollow square, and announced that unless their wages were immediately and permanently raised to $1.50 a day, they would fight no more battles under his ensign. But the contractor was not a soldier for nothing.

"Never," he said, and forthwith called for volunteers among the crowd of supers who were just then hanging about the stage door. With their assistance, the parade was started only ten minutes late, but the contractor found that his troubles had then only begun. The mutineers waited on every street corner. They shrieked "scab" at the amateur soldiers, and then proceeded to bombard them with eggs, paving stones, and other weapons which are not allowed by the laws of civilized warfare.

The volunteers had not understood that they were enlisted for active service. Finding himself on the firing line, "Johnny went marching home" as rapidly as possible, and for the time being left the contractor with only the skeleton of his former phalanx ready for duty.

It is reported that the strikers are now about to form the Paraders' and Sandwich Man's Amalgamated union, and theatrical circles tremble for the result.

Miss Grace Noble is a tall young woman with a pair of blue eyes. Just at present Miss Noble is acting as business manager and advance agent for "The Little Princess" company.

Miss Noble admits that she is a young woman of tremendous ambition, and states incidentally that her ambitions are in a fair way to be realized next season, when Manager Dillingham builds the new theater on Broadway, New York, which Miss Noble is to manage.

"We shall present nothing in the new house," says Miss Noble, "but Shakspearean plays and other productions of the highest class. We feel sure that the public to which this sort of thing appeals is sufficiently large to make the venture profitable, and, besides, the idea of a woman managing a metropolitan theater is so novel that I have no doubt a great many people will be attracted by that alone."

Miss Noble thinks it is perfectly lovely to travel ahead of a really first class theatrical company. This is her first experience in the theatrical business, but she likes it so well that already she is prepared to predict that when other women see how well she has succeeded in a managerial capacity they will be ready to follow her example.

As a matter of fact, there are a number of young women among the theatrical advance agents of the country, and several of them have done extremely good work. Miss Helen Ten Broeck, for instance, who represented the Savage Grand Opera company for one season, was certainly alive to all the tricks of the trade. And Miss Anna Marble, who traveled ahead of Elsie De Wolfe's company last year, was another feminine advance agent who knew how to get her star before the public.

"Satire is almost always wasted on actors," said the old advance agent. "As a rule, they are so deeply impressed with a sense of their own superlative abilities that they take everything written about them in the most serious possible fashion.

"Some years ago I was stranded on the Pacific coast. I wanted to get back to Chicago the worst way possible, and finally, through a lucky accident, I learned that Barney Ferguson, the Irish comedian, who was just about to start east, was in need of an advance agent. The job promised transportation and spending money at least, and I was glad to get it. Nothing interesting happened until we struck Trinidad, Colo. Trinidad is a small town, but there happened to be a young man working on one of the papers there more for the benefit of his lungs than of his pocketbook. He was an experienced dramatic critic, and he came to see my star.

"At that period of his career Mr. Ferguson's chief dramatic feat was to sit in a large easy chair, with an Irish makeup on, and hold a humorous conversation with the soubrette of the company. When the proper moment came Mr. Ferguson, being busily engaged in the debate, the soubrette coyly set fire to the paper sole of one of his shoes. Never even glancing at the threatening conflagration, Mr. Ferguson reached into a capacious inside pocket and pulled out a loaded bottle of seltzer water. Still, without looking at the fire, which by this time had reached magnificent proportions, Mr. Ferguson turned on the stream and extinguished the flame, all the time keeping up the rapid fire conversation.

"This brilliant outburst of wit and humor was always good for a hearty laugh in the mining district.

"The young eastern dramatic critic, however, fell afoul of my star after the following fashion:

"'Sir Henry Irving has his own individual methods of producing a dramatic effect; Mr. Richard Mansfield has his; but it has remained for Mr. Barney Ferguson to make a seltzer bottle the hero of a farce comedy.'

"When I read that in the paper the next morning I trembled for my job. As I walked into the hotel dining room Mr. Barney Ferguson was already reading the paper. I sat down at the same table. Presently the great man looked up.

"'Did you see what they said about me in the paper this morning?' he asked.

"'I did,' I said, looking as sorrowful as possible.

"'You see, they compare me with Sir Henry Irving and Richard Mansfield, don't you?' he said, looking as proud as a peacock. 'You'd better go out and buy me half a dozen more seltzer bottles.'"

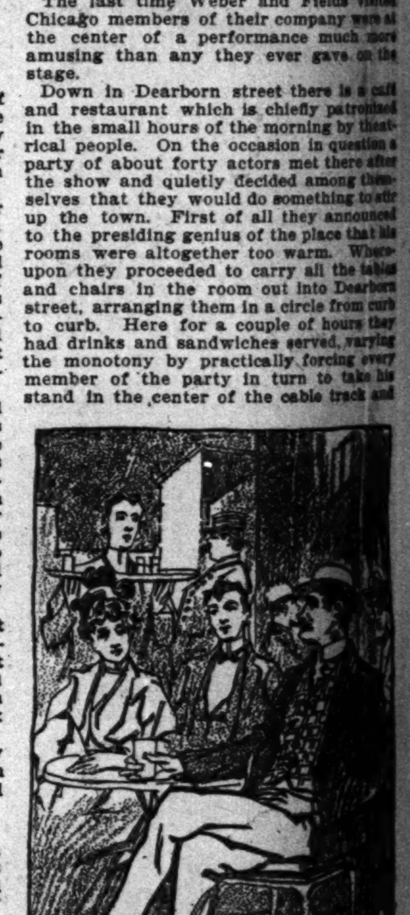
The last time Weber and Fields visited Chicago members of their company were at the center of a performance much more amusing than any they ever gave on the stage.

Down in Dearborn street there is a café and restaurant which is chiefly patronized in the small hours of the morning by theatrical people. On the occasion in question a party of about forty actors met there after the show and quietly decided among themselves that they would do something to stir up the town. First of all they announced to the presiding genius of the place that his rooms were altogether too warm. Whereupon they proceeded [illegible] the tables and chairs in the room out into Dearborn street, arranging them in a circle from curb to curb. Here for a couple of hours they had drinks and the sandwiches served, varying the monotony by requiring every member of the party in turn to take his stand in the center of the cable track and do the best song and dance of which he was capable. Long before the first act of this unique performance was over most of the police detail in the downtown district had been summoned on a riot call, but they were easily persuaded that nothing criminal was intended, and soon disappeared in clouds of tobacco smoke.



SCATTERED THE TABLES ACROSS DEARBORN STREET.

Finally, after the regular waiters had become entirely exhausted, Junie McCrae was forced into service after an impromptu apron had been made for him out of a tablecloth. When he returned to the street, staggering under the weight of many mugs and plates, he found the party split up into four sections, one of which was gathered at each of the four corners of the block.

Finally, as a climax, the entire forty filed solemnly back into the café, and each in turn ordered an entirely different mixed drink. Everybody in the house worked for half an hour in preparing these concoctions. Finally the forty tall glasses were lined up in a row.

Whereupon the forty actors bowed solemnly, said "Good morning," and walked out without touching their drinks.

It took "Joe" Weber some half an hour and something more than half a dollar to square accounts next morning. H. M. H.

WILL WORK ON FARM IF—

CITY FOLK ACCEPT COUNTRYMAN'S OFFER CONDITIONALLY.

Scores Respond to Cry for Field Hands, but They Prefer Dairy Labor, Chicken and Fruit Raising, and Other Fancy Occupations to Plowing and Harvesting—Women Ignore Opportunity to Quit the Towns—Far West Attracts the Majority.

To the cry of the farmers for workers the reply of the young men of the city is: "We will come." The office of the Orange Judd Farmer has been swamped during the last few days with advertisements of city men who are anxious to work all summer in the country. Since the offer to insert such advertisements free in the paper was made public every mail has brought a heap of letters from those ready to forsake metropolitan bustle for rural quiet. A throng of visitors has made personal application to Manager George B. Bliss, and his assistants have been kept busy explaining the beauties of life in the country and how to get started as farmers.

On the surface the experiment would seem to offer promise of better days for the country folk who complain they can secure no help to plant and harvest their crops. An examination of the applications, however, discloses the fact that the city people are inclined to be captious. Most of them have ideas and impose conditions in a way to qualify the success of the plan.

Want to Be "Gentlemen Farmers."

While there is no question of the seriousness and honesty of the advertisers, they appear to suffer from an excess of independence. Too many admit they are willing to "accept" an offer for work. Then there is noticeable a desire to get into special branches of the business as stock raising, dairy work, poultry growing, and the like, branches in which a man might hold himself up as a gentleman farmer.

Not one avows his purpose to master plowing, seeding, harvesting, or haying, or his fondness for any of the fundamental tasks of farming. Many admit their inexperience and the wording of their communications speaks for their ignorance of rural matters. When a young man writes in all seriousness that he would like work on "a range in California," the fruit grower is apt to think twice before he undertakes to teach him the business and pay him also.

The choice of many far western states as the places where the applicants would toil, also speaks for their want of appreciation of the needs. Many want to go to Colorado and Montana, and the distant regions seem still to be enveloped in a haze of glamor and romance. The magic in the name of California, first conjured up by Bret Harte, has not lost its power.

A wide range is shown in the motives of the applicants for country work. One is a high school principal, who would earn some honest vacation money, another is a city youth who is ready to try his mettle on the storied cattle ranges of the west.

Not a Woman Wants to Go.

Most significant of all is the failure of women to respond. Not one has replied to the request for help in the farmers' kitchens and dairies. Has the country no charm for them? Do they fear the often heralded loneliness and drudgery of the farmhouse and the supposed isolation and lack of society of the wives and daughters of the sons of the soil? These and other questions are being asked by persons interested in the project.

A few of the many advertisements which will appear in the next issue of the journal tell who are willing to shake the city's dust from their shoes. Joseph S. Hofer, superintendent of the Oak Park schools, Des Moines, Ia., writes:

"I formerly worked on a farm and would accept work of that kind in some good portion of Colorado during the summer vacation."

S. A. Talbutt of Chicago says he is 19 years old and strong. He is willing to go to California or Montana and knows about the care of horses.

School Principal an Applicant.

W. L. Barrett, principal of the high school at Fort Madison, Ia., writes: "Kindly put me in correspondence with those seeking laborers for the fruit harvests of California or the wheat farms in the northwest. I was reared on a farm."

Robert Zick, 625 South Kedzie avenue, Chicago, has not had experience on a farm but is a willing worker and is not looking for a snap. He prefers a dairy.

W. A. Wherry, 3721 Rhodes avenue, prefers Oklahoma or some state in that part of the country.

A. Hallberg, 97 Cleveland avenue, will go to California if transportation is advanced for himself and his family of three.

F. L. Zelby, 178 La Salle street, writes that he is 50 years of age and asks for advice, with this pathetic complaint: "Like many others of my age, I find it difficult to obtain employment. The corporations and business men generally want younger blood; and, again, I prefer the quiet life of the country."

J. S. Ward, 4908 Washington Park place, is one of many to whom health is the prime consideration, and who state that "salary is no object."

P. J. Corbett, 366 Johnson street, has no preference, except that he would be a "cattle herder."

The editorial granting applicants for work the free use of the paper's pages will not appear until the issue of May 23. The replies thus far received have been brought in by the report of the matter in THE TRIBUNE on Saturday.

BETHEA—Solomon Hicks Bethea, United States district attorney—"Old Sol Bethea."

A joke on himself relished by Mr. Bethea and one of his favorites:

His father, Squire W. W. Bethea, one of the earliest settlers in Lee county, Ill., where Solomon Bethea was born and "raised," was elected justice of the peace in 1839. The first case undertaken by Solomon Bethea was tried before his father. It was dismissed by the father with these remarks: "Young man, that was the worst case I ever heard, and if you ever come before me again with so badly prepared a case I will chase you out of court."

Solomon made an unerasable note of his father's dictum and was careful not to give him the opportunity of inflicting an ignominious retreat.

Mr. Bethea has a well founded reputation for enjoying life and the sweets thereof. He disclaims favorite amusements. All healthy, wholesome amusements appeal to him.

He has no pet luxuries, although cigars are an approach thereto. He just smokes "sometimes," and any brand that happens to be handy, although he prefers two dollar and a half Havanas.

As to hobbies he says: "I don't know."

As to games, "I don't know."

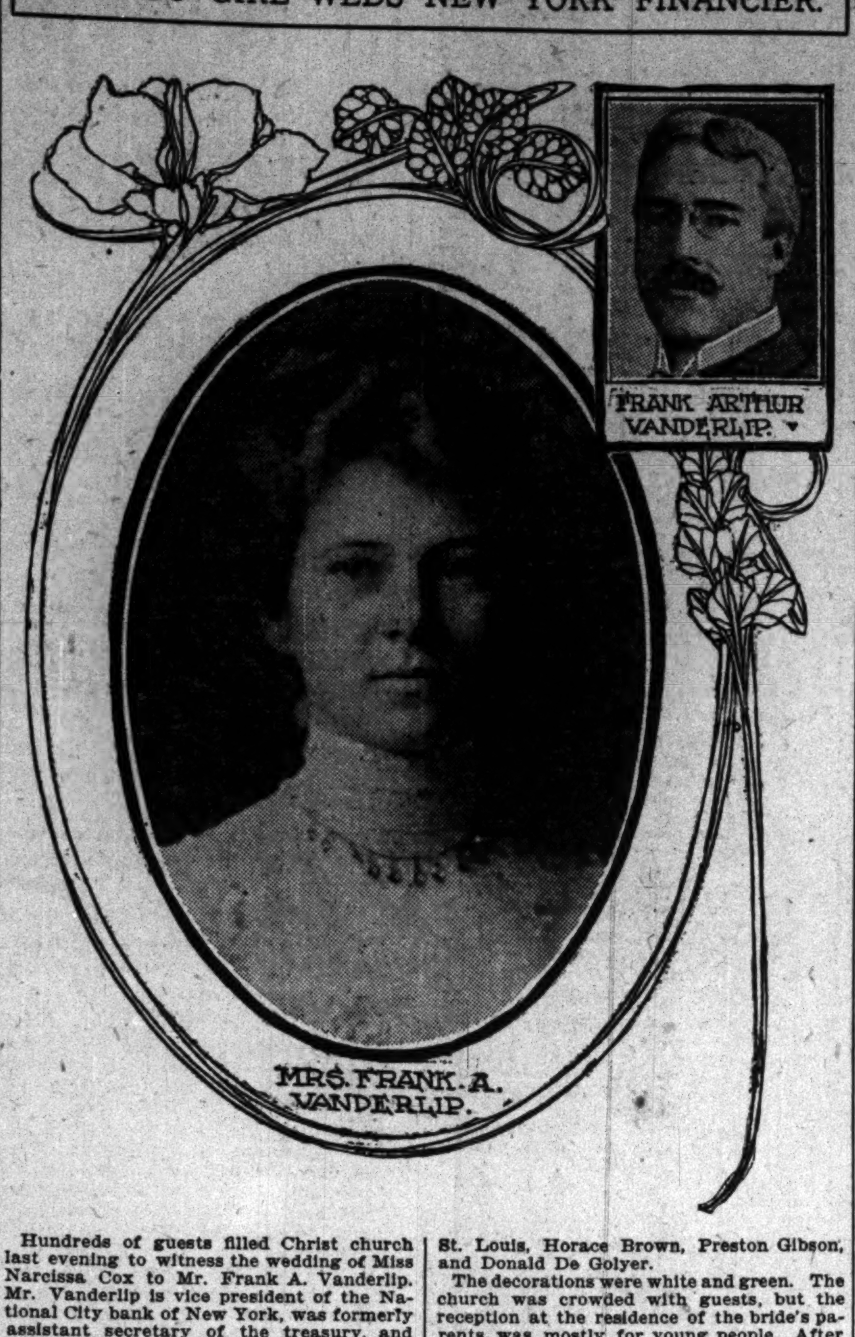
CHICAGO GIRL WEDS NEW YORK FINANCIER.



FRANK ARTHUR VANDERLIP.

MRS. FRANK A. VANDERLIP.

Hundreds of guests filled Christ church last evening to witness the wedding of Miss Narcissa Cox to Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip. Mr. Vanderlip is vice president of the National City bank of New York, was formerly assistant secretary of the treasury, and before that was a Chicago newspaper man. The bride is a favorite in University of Chicago circles, and gave up the honors of graduating a few months hence to be a bride.

The guests represented financial, university, and newspaper circles. The decorations of the church were simple. Palms were arranged far back in the chancel, and at the altar steps were two tall jars of white lilies.

A double quartet, made up of friends of the bride, sang an anthem before the entrance of the bridal party and one at the conclusion of the marriage service. Two ushers placing the ribbons met the bridal procession at the door. Ralph Hobart, as master of ceremonies, led the way to the altar, the bridemaids in a group of five following the ushers, the maid of honor preceding the bride, who entered the church alone but was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Charles Epperson Cox. The groom and his best man, E. W. Harden of New York, formerly of Chicago, waited at the altar.

The ushers were John T. McCutcheon, George Ade, Blatchford Kavanagh, Arthur Johnson, Allen Hoyt, Charles Rich, and Ames Higgins, the last three of New York.

The bridemaids accomplished an unusually pretty color effect in their costumes. The maid of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Clover Cox, wore a gown of rose silk, with trimmings of embroidered lace, a coronet of small roses on her hair, and carried a bouquet of mauve orchids. The bridemaids wore white point d'esprit gowns made over rose colored silk. They wore short tulle veils of a delicate rose color, and carried bouquets of mauve orchids. The bouquets were big, loose bunches, tied with long, rose colored ribbons, and were sent from Washington, as were also the flowers carried by the bride.

The bridemaids were Miss Ruth Vanderlip, the groom's sister; Miss Emma Dolsinger of Louisville, Ky.; Miss Elizabeth Calhoun, Miss Gertrude Butler of Indianapolis, and Miss Monica Railsback of Kansas City.

The marriage service was read by Dr. L. P. Mercer of Cincinnati, formerly of Chicago, and Bishop Cheney made the prayers and pronounced the benediction.

At the Cox residence, 3308 Calumet avenue, where the reception was held, the decorations were more elaborate than at the church. Reception hall, library, and stairway were banked with pink roses. In the drawing room, where the bride and groom received congratulations, white lilies were used.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderlip left for New York, and will sail in a few days for Europe. They will be at home on the last two Thursdays in September at 1067 Madison avenue, New York.

Mr. Lyman J. Gage came from New York to attend the wedding. Former assistant secretary of the treasury Ailes and Mrs. Ailes were also among the out of town guests, as were Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Adams of New York.

◆

The south side furnished the larger number of yesterday's brides. Kenwood was particularly interested in the wedding of Miss Katharine Bayley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Bayley of 4634 Greenwood avenue, to Mr. Edwin H. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alson E. Clark, at the Kenwood Evangelical church. The ceremony was at 8:30 o'clock in the evening, the Rev. John R. Crosser officiating.

Miss Marguerite Manierre was the maid of honor, and the bridemaids were Miss Gertrude Potter, Miss Gwethlyn Jones, Miss Mary Steele, Miss Margaret Silsbee, and Miss Mary Shumway. Mancel Clark was his brother's best man. The ushers were Adolph Babcock, George B. Carpenter, Mr. Knight of St. Louis, Horace Brown, Preston Gibson, and Donald De Golyer.

The decorations were white and green. The church was crowded with guests, but the reception at the residence of the bride's parents was mostly for young people. After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Clark will live at 2938 Prairie-av.

◆

The north side wedding last evening was that of Miss Edna Lapham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arden Barker Lapham, to Mr. Ernest Walter Hunt. The ceremony took place at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, 2921 Kenmore avenue, Edgewater, the Rev. J. M. D. Davidson officiating.

Miss Jane Lapham, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and the bridemaids were Miss Fanny Hunt, Miss Edith Hunt, and Miss Grace Jones. They all wore gowns of white point d'esprit over white silk and carried bouquets of white lilacs. The bride's gown was of white meteor crêpe, with full veil and shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Edward M. Lapham was the best man. The ushers were Henry H. Curtis of Chicago and William P. Buckner of New York. It was a white wedding, white lilacs predominating in the decorations.

The wedding was a small one. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Morgan of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lapham and Miss Cole of Decatur, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt will be at home after Sept. 1 at 1053 Norwood avenue, Edgewater.

◆

Mr. and Mrs. John Kranz of 627 Dearborn avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Laura Kranz, to Mr. Frank Lehmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bernard Lehmann of Dresden, Germany.

The marriage of Miss Leeto Grace Ashley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton J. Ashley, to Mr. Daniel M. Morgan will take place next Wednesday evening in Pilgrim Congregational church.

Among the afternoon affairs yesterday Mrs. Alonzo C. Mather's reception in the rooms of the Woman's club was one of the largest. The invitations were to meet Miss Ethel Spencer Lloyd of Detroit, a young musician, who gave a talk on "Lohengrin." She was introduced by Mrs. Otto Matz.

Today's principal society event will be the Fortnightly meeting at 3 o'clock at the rooms in the Fine Arts building. Dr. Yamei Kin, the Chinese woman physician, will give the first of a series of lectures on her country and people.

At the annual meeting of the Young Fortnightly on Monday the election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. Ralph M. Shaw.
Vice presidents—Mrs. James Thompson and Mrs. Edward Stettinius.
Recording secretary—Mrs. Charles U. Gordon.
Corresponding secretary—Miss Gertrude Libbey.
Treasurer—Mrs. Philip Schuyler Doane.
Directors—Mrs. H. O. Stone Jr., Mrs. John Jay Abbott, Mrs. Oren B. Taft Jr., Mrs. H. H. Walker, Miss Anna B. Johnson, Miss Mary Walsh, and Miss Gertrude Potter.

DREDGERS TO BEGIN BIG TASK.

Four Great Lake Companies to Join in Excavating the Sturgeon Bay Canal.

Four big contracting companies are about to begin widening and deepening the Sturgeon bay ship canal, connecting Lake Michigan and Green Bay. Nearly 2,000,000 cubic yards of earth will have to be dredged away before the canal can accommodate the biggest boats on the lakes. The government will spend $175,000 on the improvement, and when the work is complete the ship canal will have been widened from 100 to 150 feet and deepened from 17 to 21 feet.

The tug Andrew J. Green will start from Chicago today with one of the largest dredges of the Chicago and Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company. Outside the breakwater the Green will be joined by the car ferry tug Fisher, and the vessels will work together to tow the dredge to the scene of work.

Tugs and dredges also will be sent to the canal by the Duluth Dredge and Dock company, the Lake Superior Contracting company of West Superior, and the Starke Dredge and Dock company of Milwaukee.

It will take eight months to finish the work.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

MEREDITH NICHOLSON'S "THE MAIN CHANCE" GOOD READING.

An Indiana Author of Promise Who Has Produced a Fictional Work of Modern Business Life in the West—Omaha Is the Scene of Its Action and There Are Glimpses of Real Personages in the Book.

This is the day of the "business" novel and the west in fiction and Meredith Nicholson has blended them both in "THE MAIN CHANCE," a story of bankers, lawyers, railroad men, and street railway speculation, with Omaha as the location and just enough of the feminine element to keep the strenuous young westerners properly interested in something more sentimental than their every day work. The title suggests money and material things, and yet the story is far from being as sordid as might be thought. The characters are strong and natural and interesting, and many of them are evidently drawn from life. One does not need to have been a resident of Omaha to recognize some of the notables who have more than a local reputation.

And Mr. Nicholson has studied his locale and business conditions at close range, as well as his characters. His long training in newspaper work has added to his natural talent in telling his story. The inevitable heaviness of business details is lightened by the humor of his characterizations and the light satire of his descriptions of the crudity of a western boom town, and he holds the interest to the end, in spite of the fact that the feminine element in the book is limited. John Saxton is evidently the hero, for he marries the girl at the end, and deserves her, but a more interesting character is Harry Raridan, the brilliant young man of leisure, whose misfortune was to be a generation before the time for that sort of thing.

Not so attractive, but a strong character study, nevertheless, is James Wheaton, the one man of them all with the sharpest eye for "the main chance," but who failed at the end, after doing much, because he was a moral coward. While Mr. Nicholson makes an interesting episode of an abduction based upon the stealing of the Cudahy boy at Omaha, and tells a lively story of the contest between two local Napoleons of finance for the control of the street railways, there is little plot to the story, which is carried along more by the charm of the characters and the telling than by what they do. (The Bobbs-Merrill company.)

TENNESSEE SONGS AND STORIES.

Another Volume from the Pen of John Trotwood Moore.

John Trotwood Moore in his preface to "SONGS AND STORIES FROM TENNESSEE" (Henry T. Coates & Co.) deprecates his efforts to do justice to the "spot rich in history and tradition," saying: "I have only attempted to do what a greater one should have done." Mr. Moore's humble opinion of his work is undeserved, for the songs and stories, which he says had been hastily written for an obscure department of a country newspaper, and which are now issued in book form, are charming little sketches full of humor and pathos, cleverly blended.

"The Basin of the Tennessee" is a poetic bit of description of that part of the country which the author says is "the dimple of the universe." That Mr. Moore loves his land and its people is evident in every line. The negro dialect enters largely into the stories of necessity. In "Old Mistic," a typical story of the "Old South," the fascination of horse racing, "the sport of the gods," according to Col. James Dinwiddie, is the dominating theme. It is a simple tale, told mainly by "Little Jake," a jockey whose picturesque photograph forms the frontispiece. The devotion of the little slave to his master and the horses, his literal interpretation of the one bit of the scriptures which has come to his knowledge, his childish description of horse races and of himself as a "muscat," with his tragic end, form a story of real interest. The tales, though "decked in homespun and homeliness," are pleasing and restful. There are several good illustrations of the "darkies" around whom most of the stories are woven.

KINDERGARTEN BUILDING GIFT.

A Helpful Book for Teachers, by Harrison and Woodson.

"THE KINDERGARTEN BUILDING GIFTS" (Sigma Publishing company) is intended primarily as a help for teachers in kindergartens, but it is expected also to demonstrate to everybody the importance of the work created by Froebel. Its authors are Elizabeth Harrison, coprincipal of the Chicago Kindergarten college, and Belle Woodson, instructor in gifts and occupation in the same institution. The introduction is "a short and inadequate statement of the world-view of one of the most truly religious minds in modern times." The book is intended to show why Froebel instituted the gifts, to examine them critically and find out whether or not they fulfill the purpose for which they were intended.

Each gift forms a chapter, the first gift, as every kindergartner knows, consisting of six worsted balls of the colors of the rainbow, to each of which is attached a string of the color corresponding to the ball. Every detail, technical or otherwise, is exhausted in each chapter, rhymes and little songs forming no small part of the whole. The book should be of value to those interested in the work of kindergartens.

Gates of Silence.

Robert Loveman, whose poems have appeared from time to time in "The Critic," "Harper's," and many of the other current magazines, has collected them and had them reprinted in a little volume under the title of "The Gates of Silence." (The Knickerbocker Press.) Mr. Loveman's verses are too well known to need much comment. They are full of gentle thoughts and possess a delicacy of expression. They breathe of nature and have the merit of brevity. The beauty of sweet simplicity of the author's thoughts may best be shown by the following verses, which are the gem of the whole collection:

> I could not see till I was blind,
> Then color, music, light,
> Came floating down on every wind
> And noonday was as night.
>
> I could not feel till I was dead;
> Then through the mold and wet
> A rose breathed softly overhead,
> I heard a violet.

Reflections of Bridget McNulty.

Frank C. Voorhies has written a little volume called "Reflections of Bridget McNulty" (Dickerman Publishing company), in which various opinions on present day methods, people, and things are expounded by Bridget McNulty, a cook, to her friend, Ellen Riley. Football, golf, and pingpong are handled in a manner peculiar to the loquacious handmaid, while Christian Science, phrenology, love, and many other subjects come in for their share of criticism and explanation. The sketches are filled with a sense of humor well calculated to raise much merriment in the mind of the reader at the expense of the devotees of the games, the followers of the many cults, and at the funny misrepresentations of the Irishwoman.

Peter von Dinkelspiel.

A flexible covered volume bearing the title of "Peter von Dinkelspiel and Other Moods More Serious" (Drexel Biddle press), by John Campbell Haywood, consists of a number of poems both funny and serious. The latter have much more of merit in them than the former. "Independence Day," "Faith," "Evening Lights," and "Future" are the best the little volume has to offer. Those intended to be jocose border on the trashy, and one wonders why Mr. Haywood thought it necessary to include them.

REWARD FOR CHURCH WRECKER

Evanston Council Offers $500 for Arrest of Men Who Set Off Blast in Ebenezer Building.

A reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest of the persons concerned in the wrecking of the Ebenezer Methodist church, Evanston, last Friday evening was offered by the Evanston city council last evening. The resolution was offered by Ald. W. B. Walwrath of the Seventh ward, and was in response to the appeal of a committee from the church, asking that such action be taken.

James Gallagher of Benson avenue paid $2.25 for a dog license and the dog died. Gallagher petitioned the council to refund his money. The police committee will pass on his claim.

The old trouble about the street cars not stopping was revived in the council meeting. The railway committee was authorized to take steps to have the cars stop at street crossings.

GLENWOOD HOME'S GOOD YEAR.

Directors of the Boys' Manual Training School Farm Hold Their Annual Election.

The directors of the Illinois Manual Training school farm at Glenwood held their annual meting in the Sherman house yesterday afternoon. Edward B. Butler, Edwin G. Foreman, and John S. Field were reelected members of the board of directors.

Oscar L. Dudley, the secretary and treasurer of the association, stated in his report for the year that over 500 boys have been cared for at the farm. Forty-four boys were placed in homes, 194 returned to their parents or to friends, while nine ran away. There was only one death.

The financial condition of the school had been satisfactory. Attention was directed to the need of a new swimming pool, which will cost $2,500. Two cottages are needed also.

WANTS A COAL CASE DECISION.

State's Attorney Deneen Asks Judge Horton to Hurry Up—Ruling Promised in Few Days.

A decision in the case of the Illinois and Wisconsin Retail Coal Dealers' association is to be handed down by Judge Horton either the last of this week or early next week. A request for haste in the decision was made yesterday by State's Attorney Deneen, and it is probable that a similar request will be made in a day or two in the case of the Northern Illinois Coal Dealers' association. The time taken by Judge Horton was characterized by the state's attorney as "an unusual delay."

Mr. Deneen, Assistant State's Attorney Barnes, and Attorney Samuel Packard, for the defendants, were in court when Mr. Deneen made his request.

The other coal case will be taken up in a day or two.

WOMAN ACCUSES LOAN AGENT.

Ida Johnson Has Grand Jury Vote Indictment Against H. Martin Charging Conversion of $3,250.

A true bill charging embezzlement was voted against Hugh Martin yesterday by the grand jury. Martin is said to have been given $3,250 by Miss Ida C. Johnson, 270 Fortieth street, which he was instructed to loan.

He is said to have pretended that he had advanced the money on mortgages, but instead to have converted the money to his own use.

Charles Slater and Peter Burg, two of the three alleged tax fixers, indicted on Monday, gave bonds of $1,000 each, State Senator Powers being the surety.

Padding Skeletons
That's Postm's Job.

The rapidity with which pure food and drink will win a hard battle against ill health makes people stare sometimes. The most wonderful medicines in the world may be tried without success so long as the body is slugged with coffee. After lying 10 months in bed from his third attack of La Grippe, a gentleman of Bridgeport, Vt., recovered his health almost entirely in two weeks by leaving off coffee and drinking Postum Cereal Coffee at meal times. He says:

"I was reduced in weight from 190 to about 100 pounds and thus remained a poor, helpless skeleton for 8 months notwithstanding my physician's liberal prescriptions, besides many boxes and bottles of extensively advertised remedies and dozens of bottles of malt and other tonics.

"Finally in April, I stopped using coffee and other drugs and medicines of every kind and adopted a diet of plenty of Postum and Grape-Nuts. To my surprise in a short time I was able to eat and digest soft boiled eggs for breakfast and beef steak for dinner. I gained flesh and strength rapidly.

"On the afternoon of June 9 I walked out of my residence for the first time in 10 months and nine days. Two weeks later I left the city for my boyhood's home in the old Green Mountain State where I am now living in better health and strength than I have had since my first attack of La Grippe in 1892. I regard my case as having been hopeless so far as medical science was concerned by reason of heart failure, nervous prostration and, as my physician termed it, nearly total paralysis of certain internal organs, but found all this was caused by coffee drinking.

"Before I found Postum I was 70 years old, now I feel 70 years young." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CENT ADVANCE IN WHEAT

CLAIMS OF CROP DAMAGE THE CHIEF BULL INCENTIVE.

Reports of Deterioration Over a Wide Area Come from Southwest and Local and St. Louis Operators Are Large Buyers—Stocks in This Country Decreasing Rapidly — Corn Stronger—Oats Higher on Poor Crop Outlook—Flurry in July Pork.

Early influences in the wheat market were interpreted as bearish. Cables were lower and St. Louis broke, apparently forgetting its claims of serious damage to the growing crop. There was talk of larger receipts in the northwest, and of a strike of flour handlers which might close some of the mills. The northwest markets started easy, and there were declines of about ⅜c here, with considerable local selling. But the wheat seemed to be wanted, commission houses picking up the offerings. The southwest began sending more crop damage reports and more buying orders, and in the last half of the session the market suddenly turned strong and a big, broad trade developed.

On buying largely by local bull operators and St. Louis houses and some hurried covering by shorts, there was a sharp advance of 1½c from the early break, with the close at about top prices and at a net gain of ⅝c to 1c for the day. July made the best advance, selling from 72¾@72⅞c to 74¼@74⅜c, closing at 74¼c sellers. But September went about as fast and about as far, the natural result of fears of crop damage, closing at 71⅝c bid. The May reached 80¼c, and closed at 80c.

A factor in the advance was Bradstreet's report showing a decrease of 4,300,000 bu in world's stock for the week, compared with 2,404,000 bu decrease a year ago. Stocks in second hands in this country seemed to be decreasing more rapidly than last year, the falling off east of the Rockies, 5,004,000 bu for the week, compared with 3,808,000 bu a year ago.

Crop Estimates Reduced.

Fears of serious damage to the crop were, however, the main motive for the advance. Advices from Kentucky and Tennessee millers claim wheat going back daily on account of rust and fly, and not more than half a crop probable. A St. Louis elevator concern put out an estimate as the result of tabulated reports from traveling men that not over 60 per cent of the crop would be raised in all the winter wheat states outside of Indiana and Ohio. There were reports of serious damage in Kansas and Nebraska, and strenuous contradictions from those states of any deterioation, except in small sections. But when the market got under way with a full head of steam on it was more popular and seemed safer to credit the damage claims.

There was selling early by some of the St. Louis houses, but there was large buying, apparently for southwest account, as the advance started, through Spencer, Bennett, Logan-Bryan, Jackson, Lindman, McReynolds, and other houses. The northwest, which had also sold early, turned buyers, through Daggett, Wrenn, and Harris-Gates, and there was a big local demand by Trego-Montgomery, Brosseau, Chandler, Hulburd-Warren, Dunn, Rankin, and Pringle. There was an idea that Armour was a buyer of July through commission houses on the early decline, and there was some open support from that source. The selling on the advance was through commission houses generally, in the way of crop taking.

Local contract stocks increased 207,000 bu for the week to 3,007,000 bu. Total stocks are 7,080,000 bu, a decrease of 263,000 bu. Minneapolis stocks decreased 550,000 bu for three days. Portland, Ore., reported a sale of a cargo of 3,000 tons to Japan. It was still dry in California. Primary receipts were 235,000 bu, compared with 249,000 bu a year ago. Clearances were 432,000 bu. Export sales at the seaboard were 160,000 bu. Liverpool cables were ⅛d to ⅜d lower, Paris ¼c lower to unchanged.

Corn Holds Firm.

There was a slight yielding in corn prices early on continued liberal country acceptances, though these were on a much smaller scale than on Monday, country sales perhaps 500,000 bu. But the market held firm, though dull, most of the session, with a late moderate rally, in sympathy with wheat and on local buying of July, the close showing gains of ⅛@¼c. July sold from 44⅜c to 44⅞c and closed at 44⅝c. The cash market was steady. The shipping demand was better, although some eastern buyers were trying to resell purchases here; sales, 400,000 bu, partly for June shipment. The market was steadied by the decrease in stocks and the small estimate of 100 cars for today. Contract stocks decreased 318,000 bu for the week, to 1,095,000 bu, and total stocks decreased 480,000 bu, to 2,714,000 bu. The May went to a discount of ⅛-⅜c under July on moderate selling by McReynolds. The inspection sheet showed 311 cars in, with 19 contract. Primary receipts were 285,000 bu, compared with 328,000 bu a year ago. The Illinois state bulletin said planting was discontinued in some sections because the ground was too dry. Clearances were 537,000 bu. Export sales at the seaboard were 144,000 bu. Bradstreet's reported a decrease of 1,342,000 bu east of the Rockies for the week, compared with a decrease of 1,008,000 bu last year.

Oats Shorts Cover.

Oats were a shade easier early on reports of showers in Central Illinois, but turned all the stronger later on the announcement that the showers had passed away without doing any good. The continued drought in Illinois and the east and the reports that oats were heading low and looking poor induced covering on a large scale, and there was a sharp advance of ⅝c to ¾c in the deferred futures, July selling up to 34c and September up to 31¼c and closing there. Small receipts and good cash demand from the east were bull factors. Shipping sales, including some late Monday, were 300,000 bu. There were 243 cars in, with 12 standard, from all sources, and 80 estimated for today. Local stocks of standard increased 24,000 bu for the week, to 323,000 bu, total stocks in all positions decreasing 245,000 bu, to 1,490,000 bu. Bradstreet's reported a decrease of 1,079,000 bu east of the Rockies, compared with a decrease of 193,000 bu last year. Clearances were 342,000 bu, export sales at the seaboard, 80,000 bu.

Pork Prices Sharply Higher.

Shorts did some active scrambling for about all the pork deliveries, making the May 15c higher, the July 57½c up, and the September 20c better. The July, which closed Monday at $17.15, sold up to $17.90, but reacted to a close at $17.72½. The opening was only 2½c higher than the previous close, but brokers said to be representing Cudahy became active almost immediately and bid the price up rapidly. Sales, however, were quite a way apart. The conditions which makes shorts nervous are the small stocks and the fact that no more contract pork will be made in time for July delivery. Lard was 22½c up on the May and 10c on other deliveries. Ribs were also 10@12½c higher, with a good trade in all products. Hog receipts were 17,000, with 27,000 estimated for today; at western packing points 71,900 as compared with 65,500 a year ago. Shipments of cured meats were 1,450,000 lbs, as compared with 3,077,000 lbs last year and of lard 988,000 lbs, against 916,000 lbs last year.

Rye was steady and about featureless market, the May 50c bid and the July 50½c bid, offered at 50⅝c. Receipts were only 8 cars.

There was a continued steady tone to barley, though buyers were less anxious to take offerings. Inspection was 33 cars. Screenings were salable at 30@38c for common to good, feed at 38@41c, low grade malting 43@47c, fair to good 49@53c, and choice to fancy 54@56c.

Timothy seed was steady and about unchanged, September at $3.40 bid and $3.50 asked. The outside was the quotation on contract. Clover seed was inactive at $11.50@11.75 for contract and $8.75 for October.

Flaxseed was only a nominal market. No. 1 northwestern $1.16, southwestern $1.11, May $1.11 bid and July $1.14 bid. Receipts were 2 cars here, 13 at Minneapolis, and 21 at Duluth.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

It was harder than ever for the wheat trader yesterday to make up his mind as to the real condition of the growing winter wheat crop. Early weakness in St. Louis and early selling by St. Louis houses here was taken as a confession that the crop damage motive had been played to the limit. But subsequent events altered this impression sharply, and, while St. Louis advanced ½c for the day on crop damage claims, which came chiefly from that market, the local market did twice as well. The most serious claim of deterioration was that of W. L. Green, head of a large cash house at St. Louis, who made the following statement on the strength of reports from his traveling men: "Tabulated reports of winter wheat crop from all states except Indiana and Ohio makes 60 per cent of a crop, and still deteriorating on account of rust and fly." A message from the Lewisburg Milling company from Lewisburg, Ky., said: "Wheat going back daily on account of rust and fly. Kentucky and Tennessee will not raise half a crop." The Illinois crop bulletin stating that wheat had improved some in central Illinois, but the average was only fair and greatly reduced in the southern section by fly, bugs, and drought increased the buying fervor. An early Kansas City message to Logan-Bryan said: "There are a few spots in Kansas reporting damage by Hessian fly. It is not generally thought here that damage amounts to much. We have had twelve to fifteen letters from reliable people in the worst localities, and the fact seems to be that some fields are badly injured and others in the same localities fine. My own opinion is the damage as a whole will not cut much figure, and that Kansas will have more wheat than it ever raised in any previous year."

Capt. Phillips wired his friends here from Newton, Kas.: "All crops in this section look well. Fly in some fields, but seems to be growing nicely. Around Halstead, Kas., plowing up some wheat, which, if left standing, I think, would make 15 or 20 bu." The trade was more impressed with the plowing up of wheat fields than with the glowing opinion of the crop.

A. I. Valentine is wearing a new fob chain composed of gold coins of the United States, England, France, and Germany, linked together, the gift of a broker who intended it to typify the "all kinds of money" the Armour house has been taking out of the wheat pit.

Broomhall's summary of foreign crop conditions, published yesterday, covers more important European countries as follows: "United kingdom—Outlook is less favorable, owing to the weather being too cold. France—Crops are improving, but more heat is wanted. There are still complaints of backward growth and the plant being thin. Russia—Some important districts in the southwest and southeast are still suffering from drought. Elsewhere conditions are favorable. Roumania—Timely rains have fallen, improving crop conditions. Prospects excellent. Germany—Weather during the last week has generally been satisfactory. Crop conditions have improved, but are progressing slowly."

July Pork Shorts Run In.

Shorts in the July pork delivery were an extremely nervous lot yesterday and bid the price up sharply in order to cover a few sales. At one time the July was 75c higher than it closed on Monday. In the pit the market appeared to reflect a bullish attitude on the part of the three largest interests—Cudahy, Armour, and Swift—the strongest combination that could possibly come into the market. Back of this price making trio is the fact that pork stocks are small, less than 20,000 brls May 1, and the further fact that no more will be made and cured in time for July delivery, bacuse it pays to much better to make ribs.

News came from Toledo yesterday that the national Milling company had chartered a vessel to load a cargo of 104,000 bu choice red winter wheat to come to Chicago. It was assumed this had been bought by some cash interest here to make contract wheat with, but there was a report that the Toledo mill was short in this market and was sending the wheat to fill May sales.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 10 cars; corn, 100 cars; oats, 80 cars; hogs, 27,000.

Thompson, Sons & Co. wire Harris-Gates from Winnipeg: "We were having a bad spell of dry, hot, windy weather up till yesterday noon, when a fine change began to take place, and for the last twenty-four hours we have had good showers, with a clouded sky and moist atmosphere. It looks as if the dry spell in the northwest was effectually broken for the present. If such weather continues for forty-eight to seventy-two hours it will thoroughly repair any damage that may have been done. In fact, the unfavorable weather has hardly lasted long enough to do any real damage. The crop, however, may have a good deal to go through before it comes to harvest, and a favorable spell now does not necessarily mean a bumper crop, or even an average field. In the meantime, the change, if it lasts, will cause incipient murmurs of complaint to turn into reports of fine promise, and to that extent may have effect as a market influence."

Deliveries yesterday were 85,000 bu wheat, 45,000 bu corn, 30,000 bu oats, 50,000 bu short ribs.

Broomhall cables: "The easy tone of wheat at Liverpool was on more favorable reports from Russia and pressure of Manitoba wheat. Paris, weather brilliant, cool; Berlin, fine."

The directors acted favorably on a proposition to make No. 1 and 2 hard wheat deliverable on contracts and will today post it for ballot.

An elevator "merger" affecting Chicago and Toledo interests will go into effect on or before July 1. The combine will take over the control of the grain elevators heretofore operated by Paddock, Hodges & Co. of Toledo, the Churchill-White Grain company and Churchill & Co. of this city. The new corporation, capitalized at $500,000 under New Jersey laws, will control about fifty elevators, principally at Toledo, South Bend, Buffalo, Chicago, and on the line of the Clover Leaf road in Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa. Paddock, Hodges & Co. are about ten years old, while the Churchill-White company has been in business four years and Churchill & Co. about twenty-five years. Headquarters of the new corporation will be in Chicago.

PRODUCE LIST ABOUT STEADY.

Staples Show Little Price Change—Big Falling Off in Supplies of Strawberries.

The produce list was subject to moderate buying yesterday, but prices were about as previously quoted. Extra creamery butter was a shade lower, though dairy grades were firm. The egg list was unchanged. Potatoes maintained Monday's advance. Only about 10 cars of strawberries were received, the result of rainy and bad weather conditions throughout the southern states. The fresh vegetable list was easier.

Prices on round lots ranged as follows:

Name of Western State Bank to Be Changed to Western Trust and Savings Bank and Larger Charter Powers Acquired — Otis, Wilson & Co. Will Consolidate with Institution and Joseph E. Otis Will Become Vice President.

For the year ended March 31, 1903, the gross sales of the United States Rubber company were $51,888,756, against $45,917,536 the previous year, or an increase of 13 per cent.

Net sales, including miscellaneous goods, were $28,276,630, against $25,436,150 the previous year, being an increase of 11.2 per cent.

The annual meeting of the company was held in New Jersey yesterday, and, according to the report of President Colt, the last season was what is termed "a good rubber winter." Prices for the output, however, ruled about the same as the previous year, and were so low that five companies manufacturing rubber boots and shoes failed or retired from business.

The income account for the year shows that the company earned over and above all expenses of every kind, including all interest charges, $1,342,448, against $119,495, an increase of $1,222,953, or 123 per cent.

The company this year discontinues the publication of the general balance sheet and income account of the United States Rubber company, separately from its subsidiary companies, because of the tendency to confusion when both were presented. The consolidated alone is shown. However, President Colt says the deficit shown last year by the United States Rubber company, taken by itself, "has been more than overcome by the earnings of this year."

The net earnings were equal to 5.70 per cent on the preferred stock. The statement, however, sets forth that out of these earnings $1,000,000 of the funding notes were purchased by the company and delivered to the Morton Trust company, trustee, and canceled. The net earnings, less the $1,000,000, were equal to 1.45 per cent on the preferred stock.

Western State to Change Name.

With the increase of the capital of the Western State bank from $500,000 to $1,000,000 the name of the institution will be changed to the Western Trust and Savings bank. The incorporation of the word "trust" will give a broader meaning to the bank's title, and also indicates the ambitious plans ahead for the development of the institution. To further this object the Western Trust and Savings bank will be incorporated with larger charter powers than the present bank. Its capital will be $1,000,000. These shares will be exchanged for those of the Western State, and the latter will be retired. In this manner larger charter powers will be conferred, the name changed, and the capital increased at the same time on July 1.

The business of the firm of Otis, Wilson & Co. will be merged with that of the bank on July 1. Joseph E. Otis Jr. and Walter H. Wilson will become members of the board of directors, and Mr. Otis, it is understood, will become vice president of the bank, assuming active duties in the direction of its affairs. The bond department, now operated by Otis, Wilson & Co., will become a distinct feature of the Western Trust and Savings bank.

The new capital of $500,000 will be sold to stockholders at 110, thus adding $50,000 to the surplus account. It is also proposed that present shareholders of the Western State shall relinquish their rights to subscription to one-half the amount of new stock in order that it may be placed with interests it is desired to have connected with the bank. Practically all of the stockholders who it was desired should relinquish 50 per cent of their rights have already done so.

The special meeting of the shareholders to vote on the capital increase has been called for June 18. The books will close on that date and remain closed until June 25, and in that period present shareholders may subscribe for the unrelinquished portion of their stock. The subscriptions will be payable $10.00 at the date of subscription and the remaining $100,000 on June 30.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, and Securities in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, May 19.—Rates for money had a hardening tendency in the market today in consequence of heavy repayments to the bank of England. Discounts were inclined to be easier, owing to the resumption of continental bill buying. Operators on the stock exchange were idle, prices were irregular, and business generally had an unfavorable tendency. Consols and other first class securities were weak. Americans were heavy in sympathy with New York at opening but later became steadier.

THIS ZINC MINE

Will Clear $500 A Week

The Venture Mine has been placed in our hands for a quick sale at $12,000. This property is in the heart of the celebrated Carterville-Prosperity Camp, and is surrounded by big paying mines—the famous "Lucky Budge" lying just east of it, and the "Mount Ararat" and "Katy C." but a few hundred feet south and west.

This offer includes the Mine, Mill, and Leasehold on fourteen lots, which is an unusually large tract in this camp. There are two shafts in good ore, and the mill is of 100 tons daily capacity, worth alone fully $6,000.

The trouble with this property has been lack of power, and whoever buys it should immediately install another 80 h. p. boiler and put in a larger pump, which improvements will cost about $1,500. This mine should then clear at least $500 a week from the day it starts, and there is no reason why it should not clear $800 to $1,000 weekly, as it is both a zinc and lead producer.

Full particulars furnished to responsible persons, and we will pay all expenses of any one coming here to investigate this property if it is not found as represented in every respect.

STOCK DECLINE CHECKED.

AGREEMENT BY LEADING INTERESTS PUT INTO EFFECT.

Entire List Is Advanced from General Decline of Previous Day — Higher Range Maintained to Close, When Many Early Buyers Are Satisfied to Realize a Point or More Advance —Investment Demand from London Is Noticeably Large.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, May 19.—[Special.]—The recovery in today's market was at once natural and expected. While it was not generally known, it is a fact that the leading financial interests who recently had done nothing in the market agreed over night to unite to check, temporarily, at least, the decline in values which at Monday's close threatened to work to the demoralization of the entire list. Then, too, some of the more prominent bears were disposed to believe they had too much following on the short side, and for that reason were desirous of "shaking out" these followers.

Between bankers buying and forced purchases for the short account the market enjoyed a fairly substantial rally. The greater part of it was maintained until the close, and in the late trading there appeared, as there always does in such a market, some considerable profit taking sales by interests who bought at the low figures of the morning and who saw a profit of a point or more before the day was over.

In addition, some bears took fresh courage, and on the advance put out a line of stock, following it up with the circulation of a report of further forced liquidation shortly to be seen. Under all circumstances it was thought that the market had behaved and held well.

Perhaps as interesting a development of the day as any was the appearance of investment demand in the market on a larger scale than in any time for some weeks. This showed not only in the stock department, but in the bond department, with the new steel trust bonds in exceptional demand. In this connection it is worth recording that London investors are now taking a decided interest in Americans, and it can be stated as a fact that the present week will see some fairly large transfers to London of American stocks split up into ten share lots. Private cable advices were to the effect that London operators are more hopeful in respect to the American situation. Purchases from that source totaled probably 25,000 shares, partly investment and partly speculative. This brings London's total purchases in this market last week up to fully 125,000 shares.

Purchases of St. Paul, New York Central, and Union Pacific, which started the upward movement in those stocks in the market, were generally declared to come from banking interests connected with the properties. In like manner insiders were supporting Rock Island, Missouri Pacific, and Southern railway.

The failure of People's Gas shares generally to rally was due to reports from Chicago that a general strike of the company's employés was threatened, as well as to the knowledge of the fact that a 25,000 share stock pool had just been dissolved at a loss after an unsuccessful effort to mark up prices. The strike situation, however, was the chief factor in keeping the issue down, this showing itself not so much in a pressure to sell as an unwillingness to buy.

A determined effort was made to break Atchison when in the early trading a block of 10,000 shares was thrown upon the market. The only effect was a temporary recession, following which the issue promptly rallied 1½ points, closing ¾ point above the low for the day.

A 12 point decline in Metropolitan West Side Elevated of Chicago on a forced sale of 100 shares is said to have no significance, as the stock is seldom traded in here. The last sale of a full lot was in February at 34½. Today's figure was 22½.

Buying of Pennsylvania today was by Philadelphia houses lately bearish on the stock. It is said a net gain of approximately $500,000 will probably be shown by the company for the operations of its eastern lines for the month of April.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Receipts of Cattle 2,500 and Reports of 18,000 for Today Indicate a Fall of Prices.

Receipts at the stockyards yesterday included 2,500 cattle, 17,000 hogs, and 7,000 sheep. The market for cattle was dull at the extreme decline of Monday.. Hogs opened fairly active and steady, but closed on a down turn of fully 5c to 10c. A few choice sheep sold steady, but lambs were generally lower and dull.

Reports from the three principal roads indicate 18,000 cattle for Wednesday, 25,000 hogs, and 15,000 sheep. The market is not in condition to carry so large a run of cattle as these reports would indicate. There are fully 4,000 cattle here left over from Monday's bad market. The export demand is sure to be slack and with local slaughterers well filled up out of the enormous Monday run, a liberal run for tomorrow will certainly result disastrously to the selling interest.

The following is a statement of the movement of live stock at the Chicago stockyards for the period indicated, with comparative figures. Today's receipts and shipments are estimated:

Cattle.

While there were 7,000 unsold cattle, stale and fresh receipts included, on the market of Tuesday, there were not over 2,500 on sale, as the holdover stock from Monday was mostly kept under cover and not offered on the market. The demand was utterly indifferent and trade of a purely peddling character on a basis of about Monday's decline, with sales largely between $4.40 and $4.85, the latter the top for the day. A few Kentucky experiment station cattle were on the market and sold at $4.65 to $4.85. Cows, heifers, and bulls met slow sale at steady values—a few strictly fancy heifers going to the butcher trade at prices as good as prevailed for the same kind late last week, but in the main the market for all the stock outside from these fancy kinds showed a decline of around 10c for the week to date. The supplies of calves are not as heavy as they were a short time ago and the market shows a decided tendency to firm up, the bulk of good veals selling at $6.25, against $5.75 to $6.00 one week ago.

Hogs.

The market for hogs opened steady at the Monday closing basis, but in the absence of shipping orders the local trade went on a bear raid and forced a decline of 5c to 10c from opening prices, the market closing weak at this decline. Quality of the hogs was not as good as Monday, although a few loads as prime as anything here lately were seen. Top sale for the day at $6.80 was same as top on Monday, and a few sales were made at around $6.70 to $6.72, but later in the day one of the local houses put up a string of prime strong weights at $6.65 that were as good as bought by the same house on Monday at $6.75. Market has a weak look.

Good to choice, 245@400 lbs.	$6.65@6.80

Sheep.

A few choice heavy weight sheep sold at steady prices, but in the main the market had a dull, independent tone, with a tendency to lower values, lambs selling fully 10c lower than on the previous day, with choice clipped stock at $7.00, and some prime wooled Colorados unsold at a late hour, with bids around $7.25. A strike in the Armour sheep house early in the day was a factor in causing a slow market, as this house had no way to take care of stock, and suspended purchases for the day.

SAYS GERMS LIVE IN RIVERS.

Sanitary Expert from Boston Gives Evidence in St. Louis Hearing on Canal.

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—Prof. William Sedgwick, sanitary expert from Boston, testifying in the Chicago drainage canal hearing today, held that running water unless it underwent a thorough filtration process was liable to convey disease germs from an infected water shed. Prof. Sedgwick's testimony was strongly corroborative of the contentions of the St. Louis authorities as to the dangerous effect of the drainage canal upon the water supply of the city.

Rock Island meals best on wheels

"During the course of my business I have had occasion to travel over the greater part of the United States, and I am very well acquainted with the service given by all the limited trains on the various roads. I recently had occasion to travel on the Rock Island from Chicago, and I wish to say that the service on Dining Car 701 is, in my judgment, the best that I have ever seen, both in the quality of the fare and the character of the service. As I realize the difficulty of conducting such service satisfactorily to all, I have felt that it is only just to commend, in this case, where such commendation is certainly merited."

It is only necessary to add that the Rock Island operates dining-cars between

OIL TRUST HELD TO DO NO WRONG.

John D. Rockefeller Denies Recent Charges Against Big Corporation.

DECLARES METHODS FAIR

Head of Standard Company Says the Combines Are of Benefit to Workingmen.

"Last March, while on my way from Los Angeles to San Francisco, I had occasion to stop over a few days at Santa Barbara," says H. Gaylord Wilshire in Wilshire's Magazine. Just at that time John D. Rockefeller had also showed his good judgment in picking out Santa Barbara to get his needed 'rest.' Mr. Rockefeller, I may say in the first place, was not by any means the physical wreck that some people like to make him out. I sat at the next table to him, and can vouch for the strength and variety of his appetite. His color was good and he looked a fairly healthy man for his age, 64, with the exception that he had lost every spear of hair from his head and face.

"He was most affable and approachable to every one, and seemed to make a point of going the rounds every day with a glad hand out for every one. His interest in life seemed to be centered on the game of golf. Knowing that his nervous system was so wrecked that he would not care to burden his mind with anything strenuous, I really felt conscience stricken in ever departing from the subjects of the weather and golf in my talks with him. However, one day I did bring up the subject of trusts.

"He listened with interest to my exposition of the socialist philosophy regarding monopoly, and said: 'Well, Mr. Wilshire, I can't speak as to other trusts, but certainly as far as the Standard is concerned overproduction of oil led to the formation of the trust. We were producing three times as much oil as could be sold, and the trade was in a bad way. The trust resulted in the greatest benefit to the refiners, and at the same time the general public were also benefited by getting lower prices.'

Says None Was Forced to Sell.

"Mr. Rockefeller inquired if I had read the articles by Miss Tarbell upon the Standard Oil trust, now running in McClure's Magazine. 'All without foundation,' he said; 'the idea of the Standard forcing any one to sell his refinery to it is absurd. The refiners wanted to sell to us, and nobody that has sold and worked with us but has made money and is glad he did so.'

"'Now you, Mr. Wilshire, are personally acquainted with so and so (mentioning men, our mutual friends, interested in the trust), and you know that such honorable men would not do anything maliciously to injure any one. You know they all did well by coming into the trust. I can tell you that every one else has done well that came in with us. It's absurd to say the Standard forced the refiners into the trust. They were only too glad to come in, and they all made money by coming in. Natural conditions would have ruined us all if we had not formed a combination.

"'I thought once of having an answer made to the McClure articles,' continued Mr. Rockefeller, 'but you know it has always been the policy of the Standard to keep silent under attack and let our acts speak for themselves, and I suppose it is the best policy for us to continue upon that line, don't you, Mr. Wilshire?'

"I was quite overcome with confusion at having the richest man in the world seek the advice of a socialist upon a question of personal conduct, and could do no more than blurt out a general assent to his position.

Problem of the Unemployed.

"'Don't you think, Mr. Rockefeller,' said I, 'that since the trust is, according to your own theory, a result of overproduction, it means we are approaching a time when the general stoppage of this unnecessary production by the trusts will have a tendency to create an unemployed problem?'

"'No,' said Mr. Rockefeller, 'I think the trust, by regulating industry and systematizing business, will help keep up this present prosperity. We have never had such a period in the history of the country before, and yet there never were so many trusts, hence it cannot be said that trusts prevent prosperity. There are less unemployed men than ever known in the history of the country. And, anyway, since we are both agreed that an anti-trust law is absurd, since it is attempting to prevent the consequences of overproduction, how would you propose to solve the trust problem?'

"'Yes, Mr. Rockefeller, I am as much aware of the futility of anti-trust laws as you are. The socialist remedy for the trust is government ownership.'

"'Do you think the government could run the Standard as well as we run it?' asked Mr. Rockefeller.

Results of Competitive System.

"I would not be positive that the state could run the trusts any better than you and Mr. Morgan do, speaking from the standpoint of industrial efficiency, but government ownership is a necessary basis for the operation of the coöperative wage system, which must supersede the present competitive system to allow us to escape an unemployed problem, which is simply the result of competition among laborers, forcing wages down so low that the laborer cannot buy what he produces.'

"'But we have no "unemployed question." We never had such a demand for labor before,' returned Mr. Rockefeller.

"'Yes, that is true,' said I, 'but I am looking into the future, and I can see an inevitable unemployed problem looming up there. The trust is meeting a present emergency, but it is only a temporary stopgap, and it is not in the least going to be able to solve the unemployed problem of the future.'

"'Well, Mr. Wilshire, I am not looking ahead so far as you are. Business is today good, and I think it will continue so. If it does not, then we must let the future settle its own problems.'"

WEATHER AIDS THE CROPS

WARM TEMPERATURE IN NORTH IS DOING MUCH GOOD.

Lack of Rain in Some Sections Is Beginning to Cause Alarm, but Conditions Generally Are Satisfactory—Cool Spell in the South Retards Growth of Cotton—Corn Planting Progresses Well—Weekly Report by the Government Bureau.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—In the weekly crop report of the weather bureau issued today is the following general summary:

All the northern and central districts east of the Rocky mountains experienced highly favorable temperatures during the week ending May 18, the central valleys, the lake region, and New England receiving ample and much needed warmth, while in the southern states it was too cool for favorable growth. General absence of rain in New England and the middle Atlantic states and over a large part of the lake region and the Ohio valley has intensified the drought in these districts, in consequence of which crops have made slow progress and planting and germination have been hindered greatly.

The east gulf states and portions of the lower Missouri and lower Mississippi valleys have suffered from excessive rains. On the Pacific coast the week was cool, with no rain over the greater part of California. There were generally good rains in Washington, with light showers over a large part of Oregon, but more rain is needed in the last named state.

Corn planting has been further delayed by rains in the states of the lower Missouri valley and by drought in the Ohio valley, the middle Atlantic states, and in portions of the lake region. Planting is well advanced in the Dakotas, and notwithstanding the wet soil in Iowa and Missouri, it has been pushed vigorously in those states, where it is germinating satisfactorily. In Nebraska, the Ohio valley, and middle Atlantic states a large part of the crop is yet to be planted, not more than half the area having been seeded in Ohio and Nebraska.

Winter Wheat in West Good.

Winter wheat has made favorable progress in Nebraska and Kansas and has been improved by rains in portions of Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, and Kentucky, but in southern Missouri and states northward of the Ohio river and in the middle Atlantic states the crop has suffered further deterioration. It is heading as far north as central Kansas and the southern portions of Indiana and Ohio.

In the spring wheat region weather conditions have been highly favorable for germination and growth of spring wheat, which is coming up to good stands with vigorous plants. In the northern Rocky mountain states the growth of spring wheat has been slow; in Washington and Oregon the outlook is promising.

In the Missouri valley, Oklahoma, and Texas general improvement in the condition of oats is indicated, but in the Ohio valley, the middle Atlantic states, and the greater part of the lake region the condition of the crop is less favorable, owing to the effects of the drought.

Cold in South Hurts Cotton.

There is general complaint throughout the cotton belt of the unfavorable effects of low temperatures on cotton. Good stands as a rule are reported in the central district, but in the eastern and western portions the stands are irregular and much replanting will be necessary. The crop is generally late, warmth and sunshine being much needed.

Considerable tobacco has been transplanted in Tennessee and western Kentucky, but elsewhere there has been no opportunity for setting, owing to the dryness. The plants are generally plentiful, but now are overgrown in some states.

Further improvement in the outlook for apples is indicated, but the prospects for most other tree fruits are poor.

The grass crop in the Ohio valley, the lake region, the middle Atlantic states, and New England is much in need of rain, but westward of the Mississippi it has made rapid growth and is in a promising condition.

Reports from Many States.

Among the telegraphic reports received by the bureau are the following from the states of the middle west:

Kentucky—Dry in central and eastern portions, moderate showers in western sections; temperature above normal; wheat shows some improvement, especially in western section; corn planting nearly completed and coming up fairly well.

Missouri—Warmer, with much needed shower; corn planting progressed favorably, except in southwest, where greatly delayed; corn coming up well in north; much complaint of poor stands south; cultivation begun; some cotton replanted; wheat improved.

Illinois—Rain revived vegetation in portions of central and southern districts the first of the week; great need of rain in other sections; plowing and planting retarded or arrested on account of dry soil; deterioration of wheat continues in the southern districts; oats uneven, general condition unfavorable; meadows and pastures short and need rain.

Indiana—Temperature considerably above normal; no rain except light local showers in a few places; corn planting well advanced, but ground dry, hard, and cloddy; oats and clover suffering for rain; wheat, rye, and barley in fair condition and beginning to head in south section; tobacco plants ready to transplant.

Ohio—The temperature is excessive; drought continues; the ground is so dry plowing and corn planting is almost suspended; not more than half the corn area is planted; wheat is holding its own well and heading in the south; a little rust is reported in the south and central counties; oats, barley, pastures, meadow, grass, and gardens are suffering for rain; tobacco plants doing fairly well; apples, cherries, plums, and peaches dropping.

Too Dry in Michigan.

Michigan—In the lower peninsula warm and dry weather retarded growth and germination; soil is dry and becoming parched; corn planting and beet seeding general, but germination is slow; winter wheat, rye, oats, meadows, and pastures are slow and much in need of rain; prospect for early peaches, early cherries, and strawberries is fair; apples, plums, and pears are blossoming plentifully.

Wisconsin—Warm weather caused vegetation to progress rapidly; corn ground is prepared and about one-fourth of the acreage planted, with soil in fair condition; oats, barley, and spring wheat in the high land are excellent, on the low land thin and uneven; winter wheat and rye are strong and healthy and growing rapidly; clover and timothy promise heavy crops; fruit trees are blooming heavily; strawberries are injured by frost in the exposed localities.

Minnesota—Rains in the south till the 12th delayed corn, potatoes, flax, and barley seeding considerably; rain on the 11th in the central portion delayed work, but was beneficial to the growing and recently seeded grains, warmer weather the latter part of the week made all grains, pastures, and meadows grow rapidly.

Iowa—The week was warmer than usual and all vegetation made rapid growth; excessive rain retarded field work in about two-thirds of the state, but wherever practicable plowing and planting were pushed vigorously; in the most favored sections corn planting is well advanced and germination satisfactory; reports are fairly good as to the apple and berry crops.

North Dakota—Wheat seeding is finished; oats and barley nearly all are sown; flax seeding and corn planting are well advanced; early sown grain is up, growing rapidly, and looks strong and healthy; warmer weather, with showers, greatly improved crop conditions.

South Dakota—It was a warm week, with beneficial rains in the southeast portion; grass, spring wheat, oats, barley, and rye are making satisfactory advancement; wheat generally is attaining a good stand; corn planting is becoming general and advancing favorably; flax is being sown; grass affords good pasturage.

Nebraska—Warm week, with excess of rain in eastern counties; wheat and grass grew rapidly and continues in excellent condition; oats is improved, corn planting is greatly delayed by wet weather, generally less than half a crop is planted; some early planted corn is up.

LINCOLN PARK MASHERS FINED.

Justice Gibbons Taxes Eight Young Men Five Dollars Each on Complaint of Women.

Eight alleged "mashers," arrested in Lincoln park Monday evening, were arraigned before Justice Gibbons in the East Chicago avenue police court yesterday. The magistrate fined them $5 and costs each. Two of the defendants were prosecuted by Miss Bessie Cuthbert and Miss Minnie Meyers, both of whom live at 460 Dearborn avenue. The other six were arrested by Lincoln park policemen on the complaint of a number of women who said the defendants had accosted them. The names given by the mashers are James Cummings, Charles McCollins, Walter Dunmar, M. Carroll, Ralph Thompson, Fred Ohnert, W. Tagell, and William C. Rohan.

UNDERWRITERS MEET TODAY: MUSHAM REPORT NOT READY.

Chicago Fire Department May Be Discussed, However—Stockyards Rates Probably Will Be Advanced.

While the condition of the fire department may come up incidentally at the adjourned quarterly meeting of the Chicago Underwriters' association this afternoon, there will be no report from the committee on the status of the department, which is to be a permanent body hereafter. The committee voted not to report till the latter part of the week, and, aside from that, its members are still too far apart to report, but with the friends of Musham in the majority. It has been practically decided that the report will make no recommendations as to persons in the department, devoting itself to conditions and recommended changes.

It is probable the stockyards rates will be the principal subject discussed. Five months ago a committee was appointed to prepare a new schedule, but the results of its work were not entirely satisfactory, although it did what was wanted in advancing rates. It is now believed that the single occupancy manufacturing schedule will be applied to the yards, with such charges for the various occupancies as will suit the rate to the peculiar conditions prevailing there. The schedule will penalize the large open areas, and will encourage the construction of more section walls with automatic fire doors. The result will be an increase over the prevailing rates.

An important agency change was undergoing the final touches last night, and is expected to be ready for announcement today.

A special meeting of the Chicago Underwriters' association will be held this morning to take action on the death at New York on Monday of Morgan S. Woodward, representative there of the Gans Salvage bureau of this city. Mr. Woodward retired last year as manager of the Western Adjustment bureau of Chicago to take this new position, and had been for many years prominent in the west as special agent and adjuster. His death resulted from pneumonia.

INSURANCE ADJUSTERS MEET.

Secret Session of Special Agents and Others Is Held at Peoria—Many Companies Represented.

Peoria, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—The Illinois Field club, composed of special agents and insurance adjusters of nonunion companies, held its regular monthly meeting here today. There were about thirty present. L. S. Mac Enaney of Chicago is president of the club and C. C. Meeker of Chicago is secretary. L. C. Funkhouser of Chicago said tonight:

"The men represented in the organization are compelled to get together, for the state board of insurance allows them little quarter. It is a case of self-protection, and the business considered today is of such a nature that we cannot divulge it at this time."

The action of the state board in reducing rates on dwellings in fifth and sixth class towns was approved after discussion. The annual meeting will be held in Chicago in June.

The companies represented at the meeting were: German, Freeport; Concordia, Milwaukee; Agricultural, Watertown, N. Y.; Girard, Philadelphia; Germania, Pittsburg; Potomac, Washington; American, New Jersey; Security, Connecticut; Spring Garden, Philadelphia.

MANY GUARDS AT HOWE TRIAL.

Five Deputies in Court Thought to Indicate Fear of Plot to Free Prisoner.

Unusual precautions are taken to guard former Constable Martin Howe, on trial in Judge Chetlain's court on a charge of murder. Two deputy sheriffs sit with the prisoner, two other deputies are seated near him, and a fifth deputy is stationed in the courtroom. No one in the prosecuting attorney's office will say that any plot to free the prisoner is feared, but the number of deputies is not accounted for. The killing of James F. Harty at Turner and Ogden avenues on Sept. 8, 1901, by Howe was described by witnesses. The hearing of evidence will end today, and tomorrow the arguments will be made.

DETECTIVE HAS LORAIN THEORY.

Says He Is Morally Sure He Knows Slayer of Miss Reichlin, but Lacks Convicting Proof.

Cleveland, O., May 19.—Detective Jacob Mintz, who is working on the mysterious Reichlin murder case at Lorain, said today: "I feel almost positive that I know the person who murdered Miss Reichlin. Unfortunately, however, the evidence is of such a nature that it might fail to convict." Mintz returns to Lorain this evening to continue work on the case.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

IMPORTANT REDUCTIONS TO PACIFIC COAST POINTS.

Lower Rates Ordered by James J. Hill Recently Include More than 500 Commodities and Make Vital Changes—Small Dealers in Particular Will Be Benefited—Full Importance of the Frisco-Rock Island Deal Just Becoming Evident.

The reduction in commodity rates between the Atlantic coast and Puget Sound points recently ordered by James J. Hill of the Great Northern for the benefit of small dealers on the North Pacific coast is of much greater importance than was at first supposed. Tariffs received here yesterday show a large reduction on more than 500 coast commodities. Formerly the rate on canned corn, one of the heaviest commodities shipped to Seattle and Washington common points, was 95 cents a 100 pounds from the Atlantic coast, and from the Missouri river it was 85 cents. The new rate is commonly designated in railroad circles as the "postage stamp." It makes a flat tariff of 75 cents for canned corn from both the Atlantic coast and the Missouri river markets. Small dealers frequently wish to order from eastern markets in less than carload lots, and in the new tariff, put in for their benefit, there is a greater saving allowed. For instance, on corn sirup, glucose, molasses, etc., the tariff formerly was $1.70 flat a 100 pounds from all eastern and central markets. The new schedule puts a graded rate as follows: From New York and Atlantic coast points, $1.40; Pittsburg to Chicago, $1.35; from Chicago, $1.25; Mississippi river points, $1.20, and Missouri river points, $1.10.

Purport of the Frisco Deal.

Railroad officials are beginning to realize that the acquisition of the St. Louis and San Francisco by the Rock Island is an important step in a carefully laid plan by the Moores to connect their system with all the important gateways, and thereby become one of the important factors in the traffic originating in the territory west of Chicago and St. Louis. In the development of the plan the Frisco road plays an important part because it will give the Rock Island an important gulf outlet at New Orleans, and will make connection between certain gateways which were needed to round out the system. No question of traffic can arise now between Chicago and St. Louis, or any part of the southwestern territory in which the Rock Island will not be an important factor to be reckoned with. The Rock Island now has a territory west of the Mississippi river, which is fully 1,500 miles long and 1,000 miles wide, to draw from. It now has terminals at Chicago, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Memphis, St. Louis, Omaha, Galveston, and New Orleans, and this enables the road to take the important traffic of the country through which the system runs.

Gross Earnings Show Increase.

Gross earnings of forty-seven roads for the first week of May were $9,482,925, against $8,195,852 in 1902, an increase of $1,287,073. Forty-three roads show increases and four decreases. Since July 1 the roads have earned $425,892,373, an increase of $41,692,268 over last year.

Gross earnings of the Chicago Great Western for the second week of May show an increase of $23,121 over last year. The total increase for the first two weeks of May amounts to $37,305.

Announcements of Reduced Rates.

The Alton gave notice yesterday of its intention to take independent action in placing in effect reduced rates for Decoration day. It will make a rate of a fare and a third for the round trip with a maximum of $3 between points in Illinois and Missouri less than 100 miles apart, and a rate of one fare for the round trip between points outside of the 100 mile radius and within a radius of 150 miles. Tickets at these rates will be sold May 29 and 30, good to return to June 1.

Notice was given by the Rock Island yesterday that it will participate in a rate of one fare for the round trip from points in Texas to Chicago for the summer schools here in June. Tickets will be sold on June 13, with final return limits of Sept. 15.
